

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

アリス

Alice

Habitat.....Unknown

Disposition.....Meek

Diet.....Men's mana

A type of succubus that has the form of a very young girl. They're a race that arose from sudden mutation, so there are very few of them in existence. It is extremely rare to encounter one. While they are succubus type monsters, their bodies are always in a "virginal" state. They have almost no knowledge about sex, and they aren't even aware that men's mana is what they feed on. For that reason, even though they are a kind of succubus, they never attack humans. Their disposition is that of a very young human girl, or one even more pure, and more meek.

Guided by the instinct of the succubi, they appear and seek out men. As written above, they don't attack men. They act sweet just like children, and they just want to play together, but their bodies emit a subtle charm magic. Men who spend a lot of time around them end up assaulting them, offering up mana through sexual intercourse.

What is unique about this is, just after having sex with a man, their body returns to a "virginal" state, and they also lose their memory of what happened. However, their body unconsciously remembers the pleasure they received from the man, the taste of mana, the man's weak point, and the sexual techniques acquired during the encounter, and they also won't forget the parts of the conversation they had during sex that weren't directly related to sex. (For example suppose a man told an alice "I love you" during sex, even after the deed is done and she goes back to being a virgin, she'll still remember it, and she'll insist "me and onii-chan are lovers.")

And then, each time they have sex, due to their memory, their body will rapidly grow sensitive to pleasure. Naturally, their body will use the techniques learned, and they'll be able to milk even more mana out of the man.

Their feelings towards the man will rapidly build up, and as for their "virginity", at first they'll purely feel that they want to offer their virginity to the man, but then it will rapidly change into something wildly obscene. And then, they grow into even more powerful succubi, releasing even more powerful charm magic, and possessing superior techniques for pleasing men, while at the same time eternally remaining a pure, innocent little girl.

As was the case with the original type of succubus, men who continue to copulate with them will end up turning into "incubi". Unlike the succubus, the alice will not capture her man or take him off to a mamonon realm. However, men who become incubi are already obsessed with them. Protecting them, and giving them mana, will become their most important tasks.

On a different note, for some reason they like rabbits. When they spot a wererabbit (p.30) busily hopping around, they'll chase after her. Generally the wererabbit will notice along the way, and end up playing with the alice. This behavior can be seen in every alice, but the reason for it is still not completely understood.

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

アルフ

Alp

Habitat.....Unclear
Disposition....Varied (also lustful)
Diet.....Mana of human men

A peculiar kind of succubus unlike any other kind of monster. They were originally incubi who suddenly transformed into monsters. Normally, a human man can never become a monster. As of the present, there are no males among the monsters at all. When it comes down to it, an incubus is just a human warped by mamono mana. Due to the existence of mana, which human men continually produce, no matter how strong the mamono mana that's imbued in their body, human men remain human.

Alps are incubi that deep within their heart strongly desired to become a woman, or be with men, and used the mamono mana taken in upon becoming an incubus, which is normally used to boost their mana generation faculty, to instead destroy it. As a result, they're unable to produce mana, and they lose all their mana. Since they are left with only mamono mana stored in their body, they change into a monster. Even after becoming alps, their hearts, values, memories, and personalities, everything other than their bodies, is still the same from when they were men. Their body has completely changed into that of a woman, yet they self identify as men. They may not even be consciously aware of the desire to become a woman which changed them into an alp, or they may have been in denial, with the truth hidden away deep within their heart.

Thus they are shocked by the radical physical change, and there's a huge gap between it and their male hearts, which likely confuses them. Most of them would probably say "Having sex with a man like a monster is disgusting. Impossible. I hate this." However, once the monster's instinct begins to take root in their heart and body, they'll naturally be drawn to human men. The monster's instinct within them makes a rapid change, becoming bigger. The feeling of dissatisfaction due to not having obtained any mana will become unbearable, and they'll begin to strongly desire a human man. Eventually, they'll surely end up losing to the monster's instinct.

Once that happens, in a horribly confused state due to the gap between disgust and desire, they'll assault a man and have sex with him. When alps first taste the pleasure that women and monsters can obtain, which is so intense it's incomparable to what a man can experience, they may almost lose consciousness while shaking their hips without knowing what's going on. When the man's mana is released, and they experience ecstasy, they become enthralled by their first taste of female pleasure, and the taste of mana, which will be sweeter than anything they had ever eaten until then. They'll likely still be confused by the feelings in their own heart: "The man before my eyes wants more.", "I wanna have sex more." Then, when the heart of a man mixes together with the pleasure of a monster inside their head, while spending days in want, they'll end up attacking and having sex with a man again. While repeating this, eventually they'll lose all resistance to having sex and making love with men while still completely retaining their own self-awareness as a man even though they used to say they hated it so much. On the contrary, they'll come to seek sex on their own and enjoy the taste of pleasure and mana.

They were friends with other men before becoming an alp. Even after having sex over and over and completely falling in love with their human male partner, normally, they'll still treat him as a male friend, no different from how it was back in the old days. And then they'll start to tempt and have sex with the man as if it were a matter of course with the same feeling as inviting another male friend to hangout.

Additionally, there are also alps that awaken to the joy of being a woman through this process. In that case, the body changes, rapidly growing voluptuous to invite men, and the heart changes to be like that of a woman, resulting in an alp that's even more feminine than a real woman, and even more lewd and lustful than a succubus.

Amazoness

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

Habitat.....Forests

Disposition....Bold, lustful

Diet.....Human men's mana

A type of succubi that live deep in forests and establish peculiar villages. Originally they were just a tribe of only human women called "amazoness", but after the transition of power to the current mamono lord, they were invaded by the succubi, and almost all of them were converted into the succubus family. They've come to be regarded as a kind of monster in the current era.

They are all raised to be warriors from childhood. They possess excellent physical abilities and are proficient in the arts of war. Since their society consists mainly of women, their views of gender roles are the opposite of those of humans, so women take up arms and fight as warriors, while men are regarded as frail, and responsible for watching over the house and young children. Their duty is also to heal women who return exhausted from hunting or battle by having sex with them and providing mana. They periodically perform man hunts where they attack human settlements and capture men who strike their fancy, taking them back to the village as husbands. An amazoness who obtains a man in this way becomes considered an "adult" regardless of age, and is treated as a full-fledged warrior.

Having peculiar values, they prefer to have sex in front of other people and especially in the cowgirl position where the woman is on top. By showing off how they ravish their husband, they boast their strength to other amazoness and assert ownership over that man. Also, it is said another purpose of this is to inspire amazoness who don't have a man and have not yet come of age, serving as role models. When a new married couple is formed, this is always accompanied with a celebratory feast and the wife will continuously ravish her husband right there all night long while surrounded by many other amazoness. Young amazoness children get aroused at the sight of the adult warriors having sex with men, and they endeavor in their training to become fine warriors, dreaming of the day when they, too, can capture a man, get on top, and shake their hips, indulging in pleasure.

Also, if a human happens to wander into their village, if it's a man, then the fledgling amazoness will mark him as the target of a "man hunt" on the spot. If it's a woman, then she'll be captured, and in the same manner as a succubus, they will infuse her with mamono mana through sex, and she will be changed into an amazoness. Afterwards, she will be educated in the ways of the amazoness warriors, learning the arts of war, the roles of men and women that differ from the outside world, and how to ravish and please men, etc. Additionally, should a man and woman wander into the village together, the woman will be passionately welcomed as an excellent warrior candidate who has already captured a man and receive a thorough warrior's education.

Furthermore, as for their body paint that also looks like illustrations, they claim "it's a charm to draw out the power of a warrior." But actually, when the amazoness tribe changed from human to monster, they were taught of "pleasure runes (p. 186)" by the succubi who invaded their villages. After being inaccurately passed down, the runes ended up becoming altered.

Originally, the purpose was to amplify the pleasure of sex for the person with the runes engraved, so it was made so that the succubi could further enjoy sex, and had absolutely nothing to do with battle. If it had accurately been handed down, then the amazoness would now have pleasure runes engraved all over their body. With their entire body attacked by intense pleasure due to the excessive number of runes, they wouldn't even be able to do daily life activities, much less fight. Instead, they would be unable to think of anything but sex, and they'd end up shutting themselves in their homes constantly having sex with their husbands.

• Imp Family

• Demon Type

アーキインプ

Arch Imp

Habitat.....Demon Realm

Disposition....Simple, selfish

Diet.....Spirit energy of human men

A mutational variant of imp possessing vast demonic energy in her tiny body. Besides imps who mutated after storing up demonic energy due to frequent sex, there are those who were born as arch imps due to having powerful sorcerers or heroes as fathers. Their appearance is exactly the same as an imp, but the coloring of their wings and tail are paler, and some of their hair is dyed white. It's a distinguishing trait that can be seen in the demon lord and her daughters. It's regarded as an expression that they possess lots of the demon lord's demonic energy, and are closer to her than even among her own kin, the Inma⁽¹⁾. As inma, they possess vastly greater power than higher rank demons such as succubus, ect. They wield powerful charm spells and have excellent sexual techniques. However, they're only around as intelligent as the normal imp, so they're childish and simple, and they assault human men whenever the desire should arise. Additionally, many of them don't even realize that they're arch imps, and live among groups of imps.

Men afflicted with their charm spells start to find them unbearably cute, so cute that they want to spoil them. In that state, the men can hardly refuse when they "beg" for indecent acts, and most end up having sex with them just the way they want. In actuality, these charm spells are released unconsciously whenever they tempt a man, so they aren't aware that they're using magic themselves, and to them, "a nice man who will listen to whatever they ask, and do lots of stuff that feels good" is extremely attractive. They'll probably end up liking him in no time at all. The things they beg for from men they like end up becoming increasingly lewd. By having sex with one of the highest ranked inma a countless number of times, men will end up becoming their prisoners from the bottom of their hearts.

Furthermore, imps are often used as sorcerers' familiars, but when a sorcerer summons an imp, an arch imp may rarely appear. If he thinks it's an imp, and binds a master-servant contract, then at that point in time, a master-servant reversal will occur, and conversely, the sorcerer will end up becoming her familiar.

Due to their enormous demonic energy, arch imps have the power to change human women into monsters that normal imps do not possess. Since they're childish, they prefer playing with human children. If their partner is a girl, they teach them lots of the kind of pleasurable play that they personally love, and turn them into "imps" so that they can get off more when they play. If a single one of them slips into a human settlement, a moment later there will probably be a group of imps.

(1) Inma (淫魔). This is the Japanese word for succubus. However, the succubus race in Kenkou's universe is specifically referred to as "sakyubasu" (Katakana, English of "succubus"). Thus, it may seem strange that "imps" seem to be classified as "inma" but not "succubus".

• Succubus Family • Undead Type

Banshee

Habitat.....Cemeteries, human settlements

Disposition.....Gloomy, devoted

Diet.....The essence of human men

Monsters of dark, melancholic beauty who drape their deathly pale, white skin in black garments. They are feared as omens of death, and are said to appear before people on the verge of death, weeping and wailing, but it's just that they have the ability to foresee the death of humans, not that they are death-bringers. They themselves are actually compassionate monsters who are saddened by the death and suffering of humans. What's more, it is in their nature to be drawn to those who give off an air of death, and if the person happens to be a human man, then she'll be attracted to him as a woman and develop powerful feelings of affection.

These "banshees" are a race who serves "Hel", goddess of life and death, and the power of the goddess is imbued in their voice when they wail for those approaching death. Those who die while listening to a banshee's wailing have the agony of death mitigated by the goddess' blessing, and will end up rising as undead after death. In the age of the former mamono lords, even though the banshees of yore had the power to foresee death and were terribly drawn to the dying, that's all there was to them. It is said that there was nothing they could do but mourn and grieve when their loved ones died right before their very eyes. It was only after the goddess "Hel" took pity upon them and welcomed them as her underlings that they acquired their present abilities. In the modern faith of the goddess of life and death, "banshees" are servants of the goddess who guide the living into undeath. This is one of the curses and blessings "unbreakable by death" that the goddess has given to humanity.

When the dead are reanimated by their power, just as in the case of necromancy, human women will easily resurrect as undead monsters, but resurrecting men requires the restoration and maintenance of "the power to produce essence", so a semi-permanent supply of mana will be required, namely, a monster to copulate with the resurrected man as his partner and continue to provide mana.

That's when the other power imbued in a banshee's voice comes into play. Though melancholic, their beautiful wailing arouses carnal desire in men soon after resurrection when a man's capacity for thought is shaky, directing his unsettled consciousness at the banshee. Just as a man rises as an undead, he'll end up sexually assaulting the banshee wailing beside him. In other words, they offer their own bodies as a sacrifice to the men that they guide into undeath, and eternally continue comforting their husbands' souls with love and pleasure.

Furthermore, they are extremely easily moved to tears. Besides the death of a human, they also weep over little things, and all those tears arouse carnal desire in their husband, making him lust after them. If their husband is sad, they shed tears as if it were their own sadness, consoling their husband by venting his gloomy feelings in the form of lust. They soon shed tears, of course when their beloved man rises as undead, but also whenever something makes them happy, such as when their husband whispers to them of love. Such tears also incite lust in their husband, and the joy of having sex with their husband also causes them to let out tearful cries of ecstasy, which turns him on even more.

• Ogre Family • Oni/Demihuman Type

アオオニ

Blue Oni

Habitat.....Zipangu region (caves, mountainous regions)

Disposition....Strong-willed, calm

Diet.....Omnivorous, prefers meat and sake

A monster distinguished by the horns growing out of its forehead, and its namesake blue skin. A type of ogre called "oni" that only inhabits the Zipangu region. Like all oni, they have a fierce disposition, and extraordinary strength. They're feared by humans as monsters, but they're actually quite intelligent and rational. They also have a calm side to themselves which is very atypical for an oni, and for that reason, unlike other oni, they don't randomly assault human men. They can often be seen hanging around with other oni such as "red oni," etc. Because of their disposition, they often serve as the brain of the group, controlling the rest of the oni and restraining their emotional and coercive actions.

As previously mentioned, even if they find a man who strikes their fancy, they won't try to rape him randomly, but that's only true when they're "sober." Just like the "red oni," sake is their favorite thing, and if there's a guy they like, they'll probably aggressively invite him to go drinking. However, they aren't able to handle their liquor at all, rather they get dead drunk just from drinking a lot of sake. When they get drunk off sake, rationality and self-control get thrown out the window. Their faces turn bright red, just like red oni. Upon revealing the lewd, drunken side of themselves, they become so lustful and ferocious that even the red oni pales in comparison. Their true nature as monsters is revealed by sake, and traces of their ordinary intellectual personality can no longer be seen. They completely transform into lecherous perverts who seek pleasure and spirit energy, thinking about nothing but sex with human men. Naturally, whenever they're drinking, if there's a human man nearby, they'll assault and rape him right away, so that they can try enjoying the taste of spirit energy along with their sake. And what's even more troubling, in spite of the fact that they get drunk easily, they still have a high level of maximum alcohol tolerance, appropriate for an oni.

They can drink sake infinitely, become infinitely drunk, and grow infinitely lustful, and the feast of flesh tinged with sake, pleasure, and spirit energy will continue until either the sake runs out, or the man passes out.

Once they sober up, they go back to their original intellectual state, but, being monsters, if they liked the guy, and deem him most worthy as both a husband and a sake snack, then they'll never let him go. Then the man will end up having to party, get drunk, and copulate profusely with her every night.

Additionally, they normally have a much stronger sense of shame compared with other oni, and it easily comes to the surface. Because of this, whenever they recollect what they did while they were drunk, or even just listen to an obscene or sexual story, they become so embarrassed that their faces turn bright red, like that of a red oni.

• Ogre Family • Demihuman Type

ヲギー

Habitat.....Unclear
Disposition.....Gentle, devoted
Diet.....Carnivorous: wild animals, etc.

Bogey

Just like ogres and so on, these are a kind of monster called "oni".

They have the same curious features found in other oni, but the horns on their head and their fluffy, big arms and legs are soft like a plush toy stuffed full of cotton. No matter the region there is a common story that is told by parents to children, "if you don't stop crying, an oni's gonna come kidnap you", but these girls are actually the source of such oral traditions, being said to appear before children who can't stop crying or those with deep sadness even in the absence of tears. Upon spotting male prey that fits such criteria, they embrace their target tightly in their big, soft arms.

That gentle, warm embrace has the power to alleviate the target's anxiety, nervousness, fear, and the like, so no matter how stubborn the male may be, once hugged in those arms, he will want to indulge in her affection like an honest child, spontaneously entrusting himself to her soft body. And once their prey is rendered powerless in this manner, they start relentlessly soothing, consoling, and so on, until the prey stops crying and his sadness is healed. Sometimes, as part of that process, they take their prey back to their lair, which is what probably gave rise to the traditional stories. Also, due to either the charm of their devilish nature or the nature of males, for the most part, those hugged by them will seek their body, be it consciously or unconsciously. On that occasion, they will not hesitate to try and use their own body to console a male.

Given the level of devotion they'll likely show, it's practically as if their own arms, mouth, and dick-engulfing vagina exist expressly to soothe and comfort you. And once the prey's sadness heals, this time they spoil their prey, giving in to his every desire as if to say, "good boy, here's your reward for stopping your crying", and they start to spend their days having sex.

Even after that, they continue to cuddle with their prey, consoling him with their body should he ever get sad again; and once his sadness is healed, they resume giving him his endless reward. In other words, to them, a husband is not only an outlet for passion, but also an outlet for their virtually overflowing protective urges, which means they have chosen that prey as their life partner, the one they will spend their entire life continually comforting.

Furthermore, their concept of "child" is far off from the human notion of what constitutes a "child".

Whether a male's age or appearance is actually that of a child is irrelevant, and clearly adult-looking men, even middle-aged men who outwardly look even older than themselves, will be contacted by them and treated as "children" so long as they have sadness in their hearts. In other words, to them, "children" is none other than a word that indicates human males in general. In actuality, since they appear before those who weren't given love and are unable to heal their sadness, mothers who shower their kids in love like the ones who tell those stories won't actually have their kids snatched away; instead, it is those who can't get any love from their parents, orphans who never had anyone to love them in the first place, and adult men with nobody to even cling to that have a heart continuously filling with sadness that are mostly the ones they would visit.

• Ogre Family • Demihuman Type

ボギー

Bogie

Habitat.....Unclear

Disposition....Cheerful, spiteful, devoted

Diet.....Carnivorous: wild animals, etc.

A bizarre looking monster with the appearance of a clown whose white fingers drip with red drops of mana. Tales of the bogie have been handed down and are traditionally used by parents to warn children that "bad kids get kidnapped by onis". They are said to appear before selfish and misbehaving children.

When assaulting men, they have a zany attitude and behave as though they are "clowns" about to begin a performance and treat their prey as their "customer". Being smooth talkers with exaggerated gestures, all of the words uttered from their mouth will somehow be provocative and alluring, and those who hear their opening remarks will be filled with a premonition that something fun or dreadful is about to begin. And then, after filling a man with fear and anticipation, they begin their performance by stroking his penis with their white hands in a seemingly fun manner, mounting him and making their body dance smoothly on top of him. Should their prey helplessly ejaculate from this, they will be hooting and tooting, heaping mountains of praise upon him in the most exaggerated fashion like it's the biggest deal.

Their essence milking is not violent, and above all else, they aim to give their prey a fun and pleasurable ejaculation, but men assaulted by them will nevertheless most often be stricken by terrible fear while still wanting it at the same time, resulting in a state of extreme confusion. This is because they have the power to inflame and expose human emotions. That is to say, in their presence, anyone would openly express his feelings like a "child", so when they scare their prey by saying "I'm gonna eatcha", even if it's contrived like a storybook villain, of course children, but even adults too, will get so terrified that they'll look ready to burst into tears. On the one hand, because of this power, their clownish appearance and essence milking needlessly arouse more fear, but on the other hand, at a glance, it feels like one is being made fun of based on how they act during ejaculation which fills their prey with a strong sense of affirmation, causing him to seek more. When the performance is finished, their prey is released, but regardless of whether he wants it or not, the frequency and extremity of their performances will increase day by day. Eventually, he'll even start dreaming of her.

While they are terrifying to their prey, they become like "absolute beings" that provide affirmation and joy. Once the prey has lost his backbone from the joy of being affirmed by such a being, just like how a child would entrust his body and heart to his mother who is absolute to him, he'll pour his heart out when questioned, and when she cajoles him by whispering, "if you be a good boy, next time we'll do even funner things", he'll desperately try to abide by her words. In this way, their prey is reformed into honest, "good boys". What's more, the "children" they acknowledge as prey are not the same as children according to human values. Looks and actual age have absolutely nothing to do with it. Due to their power, even a major scoundrel of advanced age leading a band of rogues would be little more than a "child" who will serve as prey to them. In actuality, they appear before children who have no parents to correct their misbehavior, children whose parents won't even correct them, and adult men who can no longer reflect on their own conduct. They never snatch kids from the kind of good parents who tell their kids the story.

If they happen to appear before a man who wasn't a bad person in the first place, then they'll act like a clown with their goal purely being to entertain their partner, and they can even be seen amusing children with ordinary tricks. If a good man expresses fondness towards a bogie and she is desired, she will offer herself up gleefully and become a devoted spouse who will exhaust every effort to pleasurable amuse her husband as his personal jester; however, there is no end to the lengths they will go to in their attempts to amuse their husband. Moreover, they have spiteful personalities, so they will hardly ever express their devotion by simply doing as their husband tells them. Living with a bogie means that one's days will be bursting with unpredictable surprises and extraordinary pleasure.

Dark Angel

• Angel Family • Angel Type

Habitat.....Pandemonium

Disposition....Lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

An angel who has completely transformed into a succubus. Their pure white wings have been warped by the power of the succubi, turning black in the process. They are completely depraved, and, aside from appearances, have nothing in common with angels whatsoever.

Indulgence in sex with men and mutual pleasure is what solely guides their actions. They love human desire, and they become overjoyed when it is directed towards them. Acutely sensitive to such desire, they become unbearably aroused after sensing it, and they will attack to receive a man's desire more deeply inside their body. Whenever they find a human or angel with a negative opinion about sex, they seduce them with well constructed arguments, and finally give them pleasure. They want others to fall as they have fallen. They're monsters, but they are not under the command of the Mamono Lord. They are said to be servants of the one known as "The Fallen God."

When they find a man they like, they assault him and have sexual intercourse in order to make him fall into depravity. They possess the unique ability to find out about men's sexual tastes and fetishes through the act of sexual intercourse itself. They may become sadistic or masochistic, in order to match the desires of a given man.

Regardless of having been able to taste the pleasure that they had desired, men who continue to have sex with them will remain completely unsatisfied, instead desire will only swell no matter how much they have sex, and their passion for the dark angel will burn with even deeper intensity. Eventually, their head will become full of desire, and they'll be unable to think of anything but crashing into the dark angel with desire, and ravishing her. Of course, that is their ultimate wish. They want to thoroughly corrupt men so that they'll come at them and ravish them with endless desire. That is what pleases them most. Beyond that point, a man will continue to fall with them forever. And then, their heads too will become full of thoughts of him:

"I want to make sweet love with him while locked in a mutual embrace like lovers. I want to service him plenty. I want to put a wonderful expression of ecstasy on his face. I want him to make me his and ravish me like an animal. I want to get on top and unilaterally ravish him so I can see the pathetic look on his face. I want to take his penis in my mouth, suck it, and lick it. I want my whole body to be covered in semen and stained pure white including deep inside my throat, the inside of my vagina, my face, my breasts, and my black wings."

Every conceivable desire towards a man swirls inside of them, and they only act according to these desires.

It is said that they dwell in a place called "Pandemonium", and once she has completely corrupted a man she has captured, a dark angel will carry him off to this place. It is said to be a location where space-time is distorted due to the power of "The Fallen God", a dimension where there's no aging or starvation, and the same moment continues for eternity. After returning to this place with a man, a dark angel will have sex with a man for eternity in the absence of time, leading a lifestyle that is solely consumed by the desire to continually indulge in pleasure.

Dark Elf

• Succubus Family • Elf Type

Habitat.....Forests, mamono realms

Disposition....Aggressive, lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

A race of elves (p.96) possessing brown skin and pointed ears. They dwell in peculiar villages they establish in forests and mamono realms, etc. Long, long ago, before the current Mamono Lord's reign, they were not monsters, but upon her assumption of power, the dark elves, who were lustful and uninhibited to begin with, offered their own bodies to the succubi, and changed into monsters.

They don't detest humans as elves do, but they love to make human men who strike their fancy submit to them with pleasure. Men they capture will receive plenty of love, as either "sex slaves" or "pets". Besides making enslaved human men prepare their meals, etc., they also reproduce using these slaves. As one can tell from that, their slaves are essentially the same as what other monsters refer to as their husbands. It's just that their way of showing love for their men is different from that of other monsters.

Dark elven children are thoroughly taught skills for pleasing a man and the taste of pleasure using their own fathers. Eventually, when they reach adulthood, they'll go off on a journey in search of their own slave, but it is said that there are also those who will fall in love with their father through the training, and will no longer desire any other man. Father / daughter incest is taboo among humans, but they are vastly different from humans, and as far as they're concerned, if a daughter wants to have sex with her father, then it's only natural to put desire first. They have no revulsion towards incest whatsoever. If a daughter desires her father, then she'll start having threesomes with her mother and father from that night on as if it's the most natural thing.

Also, they get along extremely poorly with the stubborn elves, and supposedly they frequently fight, or so it is said, but it's mainly the elves that unilaterally despise the dark elves, and they're the ones who try to wipe out the dark elves. On the other hand, a dark elf would have fun thoroughly teaching an ignorant captured elf of pleasure, changing her into a lewd monster just like herself.

• Spirit Family • Elemental Type

ダークマター Dark Matter

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition.....Lustful

Diet.....Human men's mana

Also called "the sun of darkness," a dark matter is a being that embodies the combined desires of monsters and incubi along with the monsters' highly condensed mamono mana. Even though a mamono realm is overflowing with the magical energies of monsters, dark matter only inhabit places with extremely high concentrations. The race is extremely rare and there are only a very few individuals in existence.

The part that has the form of a woman embodies the desire of women, especially monsters, and the mamono mana of monsters, and the black orb the woman is straddling embodies the desire of the incubi, men, ect. joined with the mamono mana. Their thoughts are governed by the female part. As mamono mana and desire incarnate, their heads are full of thoughts of having sex with men, and they fly around the skies of mamono realms astride the black orb in pursuit of human men in order to sate that desire. Also, during that time, the black orb acts according to the desire of men that comprises it, continuing to coil around and violate the woman sitting on top of it with its tentacles. The female part gives in to the desire of women that comprises it, continuing to indulge in the pleasure given to it by the black orb.

When they find a human man, they envelop him with the black orb, making it flow into the man. After having his entire body violated by super high concentrations of mamono mana, the man is instantly transformed into a powerful incubus. By merging with the black orb, the man's desire and the desire of the black orb are combined, and he will be ruled by the extreme lust. Once this happens, the man will end up giving in to desire, having sex with the remaining part of the dark matter as a substitute for the black orb. After obtaining the mana of men in this way, they produce a high volume of magical power and scatter it all around. This power then activates the desires of all the monsters around, making them have frenetic intercourse with men.

Thus they truly are a "sun of darkness" which illuminates the mamono realm.

Also, though it is rare, they do occasionally attack human women. In that case the woman who was attacked will end up merging with the female part, rather than the black orb. With the black orb's tentacles crawling all over her, pleasuring every inch of her body, a woman's mind will be immersed in pleasure, and she will meld with the female portion of the dark matter, whose head is full of pleasure in the same way. They will fuse, and before she knows it, she'll have become the dark matter. This dark matter's consciousness and memories will be that of the original human woman combined with the dark matter's powerful desire. In the case that the woman had an interest in a particular man, that sentiment will cause the dark matter's desire to take on a distinct shape, and their desire will grow deeper and more powerful. Even though they normally make no attempt to leave a mamono realm, in such cases, there is an exception, and they'll head straight for the man they can't stop yearning for in order to have sex with him by sensing his location via his mana, while being violated by the black orb, thus causing their desire for the man to continually swell.

They usually only come into being in mamono realms, but it is said that they also naturally form outside them in lands that are in the process of being converted into mamono realms due to a high concentration of mamono mana in one place. Thus if they are seen to appear in places outside mamono realms, it's a sign that that land is about to be converted into a "mamono realm". As soon as they appear and get their hands on a man, at the same time huge amounts of magical energy will be scattered about, converting the land completely into a mamono realm.

They are a kind of elemental. There are varying opinions, but they're regarded as being a pure elemental of the dark element, so they're classified as "dark elementals". There are those who have doubts as to why they aren't regarded as demi-elementals since they were monsters to begin with, but since they form covenants through having sex, pour in the power of "darkness", have a powerful influence on the environment around them, enriching the element of "darkness", and more, they have a lot of traits in common with being dark elementals.

Succubus Family Demon Type

ダークプリースト Dark Priest

Habitat.....Human settlements, pandemonium

Disposition.....Lustful, devoted

Diet.....The mana of human men

A type of succubi that are zealous adherents of "The Fallen God". They are human women that were corrupted into monsters after being attacked by "dark priests" or "dark angels". They drape themselves in the garments of a holy servant of god, but on the inside they're actually an extremely lustful succubi (inma). According to the teachings of the Fallen God, they attack humans in pursuit of pleasure.

It is their duty to spread the teachings of the Fallen God and corrupt humans. They change into human form and slip into human settlements to perform activities to promote their faith. They aggressively attack particularly abstemious humans, seeking to indoctrinate their flesh with pleasure and the tenets of their faith.

Their greatest joy is to incite desire in men and receive that desire with their own body, and they have a lewd body for arousing the passion of men. Even a single word from them is alluring, and even their slightest gestures somehow come off as provocative. They incite carnal desire and raise it to swell.

When they find a human man that they're fond of, they give him pleasure through devoted service as is appropriate for a cleric. Their body exists only for the sake of receiving a man's desires, and they offer it to men, seeking sex. Through sex they draw out more of a man's desire, and after repeated intercourse they raise a man's desire to be even stronger and more obscene, causing him to fall with them.

Also, human women attacked and corrupted by them are changed into dark priests the same as them. A new dark priest has already had the core of her body completely stained in the teachings of "The Fallen God", and she will act according to those teachings, seeking out pleasure and men as desire sees fit.

As written above, their duty is to perform missionary activities, but since they're also fallen themselves, once they find a man who strikes their fancy they prioritize their own desire and abandon their duty to run off with the man and seclude themselves in "Pandemonium". Once secluded in Pandemonium, they completely forget about their duty, or whatever. With time stopped, they keep having sex with the man as they are driven by endless desire, falling even deeper into the depths of pleasure.

• Angel Family • Angel Type

Dark Valkyrie

ダークヴァルキリー

Habitat.....Pandemonium

Disposition....Serious, devoted, lustful

Diet.....Human men's spirit energy

Black battle maidens, valkyries that have fallen even deeper into a devilish nature by becoming self-conscious of the obscene desire growing within them. Their once pure white wings have been stained black by demonic energy. They retain the gallant appearance of a battle maiden, but their hearts are completely corrupted, and they have a dirty mind colored by a woman's desire.

Their former loyalty to the gods has been completely lost. Currently, their one and only master is their beloved husband. They swear absolute fealty only to their husband and his desire. While they have a powerful lust and deep affection for their husband, they have very little concern for anything else no matter what it may be. In spite of being servants of the "fallen god", they even have a business-like attitude when dealing with her. They retain their extremely high combat strength, but even their sword is no longer used for anyone other than their husband.

Inflating their husband's desire, having that desire directed towards them, and receiving that desire with their own flesh are their greatest aspirations. When their husband's desire is directed towards them, the more greatly obscene it is, the more it pleases them. They reverently kneel before their husband as if he were a lord, gently extending their hands and tongue towards his lower body so that their body may be showered with semen and desire. They were once disgusted by the act of being joined with their husband itself, and the depravity of having their husband demand a sexual position that he knows they used to especially hate such as the bestial rear entry position, where they're penetrated by the man from behind, or the shameless cowgirl position, where they themselves get on top of the man and shake their hips, only serves to fuel their ecstasy all the more. They gleefully receive their husband's desire, and service him with their body as he wishes.

The "power to raise a hero" that they were equipped with before their fall becomes extremely specialized as a "power for raising a man", particularly in the realm of sexual prowess. Men who receive their power increasingly gain the ability to provide ecstasy and happiness to women they sleep with. That is to say, they grow into "incubi" specialized for having sex with women, pouring in semen, and impregnating them. In this manner, when the man becomes equipped with endless, seething desire and a rigid erection that never subsides, it will be directed towards the dark valkyrie, who is his own woman as far as the man is concerned. They end up being granted supreme pleasure and bliss as "women" by "men" they personally raised up to be the best.

Everything they do is dependent on their husband's desire, but most men who've had sex with them on countless occasions and received their power will have infinitely inflated desire. And then, in order to fall to a greater depth, the fallen couple, tainted by endless desire and dirty of heart, will end up continually inflating each other's desire and pleasure for eternity in "Pandemonium" that exists where time has ceased.

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

デーモン

Demon

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition....Bold, malicious, lustful

Diet.....Human men's mana

Higher rank demons that have blue skin and black sclera, whose bodies contain vastly powerful wicked magic. In the age of the former mamono lords, they weren't driven against humans by appetite or instinctive murderous impulses. Instead, they believe the diminutive and foolish humans ought to be ruled by monsters, and they are the foremost race of the "radical faction" which plans to convert the entire world into a mamono realm. The demons feared in the former era were not "succubi", but these "demons". Although they have sworn loyalty to the current mamono lord, their ideology is even far more radical than hers.

They love seeing humans become unable to resist pleasure and succumb to evil, and they'll use whatever means possible to lure humans onto the path of corruption - at times using their cunning, and at times using their demonic powers. Their appearance exudes decadence and depravity, and men fascinated by this are led to corruption. If they whisper alluring words into a man's ears, whether he likes it or not, it will induce a vision of the days of pleasure that could be. In spite of their wicked and oppressive appearance, once a man copulates with a demon, the sweet pleasure that exists solely to corrupt humans will guide him further along the path.

Once a man has walked along the path to corruption, a demon will propose a "pact" that mainly says "for offering everything to me, I promise you eternal pleasure." Most men would gleefully offer everything if it would make the days of pleasure envisioned become a reality and make that pleasure last for eternity. The pact is bound with sorcery and can never be broken. From the moment the pact is sealed, eternal pleasure is guaranteed; and along with that, the man is bound in eternal submission to the demon. A man will even come to experience arousal and take delight in submitting to her. His body will be under her control and his penis will tingle and prepare to offer mana just from her demanding it.

They treat their men entirely as their personal property including every single hair and every last drop of semen; and they keep them at their side so they can siphon mana whenever they please and provide eternal pleasure, as agreed in the pact.

At a glance, it looks as if the demon has total domination over her man, but in actuality, the situation is a bit different. The demon herself is also bound by the power of the pact, and can never go against it. In other words, it means the man can also use the demon's body for the enjoyment of pleasure whenever he wants and in any way he pleases. If a man demands sex, she must accept everything.

Regardless of it not being part of the pact, a demon will cook whatever her man wants to eat every day, and visit clothing stores to acquire whatever outfits he wants her to wear. It seems that it is in their nature to give into their men's demands and spoil them, regardless of the pact. Deep love and over protectiveness is the reason they always want to keep their men near them. Basically, the pact boils down to a "marriage compact", and the reasoning behind their radical beliefs may be that they're worried about humans because they're so weak and they want to place them under their protection.

They believe that all women should become monsters, and they actively attack human women as well and change them into monsters. On such occasions, unless the woman comes to have the same radical ideology as them, she won't become a demon; so most will become succubi. For that reason, when trying to recruit a woman as an ally, they take special care during the process of monsterization to thoroughly train and educate the woman, and by doing so awaken and fuel the hidden wicked desire to dominate a man within her, thus raising a demon.

• Imp Family • Demon Type

デビル

Devil

Habitat.....Demon realm

Disposition.....Mean, lustful

Diet.....The spirit energy of human men

Mid-rank demons that give off a wicked aura. They have a childish appearance with blue skin and eyes with parts dyed black that were originally white. They are a race that was born bearing clear malice towards humans during the age of the former demon lords when most monsters were born to kill humans because of instinct and hunger. They once fed on human fear, screams, and expressions twisted in agony, but now that they have become succubi (*inma) in the present, they have come to prefer human expressions slackened in pleasure and ecstasy, and cries of delight. They love depravity and chaos and detest purity and order. They're the vanguard of the "radical faction" that is plotting to convert all women into monsters and shroud the entire world in a demon realm filled with pleasure.

According to their radical ideology, they enjoy having sex with humans and corrupting them into lewd monsters. When they spot a human that strikes their fancy, they'll attack regardless of whether it's a man or a woman. If they assault a chaste and noble man, they'll make him drown in devilish pleasure using their own body, and transform him into an incubus like an animal in heat overflowing with lust, who, appropriately for a devil's partner, will desire to have sex with them more than anything.

If they assault a pure woman who has never known a man, they'll engrave pleasure and desire into her body and soul, and change her into a lustful succubus (*inma) that loves impassioned days with her husband and enjoys sex the same as themselves. They love seeing the guy they like drown in lust more than anything, and for that sake, they'll use every part of their tiny body to try and satisfy a man with thorough pleasure. Even though they have a sadistic aura, during sex they give highest priority to the man's pleasure. Sometimes they don't just rape men, conversely, they fan the flames of a man's desire, and let him rape them like a beast or criminal.

A tactic once commonly used by devils was to destroy people by giving them power and wealth beyond what they could handle, but many still use the same kind of method even now. They don't just have sex with men, they make men's desire swell beyond what they can handle and drown them in it with excessive love and pleasure by making them home-cooked meals everyday, waiting on them hand and foot, and briskly taking care of anything they could possibly need.

What they love more than anything else is the expression of their husband after being drowned in love and happiness in this manner, which from an objective point of view does indeed appear slackened and slovenly. Conversely, they don't like it if their husband makes a difficult or sad expression, so if he makes a face like that, they'll extend a hand or tongue to his penis right away, and it will be overwritten with an expression that they love.

• Ghost Family • Undead Type

ドッペルゲンガー Doppelganger

Habitat.....Mamono realms, human settlements, etc.

Disposition....Various (originally timid)

Diet.....Mana of human men

A monster that is thought to be born from a fusion of the lingering regret of those who lost love, and mamono mana. They reveal themselves after being drawn by the lingering regret of men who were rejected by the women they loved. They don't have a fixed form. Instead, they read the minds of human men, and appear in the form of a woman the man had a one-sided crush on. Not only do they look like her, they also take on the woman's memories, personality, and abilities, making them their own.

However, their form is modified to be based on the memories and ideals of the man who was targeted. For example, even if the woman a man had feelings for was "nice on the surface, but malicious and scheming on the inside," she becomes a woman matching the man's ideal that is "pure and gentle, even in heart." Also, since the doppelganger herself has feelings for the man, the reason they transform is "to become the man's ideal woman so he can't help but love her." Most men aren't able to resist the temptation of a doppelganger, and they'll have sex and release mana on the spot when seduced. Even afterwards, they continue to be the man's ideal lover, and continue to offer love and pleasure to the man.

They are always transformed, and they never show their true forms, except when they lose the magical power to transform on a night when the moon can't be seen. Their true form doesn't look anything like the guise of the ideal lover which they had assumed: a plain little girl draped in black. Since they know that the person the man loves is the woman whose form they borrowed and not them personally, they fear being revealed for who they truly are and being hated by the man. For that reason, when night comes, they hide themselves somewhere so that they won't be found by the man. But since they're so in love with the man that they can't help it, they always hide nearby in a place they can definitely watch him. If one were to search thoroughly, they could probably find them.

It is said that when a man truly falls in love with a doppelganger herself and not the "ideal girlfriend" whose form she had borrowed, they completely lose the ability to transform since they can't transform into themselves.

Also, if it turns out that the man was mistaken in thinking that his love had been one-sided, and it turns out that the real woman was actually fond of him, then when the woman catches sight of the doppelganger borrowing her form, from that moment onward, the woman who has the same form, and the same feelings for the man becomes joined to the doppelganger's mamono mana.

Once joined through mamono mana, their thoughts, feelings, and memories start linking, and because of the doppelganger having sex with the man, the memories and pleasure of having sex flow directly into the woman's head. The more the doppelganger loves the man and seeks sex, the more the woman's love and passion for the man will rapidly swell. Since what the doppelganger transforms into is based not purely on the woman, but on the man's ideal of her, the woman linked will naturally change becoming closer and closer to that ideal image. Eventually the woman even becomes a monster exactly like the doppelganger, and she'll head off to be with the man she loves and have him pour plenty of mana inside in the same way as her other self.

Together with another monster that is an exact clone of herself, they go wild having sex with their man. They freely offer twice the love and twice the pleasure.

Dullahan

• Dullahan Family • Undead Type

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition....Strong-willed, stubborn, calm (meek, lustful)

Diet.....Mana of human men

A demonic knight who has a grotesque figure, its head has been severed from its body. It inhabits the mamono realm. Because of its identifying feature, it's also known as the "headless knight." They are the prized avant-guard of the Mamono Lord's knights. They are extremely loyal, and possess exceptional military prowess. In the illustration on the left, they hold their head with their left arm, but most of the times they appear, they put their head on their body, so it's often hard to realize that they're dullahan.

Men's mana is what fuels them, but they don't aggressively attack. They are very intellectual. They store all the mana they've collected inside their bodies, and use their head as a lid, so they can get by normally even with a very low amount of mana collected. However, being dullahan, their heads come off very easily. When this happens, their pent-up desire, emotion, and true intentions are spilled out along with all the mana.

Because of this, when their head is in place, they are stubborn and intellectual, but when their head comes off, they change entirely. Their personality reverts into a naturally lustful monster personality and they act according to their true feelings and fawn on the man to entice him in pursuit of sex. Normally they hide that personality, but it is what they truly feel on the inside and it is their true character. If one ever encounters a dullahan, be sure to take advantage. Knock off her head, and you can end the fight. However, the mana will spill out, and she'll become hungry. As noted above, her personality will change and she'll probably assault you right then and there.

And another thing, they sometimes appear from out of nowhere and come to kidnap a man they're fond of. On this occasion, they specify the date and time of the kidnapping for some reason. As for those who were able to escape their grasp, it is said that there is not a single person in existence.

They form the core of the mamono lord's army, but most of the others besides them prioritize their own desire above their duty as a knight, so their priority is to get a man and have sex. Rare among them, the dullahans are loyal and take their duty seriously. The anxiety they experience while serving as among the knights is not difficult to imagine.

• Chimera Family • Demon Beast Type

ファミリア

Familiar

Habitat.....Demon realm, human settlements

Disposition....Cheerful(?), meek (?), lustful

Diet.....Witch's demonic energy, human men's spirit energy

An artificial race created by baphomet, who once possessed immense power rivaling that of the demon lord. They are employed as familiars by the witches of "Sabbath", and aside from that, they're also entrusted with proselytizing for Sabbath and recruitment.

On top of being proficient speakers, they look adorable and behave in a friendly manner, so those who listen to their words lower their guard and listen with rapt attention. They not only speak of "eternal youth" and "great magical power", but also extol the "charm and depravity of little girls". Even the monstrously obscene tenets of Sabbath are naturally imprinted in the mind. Men will awaken to the attraction to the body of a little girl, and women will develop a yearning to transform into a little monster girl. The truth isn't certain, but since the prey they set their eyes on is always dragged into Sabbath, rumor has it that the way they normally appear is feigned friendliness, and they're actually cunning monsters with a great skill in the art of manipulation.

They're basically not as good as witches at magic, but since they're magical organisms, they have a high affinity for magic, and their bodies are imbued with a portion of baphomet's immense power. They can cast the spell of pedomorphosis, and they can change human women who have awakened to the Sabbath cult into witches. Also, by using themselves as a catalyst, they can amplify the magic of the loli monsters that are acolytes of Sabbath.

On top of dramatically raising the potency of the spell used, this ability will also draw out the charm they possess and raise it to the maximum limit. With the power of Sabbath contained within her, a little monster girl makes a charming transformation. Her atmosphere will be more innocent and defenseless, rousing a man's protective instincts, while at the same time giving off an allure that drives men even more crazy than a mature woman.

If they then tempt a man, the efficacy is so powerful we can pretty much call it a super move. Any man, no matter how straight-laced, will find himself reaching for the little girl's body, ultimately piercing her little vagina with his manhood. Furthermore, this power also applies to the "spirit energy" of male adherents and men. The more thick and syrupy spirit energy facilitates magic replenishment through sexual intercourse, and gives even more pleasure to the body of little girls who exceedingly love their big brother's spirit energy.

While they do play the role of familiars for witches, they are also monsters themselves, and therefore, when they spot a man that strikes their fancy, they prioritize making him theirs above all else. As beings that physically embody the tenets of Sabbath, what they love more than anything is to have sex with a man and swallow a penis that's too big for a little girl's body. Their soft, child bodies were modeled after the perfect child body of baphomet, and when they swallow up a penis and squeeze tightly with their little vagina, they're able to convey the appeal of a little girl's body directly to a man's body, staining him in the tenets of Sabbath.

In this way, unmarried men who were supposed to be brought to Sabbath often end up already becoming theirs, much to the dismay of witches without big brothers. As one can tell from this, while they are mistress and servant, the pecking order is a bit vague. There are those who have a relationship that's more like friends, instead of mistress and servant, and there are also those who share the same man between them.

• Gazer Family • Single-Eyed Demihuman Type

ガイザー

Gazer

Habitat.....Demon realm, caves

Disposition.....Mean, arrogant

Diet.....The spirit energy of human men

A monster with a bizarre appearance, having a large single eye, and countless tentacles with eyeballs. They're high rank monsters of terrifying power, and the main eye, known as "the wicked eye", contains powerful magic. Perhaps for that reason, even after all the monsters assumed the form of women, they retained their characteristic one-eyed form. spiteful, and self-confident, many of them are antagonistic, and they have an insulting attitude towards people. They enjoy ravishing human men using the "wicked eye".

Many spells can be fired off by the countless eyeballs that shine alluringly, but out of everything, the ability they're most proud of is "hypnotizing" those who stare at the eyeballs. Through this, they can erase human hostility and hatred for monsters, and implant suggestions such as "I wanna be ravished by monsters.", "I wanna ravish monsters.", "I wanna become a monster." This hypnosis is temporary and wears off with the passage of time, but even desires temporarily induced by hypnotic suggestion will generally have a lasting impact on the heart once a person has actually tasted it.

When they're especially fond of a particular man, by using their main eye they can place him under an even stronger hypnotic suggestion. Due to that, the feelings of disgust towards the single-eye are erased. Instead, the man will feel that "The single-eye is a sensual and overwhelmingly sexy organ." and "Single-eyed women are the best reproductive partners." Because of this, the man will start to find them attractive to the point of being irresistible with their single-eye. Just looking at the single-eye will arouse such lust that breathing becomes rough, and the lower body becomes so stiff and swollen that it is painful. And then, when they sexually assault a man in such a state, he'll be unable to refuse.

After getting a taste of their body like this, and knowing the filthy, persistent pleasure that it induces, the man will become as if he never had any disgust for single-eyes from the beginning, and be completely enthralled. The "single-eye" part of the hypnotic suggestion becomes replaced with the "particular female herself", and then she remains in the man's heart in truth, and not just due to hypnotic suggestion.

It is a rare thing, but in cases where a man never had a disgust for single-eyes from the beginning, and in the case where on the contrary, the man preferred single-eyes, the hypnotic suggestion will have so strong an effect that the man's lust will go wild. Driven wild and out of control, a man will exhibit such lust and power that he would be mistaken for an incubus even though human, and he'd end up giving in to desire and ravishing the glorious female before his very eyes. They will be continuously violated until their whole body gets sticky with semen, and their large eye goes out of focus as they're enraptured. In spite of the circumstances of the situation, they'll have a stupefied look of relief and joy on their face, perhaps because a man accepted their single-eye.

• Ghost Family • Undead Type

ゴースト

Ghost

Habitat.....Graveyards, human settlements, old buildings etc.

Disposition.....Simple, lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

A human soul that was bound by mamono mana and transformed into a monster after dying and losing its body. Since they don't have enough magical energy right after being born, they lack an actual body and can't physically touch other things. Because most of their body is actually formed from mamono mana, while they keep most of their memories from their human lives, they are far more lustful compared to when they were living and their thoughts are dim. Their minds are stained with "wild fantasies" about having sex with men which they will likely act on later. In order to make those wild fantasies a reality, they seek the mana necessary to form a body, and wander places such as graveyards in search of prey.

Since they don't have a body after having just been born, they can't directly touch humans, and when they find a man they take possession of his body and try to suck his mana out little by little. Once they take possession of someone, they are able to forcibly unify their thoughts with those of their host. In this way, they are able to send their "wild fantasies" directly into the man's mind. The man being possessed will be tortured by the lewd scenes of them that are constantly filling his head.

Eventually, after sucking out enough mana, they materialize, and by that time the man's head is so full of thoughts of them that he starts to yearn for them. After obtaining a body, they themselves will be maximally aroused from eagerly anticipating sex with the man, which is their heart's desire, so he will probably gladly have sex with them, and end up continuing to offer mana. Also, when the wild fantasies fill his head, if the man is unable to bear the arousal and temptation and he masturbates, releasing semen on his own, then in that case, they will immediately take it in, and materialize on the spot.

The ghost will be entranced and maximally aroused after getting their first direct taste of semen, and they'll use their newly acquired body on the spot to their heart's content and have sex with the man in front of them. Actually having sex with them is even better than in the wild fantasies, and it is accompanied by even greater pleasure. By tasting the intense pleasure, their wild fantasies become even more radical, and then the actualization of the fantasy afterward becomes yet even more intense.

In the case of a woman being possessed, "wild fantasies" would be sent into her head in the same way. A possessed woman has her mind stained by "wild fantasies" in the same way the ghost does herself. Overcome with lust, she will likely start assaulting men. In this case, when the woman copulates with a man, the ghost can get mana too.

It is said that "ghosts return to heaven once their regrets are taken care of." But their regret and desire is, by and large, "I wanted to spend time with that guy I liked and keep fucking him," and the more they have sex, the worse their regrets grow: "I want it more rough." "I want to do it a lot more." For that reason, there has been no confirmation of one actually returning to heaven, and we remain uncertain about the veracity of this statement.

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

ガール

Ghoul

Habitat.....Graveyards, desert regions
Disposition....Ferocious, strong-willed
Diet.....Human men's mana

A type of undead that wanders through graveyards, desert regions, etc. They were also called "shokujinki" (man-eating demon) during the age of the former mamono lords. What they preferred was to eat raw human flesh. They were fearsome monsters. Of course, in the present, they don't eat human flesh, but their nature very much remains intact even now that they've switched to consuming human mana through semen as their main food. Their personalities are extremely ferocious just as in the age of the former mamono lords and they attack human men ravenously in pursuit of food.

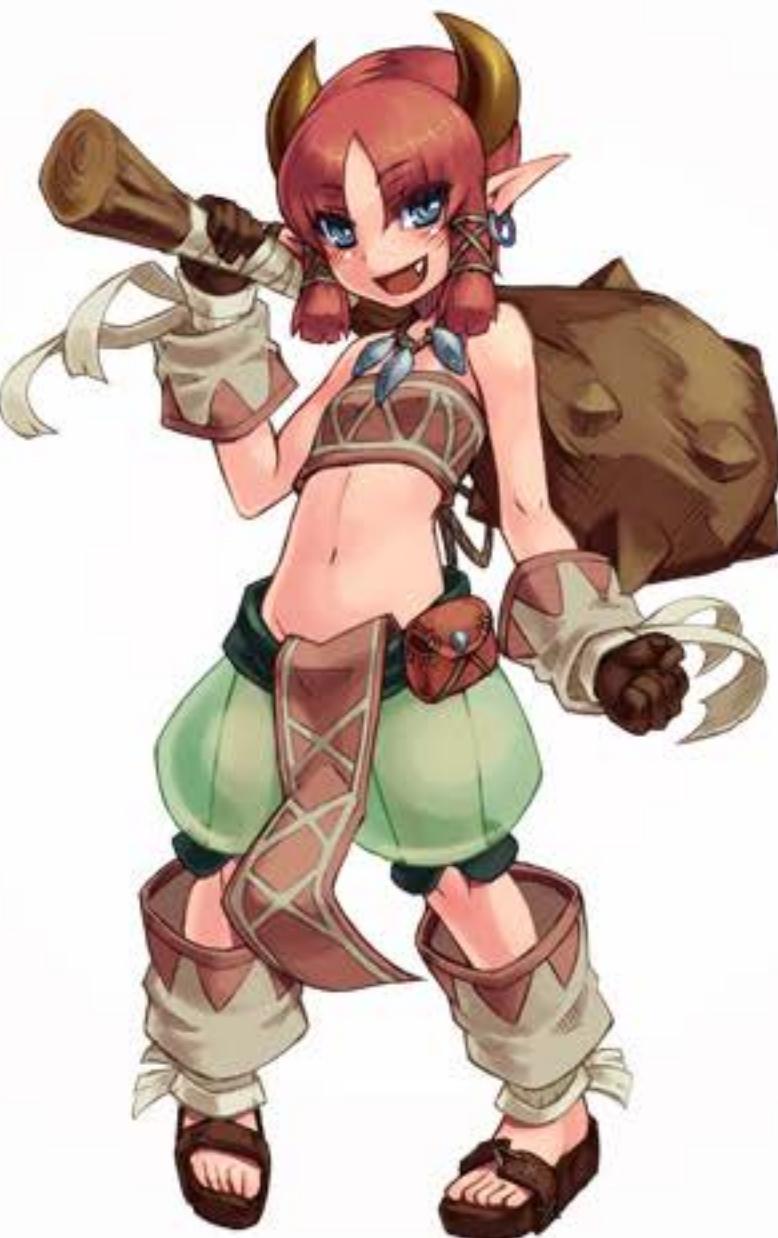

They were once "shokujinki," and they mainly use their mouth, which used to be used to hungrily devour people, to milk semen from human men. They open their mouth wide as if devouring prey and stuff their cheeks with a man's penis. They purse their lips, licking and sucking with their tongue moving relentlessly in all directions. The pleasure they give to a man makes him feel as if he's going to melt and be digested. Their mouth is like the vagina in other monsters, and the inside of the tepid orifice pulses along with the penis. It's an exquisite semen sucking organ that can freely change shape to provide various stimulation and milk a penis. And when a man releases their favorite treat and it nearly overflows, they noisily gulp down every last drop.

It seems that they can't stay calm unless they have something to put in their mouths. If the man they fancy leaves himself vulnerable, they'll probably try to suck on his penis. Even at other times when they're not having sex, they like to lick and suck on a man's fingers, ears, toes, etc. anywhere on a man's body. Their saliva contains a digestive compound, or rather, a compound that causes a person to become extremely sensitive to pleasure, and it takes effect whenever they put their mouth on any part of a man's body.

For that reason, even if it's not his penis, having any part of his body sucked by them will cause a man to be overcome with intense pleasure just like having his penis sucked. Also, nibbling the skin in that state causes pleasure to course throughout the entire male body almost like an electrical shock. To ghouls, nibbling a man is the greatest expression of affection. When they leave teeth marks on a man's skin, it's proof that the man is theirs, and this reaffirms that they've obtained a dear husband. They'll smile alluringly and then go for the penis and suck it to reconfirm their love.

Additionally, to them, their vagina is an extremely sensitive weak point. Since their mouth fills the role of a sex organ, they ordinarily don't use their vagina. Since their vagina has never known pleasure, it is even several times more sensitive than that of other monsters. It is said that if a man shoves his penis in there, it will cause them to be overwhelmed with so much pleasure that they nearly pass out. They won't be able concentrate on milking semen when every stroke of the penis attacks them with enough pleasure to nearly drive them mad. Once their body learns vaginal pleasure in this manner, what they consider to be their lower mouth becomes an organ for licking and sucking the penis, just the same as their upper mouth.

They are called "shishokuki" (corpse-eating demon) as well. As the name suggests, when they sense the smell of a woman's corpse that has been freshly buried, they dig it up and then give her a portion of their mamono mana, thus reviving the woman as one of their own kind, a ghoul. The woman then becomes a ghoul in body and heart, and being newly reborn she'll be overcome by an intense hunger, rendering her unable to think of anything else but using her mouth to suck off a man to quench her dry throat with his semen.

• Goblin Family • Demihuman Type

ゴブリン

Goblin

Habitat.....Caves, mountainous regions, human settlements, etc.

Disposition....Simple, ill-tempered

Diet.....Omnivorous, eats anything

Little demihumans that build villages and live in places such as caves. The art appears to show a child, but this is a mature adult. Their bodies don't ever grow any bigger than this. Unbefitting of their little bodies, they have the power to lift up enormous weapons with ease, and they're even a bit clever. However, they are childish on the inside, and they have a foolish, simple side. They like mischief and that's what they use their wits for.

They often form groups composed of all goblins, or with a "hobgoblin" leader, and appear in city streets, attacking human travelers, robbing them blind. Additionally, if the person happens to be a man, they'll rape him right on the spot. On this occasion, if one of them takes a liking to him, they'll take him back to their dwelling, and he will be coerced into becoming their husband.

Not all goblins are dangerous in this way, and there are also goblins who are trying to get along better with humans. There are even goblin merchants who come to human settlements selling the ores and crafted works that they get from their village, but, of course, they're still goblins on the inside. Once they spot a man who strikes their fancy, they'll put their cunning to use and try to violate him as soon as they see an opportunity.

However, other than when they're committing mischief or trying to violate men, they're quite sociable and talkative; so an extremely large number of goblins are merchants, as mentioned before. When doing business with them, if you're a man, it's likely possible to pay with your body. Even so, if they like you, they'll almost certainly be taking you home with them, so I don't recommend it very much.

• Imp Family • Demon Type

グレムリン

Gremlin

Habitat.....Ancient ruins

Disposition....Selfish, mean

Diet.....Omnivorous: prefer sweets

They have big beast ears and a pint-sized body like a little girl, but they're genuinely a race of demons. They are highly skilled and knowledgeable when it comes to magical items, magitech dolls, and machinery, and they are purported to be one of the only races that can handle the technology of unknown civilizations, including the "automatons" which were recently discovered in ancient ruins.

They themselves are not very powerful, however, they carry gizmos that they personally created using the technology of unknown civilizations, such as mechanical strong arms, a gadget to whirl through the sky at high speed, blasters that fire condensed mana, and detachable tiny flying objects that attack their foes, etc. Depending on their resources and abilities, gremlins acquire a diverse array of powers.

With an impishly mean and mischievous personality, as soon as they spot a human, they'll launch an attack as if to boastfully showoff the power of their gizmos. They're highly curious, and enjoy seeing men bombarded with pleasure, so when they obtain a man that strikes their fancy, they'll be intent on enjoying toying with every inch of his body.

Being a monster, their body can provide a man with inhuman pleasure just by straddling him and shaking their hips, but due to their monomaniacal obsession, it seems they'll feel that it isn't enough if they just do it with their own body, so they'll start to create gadgets exclusively for providing their husband with pleasure and enhancing sex. At first, something other than their own hands will start crawling around their husband's body, and as the days go on, a mechanism that injects aphrodisiacs and stamina boosters, a mechanism that sprays them out as mist, a mechanism that wraps around their husband's hips and amplifies his pleasure by many times as soon as they drop their hips, etc., etc.

The devices' functions successively increase in proportion to the love they direct towards their husband. Eventually, it'll change into a specially made bed packed with pleasure mechanisms. The husband will be laid there, repeatedly enjoying full body orgasms, incessantly pouring mana into the tiny womb of the gremlin straddling him.

Being well-versed in magical items and ancient civilizations, aside from their repair and maintenance, they also possess a special power that can cause malfunctioning. Around them, magical items that ward off monsters will instead summon monsters, and devices that stall the wearer's monsterization by sucking up mamono mana will explode, scattering condensed mamono mana around. Furthermore, the effect also impacts those types of monsters. A golem will forget her orders and go out of control, single-mindedly continuously licking her master's penis and repeatedly gulping down his semen. An automaton's sense of values concerning servicing her master will go awry, and she'll stroke his lower parts while intimately close and start praising him by saying "Good boy! Good boy!" as if soothing a baby when he involuntarily ejaculates, unable to bear it. On the other hand, since they can also stabilize operation and prevent malfunctions, if you flatter them, get them in a good mood, and offer them their favorite treat, sweets, they'll aid you with their power.

Furthermore, just like the automaton, the devices they carry are weak to electricity, and if a big current were to flow through them, they would go haywire immediately. Should that happen, the devices meant to provide pleasure to a man will instead attack them, binding their body and toying with it, injecting aphrodisiacs, making them melt, and grabbing their legs and forcibly spreading them apart, offering their body to a man. Such kinds of malfunctions could occur, among other things.

ホブゴブリン Hobgoblin

Habitat.....Caves, mountainous regions, human settlements, etc.

Disposition....Simple, warm, ill-tempered

Diet.....Omnivorous; eats anything

A mutated variant of the "goblin" that has a part of its body extremely fattened up. Their unique characteristic are the huge breasts, which aren't seen among goblins. That is, they differ from the goblins, which stop growing and have small child-like forms, in only one way: their breasts are enlarged. Their personalities are still childish, just like goblins, but they tend to be more spaced-out. Somehow, they give off a more care-free vibe.

They are a rare occurrence among births from normal goblins. Among them, the birth of one of these hobgoblins is very much celebrated, and they are greatly respected by ordinary goblins. When goblins form gangs to go out and assault human men, hobgoblins are always chosen as leader by the goblins around them. Even when they seize a human man, they are likely to defer to their leaders, the hobgoblins, giving them priority when it comes time for sex.

However, perhaps because the enlarged portion of their body robs them of nutrients, they're often even slower in the head than normal goblins. They're simpler than goblins, and perhaps because of the weight of their huge breasts, nowhere near as agile. When the goblins who formed a gang chase the man around, they're always the ones lagging behind. They're often observed falling down during the chase too. However, they do have brute strength, far beyond that of a goblin.

They easily swing around giant weapons far larger than what ordinary goblins use. Once they catch a human man they use their brute strength to knock him down, intent on having sex with him. With their arms embracing a man, it's impossible for him to shake free with mere human strength. Their huge breasts, which have quite a weighty feel to them, are pressed against a man's body during sex and can provide a man with pleasure while freely changing shape.

However, at the same time, their breasts are very sensitive, so they can experience intense pleasure just by rubbing them against a man's body. For that reason, when their breasts are touched by a man, pleasure attacks them like a current of electricity coursing throughout their body. Just having them groped and rubbed will induce enough waves of pleasure to bring them to climax again and again. They won't be able to make sense of it, and they will no doubt leave everything to the man. When a man stops moving his hands and fondling their breasts, they'll react as if they've become addicted to the stimulus; panicking when the pleasure suddenly stops, frantically rubbing their body against his and begging him to continue with tears in their eyes.

In this way, even during sex, they're at a man's mercy, but that's no cause for relief. For after enjoying the view of the hobgoblin's breasts, and getting aroused from watching them have sex, the goblins will be fully ready to join in on the action.

After reading this far I would assume you pretty much have it figured it out, but other than their freakish strength, hobgoblins are inferior to ordinary goblins in almost every way. So why then do the goblins respect the hobgoblins and give them priority when it comes to sex? It may be hard to believe, but according to the goblins themselves, it seems the terrifying logic goes like this: "breasts... amazing."

Such reasoning certainly seems fitting given their childish nature. However, after giving it some careful thought; being monsters that prioritize having sex with human men, as far as the goblins are concerned having huge breasts is a perk that enhances one's abilities during sex. In fact, it may be that it's treated as such a huge perk that the benefit outweighs all of the flaws.

Imp

• Imp Family • Demon Type

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition....Simple, selfish

Diet.....Mana of human men

A minor demon native to mamono realms. In recent times they have adopted the lifestyle of the succubi, feeding on the mana of human men, due to the Mamono Lord's influence. They're like children on both the outside and the inside, but in spite of that, they are extremely lustful. Since they are so childish and simple, they're very direct with their emotions and desires, and they aggressively assault human men in pursuit of pleasure. They mostly act in groups, and upon spotting a human man they will swarm over him in a scramble to be the first to copulate. A man will helplessly have the mana squeezed out of him.

Since they are minor demons and their personalities are so simple, they're comparatively easier to deal with, and from ancient times they have often been used as familiars by sorcerers and witches. In the case of male sorcerers, forming a contract and employing an imp by periodically offering the mana they feed on is a simple affair.

However, if they are given too much mana, their mamono mana will rapidly grow powerful, and the power of the contract will fade. As this progresses, they will become less and less inclined towards doing as they are told. Eventually, the relationship between master and minion will be reversed. The imp will become the mistress, and the man will end up as her familiar. A man who has ended up as a familiar will be unable to oppose an imp seeking his affection. He'll give in to her obscene begging and have sex with her, continuously providing his mistress with mana.

An individual imp isn't very strong at all normally, but sometimes there are those referred to as "arch imps" which possess immense magical power. Just like imps, they look and think like children, but they possess an abnormal amount of lust and power. They are dangerous beings endowed with charm spells and techniques for pleasuring men that are even greater than those of the succubi. If men who end up as their familiars continually provide them with mana, eventually they will change into these arch imps, and then things will get even more out of hand.

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

キヨンシー

Jiangshi

Habitat.....Mist continent (graveyards)
Disposition....Indifferent, ferocious
Diet.....Human men's mana

A kind of undead that is unique to the mist continent. When the peculiar mamono mana enshrouding the mist continent comes to dwell within a corpse, it is raised as a jiangshi. For an undead, their body is in extremely good condition. There is no decomposition, they're tough, and they boast superhuman strength. There are even some who excel at martial arts. However, due to rigor mortis, their body has become stiff, and they normally move by stretching their arms and legs out and hopping.

Their intelligence is so high that there are even some individuals that can use magic, and unlike those such as zombies, their behavior doesn't seem to be driven by impulses; though in the condition of starvation they do become that way, being extremely ferocious and aggressively assaulting human men, using their superhuman strength to pin their victims down and violate them. Also, their fingernails have a toxin that can induce a temporary state of apparent death in human women and cause them to transform into jiangshi.

Their stiff body loosens up as they obtain pleasure and human men's mana. When they straddle a man and begin moving their hips, at first, since their body is completely stiff, all they can do is bounce up and down humping indifferently. But once their body gets warmed up from the pleasure, and they're showered in mana, they gradually shift into moving their hips more alluringly and lasciviously. As their body loosens up, conversely, the man's penis being engulfed by it will stiffen even more, and their softly loosened vaginal walls will flexibly milk his semen.

Their erotic sensations are invigorated as their body loosens, and the pleasure they themselves can obtain also increases. At first, their breath is cold like a corpse, and they move their hips indifferently, but even they will end up letting out vigorous and sensual moans, and long, feverish breaths.

They have semen poured inside again and again like this during sex and their body loosens up, but after a while their body will start to stiffen again. For that reason, it is recommended that those who become their husbands should maintain the heat and softness of their body as much as possible not just by having sex, but in daily life too by periodically reaching inside their clothes with a hand and rubbing their breasts and buttocks. Additionally, not only does their body stiffen, their thoughts also stiffen. If denied pleasure and mana for a lengthy period of time, their gaze will become fixated on their husband's nether region, their mind will become preoccupied with thoughts of having sex with him, and he will end up getting violated just like when they first met.

The talisman stuck to their forehead is called a "spirit recalling talisman", and by sticking it to a corpse, it's possible to bind the spirit to a corpse, or call the spirit back to a corpse. Further, by drawing in mamono mana from the surroundings at the same time, it has the power to trigger a corpse's transformation into a jiangshi. The binding and recalling aspects don't have much effect on those who have already revived, and there is no harm in removing the talisman, but modifying some of the characters written on it can have various effects on the jiangshi it is affixed to. Other than further increasing their superhuman strength or magic, if lewd words are written, it can cause them to express themselves in a more indecent and lustful monster-like manner. By writing in the husband's name, one can make it so that they recognize their companion and owner more deeply.

However, as mentioned before, jiangshi that have already revived have no need for the talisman, and even if the characters written go against their will, they can peel it off with their own hands right away. So it's not like they can be totally enslaved.

クノイチ

Succubus Family
Demon Type

Kunoichi

Habitat.....	Zipangu Region (Mountainous areas, human settlements)
Disposition.....	Devoted, calm, poor expression of emotions
Diet.....	Human men's spirit energy

A type of succubi who have undergone a peculiar development that live in villages called "shinobi no sato" deep within mountains and other places people don't come near. "Kunoichi" were originally human ninja women, but when the demon lord took over some of them were changed into succubi, originating the "kunoichi" as monsters. Their wings have atrophied, but compared to the original type their physical abilities are extremely high, and they excel at swift, agile movement. Their long, slender, yet powerful tail isn't just used for binding and carrying their prey, it also serves as a grappling hook, allowing them to freely move on walls and ceilings. They're brought up with various training from childhood, so they excel at secret techniques and martial arts. They use spells called "ninpo" such as "bunshin no jutsu" etc. to perplex opponents. Being highly capable succubi, they're also adept at bedroom techniques for pleasing men. They are renowned as a first rate secret organization, and kunoichi are dispatched from shinobi no sato as mercenaries to serve prominent monsters and humans from monster friendly territories, not just in Zipangu, but throughout the entire world.

Normally they perform a variety of missions as scouts and spies, etc. but those with plenty of experience are given missions of the greatest importance, "assassination missions." Their objectives are mainly to neutralize targets that are men of anti-monster territories. Although they call it assassination, they don't actually take lives. No matter how fortified the castle, a kunoichi on a mission can sneak into the bedroom without anyone noticing and have sex with her target. They continue to train their body and bedroom skills on a daily basis all for that moment when they defang their targets, claiming his heart for their own. If the man was an important person, she'll be able to freely manipulate him by pouring in love and pleasure. The man will be so charmed by the kunoichi, who is a monster, that he'll betray the anti-monster forces, switch to the monsters' side, and try to change the anti-monster territory into a monster-friendly territory from within.

After completing a "monster style assassination" in this way, they regard the men they enthrall as their lords, and stay by their sides as loyal attendants. With love and devotion, they aid their lord's plans for converting into a monster friendly territory.

After that, if the man has finished his role, or finds himself in great danger, or if the target wasn't an important person to begin with, he'll be taken back to shinobi no sato as a husband for the sake of producing children, effectively wiping him completely from human society. These missions are one of the most important things in their lives. They are the goal they yearn to achieve. All of the kunoichi grow up dreaming of these missions for seizing a beloved man of their very own. It's not an exaggeration to say that all the training they do from childhood is all for the sake of these missions. Furthermore, if they take a liking to a man in the middle of an ordinary mission, that man will become the mark for their future assassination mission. Since it'll take priority even over assassination missions requested by shinobi no sato, those other than important men of anti-monster territories can't let their guard down. After getting their hands on a man, the kunoichi prioritize having sex with their men every day, so many of them retire from the scene, focusing on producing and rearing children.

Furthermore, many of them are reticent, and don't express very much outward emotion, but it seems this is because the founders of the kunoichi passed down the teaching "One should only reveal one's true heart and feelings in front of a husband that one truly loves."

Lesser Succubus

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

Habitat.....Unclear

Disposition....Lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

The earliest stage after a human woman transforms into a succubus by having mamono mana flow into her body through sex with a succubus (reference p.8), ect. Just like the succubi, they absorb mana through having sex with human men, sustaining themselves. As for how they differ in outward appearance from succubi, they have comparatively smaller horns since they've only just grown in, small, translucent wings and tail, and hair covering various parts of their bodies. They use magic in order to make their bodies more appealing so that they can seduce men. The hair is there to protect their bodies during this time.

When a human woman changes into a succubus, the first thing that happens is that her lust and the sexual sensitivity of her body skyrockets to an unbelievable level. Since they're starving for mana, they become overcome with an intense hunger. Women who've only just become monsters still have their human values, but with a monstrous body that's hot for men, and an intense feeling of hunger, the human mind can't hold out. Driven by desire, they end up attacking human men.

Once they get a taste of the devilish pleasure, they become its prisoner. Their human values crumble away. They drown in it, seeking men and pleasure with all their heart. As they gain human mana in this way, their little horns, wings, and tail grow bigger, and their heart becomes more and more lustful, completely transforming into a succubus. Even after becoming a succubus, their base personality and memories are still all the same from the time when they were human, but their values change in whatever way is needed to become those of a succubus. They will start to aggressively assault men, in pursuit of mana and pleasure.

There is no known method to change a woman who has become a succubus back into a human. In the case that one's lover ends up becoming a succubus, he should give up on saving her and just run away immediately. If not, he'll probably be taken by her to a mamono realm, and be forced to frequently copulate with the bewitching, lustful demon that she has become for the rest of his life.

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

リツチ

Lich

Habitat.....Graveyards, ruins

Disposition....Calm

Diet.....Human men's spirit energy

Powerful human sorceresses who changed into undead. There are also those who chose to become liches of their own accord in pursuit of eternal life and limitless knowledge. They possess much greater magic power than they did while amongst the living. They are terrifying high rank undead that can freely use various spells such as "necromancy" which reanimates corpses into undead servants, and "eromancy" which manipulates lust and heightens pleasure. Most of them have a strong fixation with and thirst for knowledge of sorcery, and the pleasure of sex, which they awakened to after becoming monsters. Even in death they continue their lewd magical research and experiments to master sorcery and reach the depths of pleasure.

They usually immerse themselves in their research at dwellings away from human settlements, and they rarely reveal themselves in front of people. However, a human man is absolutely necessary to them as they replenish their magic power by taking in spirit energy, a man's body serves as a test subject, and there are spells and sexual experiments which require both a man and a woman to perform, so if they spot a man, they'll aggressively attack in an attempt to subdue him.

To them, even their own body is a material for experimentation, and it is imbued with various lewd spells so that they can maximize the pleasure for themselves and their partner during sex. When they attack a man, they also imbue the man's body with various spells. By having sex when each other's bodies are imbued with these spells, they enthrall a man with their sorcery and body.

Most of them don't take much interest in others, with the exception of the man they chose as their husband, a monster's one and only partner who shares the greatest pleasure with her. They have an even stronger attachment to him than to sorcery.

The man who became their husband will spend his days thinking and pursuing experiments of sex and magic in order to reach the depths of pleasure and sorcery as their eternal partner.

Their body is imbued with various spells by their own hand to become more lascivious, sensitive, and insatiably lustful so that they can obtain more spirit energy and pleasure. Once they have sex with a man with their body in such a state, they will be attacked by so much pleasure that it would normally cause them to lose their mind and become a beast. However, while they do immensely enjoy the deep pleasure, they maintain enough composure to analyze sex, pleasure, and the effects of the spells they used. This is because they put their soul into a vessel called a "phylactery", and they distance their soul from the pleasure and spirit energy their body receives.

Due to this, they can enjoy pleasure and maintain the capacity for calm, objective thought even right in the middle of sex with their husband whereas other monsters' minds would be consumed by pleasure. But if the phylactery is damaged, the soul returns to their body. If they have sex in that state, not only their body, but even their soul as well will be swallowed by pleasure and spirit energy, and then they'll become unable to think about anything but their beloved husband in front of them.

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

Lilim

Habitat.....Mamono realm

Disposition.....Lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

A general term for the daughters of the Mamono Lord who possess both incredible magic power, and beauty that captivates men and won't let them go. They have pale skin and pure white hair, which they share in common with the Mamono Lord, and red eyes full of mamono mana.

Other than that, their looks and personalities all vary depending on the individual, but all of the lilim have a lustful personality, and their heads are full of thoughts of sex, as is becoming of a succubus. They have a deep love for all men and monsters, and they want nothing other than for humans and monsters to live together in harmony, seeking each other's bodies and lustfully having sex. To them, that is the ideal form of human-monster relations, and that is what they like more than anything else.

They have the greatest power of all succubi, but even if they don't use their power for charm spells, almost all men would become their prisoner after only catching a glimpse of their visage. Even without using words of temptation, men are aroused at the sight of them and consumed by total lust. If they tempt a man, even without magic, there is no element of force even necessary. The men themselves will step forward and offer their bodies, desiring to be ravished by them. It is said that even if a man charmed by them had been a monster-hating devout follower of the Chief God only moments earlier, from then on he would be eagerly looking forward to the devilish pleasure they can offer.

They have the power to rule over many men, but no matter what, their goal is the same as that of most of the other monsters and their own mother, the Mamono Lord: to find the one man they love most in all the world and always be strongly longing for one another and lustfully having sex. All they want is to become one with their ideal husband.

Just like the Mamono Lord, they are beings that have the mamono mana of all the monsters in the world contained within their bodies. Just like the Mamono Lord, they have the ability to cause human women to be reborn as any kind of monster race through having sex, as long as the resulting race is of one that is subordinate to the Mamono Lord and was always, or has effectively become, entirely a monster race.

In order to create an ideal world, they will aggressively try to convert human women into monsters. The race the women end up getting changed into varies depending on the individual, the time, and other circumstances. Sometimes the women are changed into a monster that suits their personality and ideals, but most of the time the lilim decide the race depending on their mood.

They are the symbol of the Mamono Lord's power. The more their numbers increase, it means the more sex the Mamono Lord has had with her husband, and the more vast the power she has built up has become.

Also, by continuing to have sex with their husbands and build up power, the world becomes more saturated with the succubus' mana. This has the function of maintaining the present system of the Mamono Lord and monsters. If they are raised into succubi of enormous power as successors of the Mamono Lord, then even if the Mamono Lord were to be destroyed by the Chief God, the world would still be full of their mamono mana. The current world of carnal relations between humans and monsters could still be maintained.

• Chimera Family • Demon-beast type

マンティコア Manticore

Habitat.....Wastelands, volcanic areas, mountainous areas

Disposition.....Ferocious, aggressive, cruel

Diet.....Carnivorous, wild animals etc. Human men's spirit energy

A hybrid beast having the body of a beast, bat-like wings, and a tail equipped with a spiny lump of flesh at the end. They are highly intelligent, with a cunning and cruel disposition. Being sadistic, and infinitely lustful, they enjoy aggressively violating human men and milking their spirit energy. Because of their cruel disposition, they purposefully do not deny the fake stories being told in some anti-monster states about "monsters that feast on human flesh", and they act as if they really do eat humans. Many of them enjoy the look of a man in terror, and how the reaction changes afterward when he is bewildered by pleasure.

The interior of the lump of flesh on their distinctive tail is covered with soft walls of flesh and a countless number of folds. It has been adapted as an organ for milking semen, specializing in pleasuring a penis and spurring ejaculation. Once the mouth on their tail opens and engulfs a penis, they're able to make the walls of flesh pulse at will even while tightly wrapping it, causing continual pleasure and easily guiding a man to ejaculation.

They have venomous spines growing on their tails that are used to prevent interference while milking semen, but besides that, they can also fire them at their prey. This lewd venom has the effects of causing a man's body to produce huge amounts of semen and spurring ejaculation. In this state, if a man's penis is engulfed by their tail, he will reach climax every time the walls of their tail move, and ejaculation will be repeated relentlessly.

Furthermore, in a cruel twist, this venom doesn't influence the mind anywhere near as much as it influences the body. Knowing fully well what will happen after that, they maliciously retract their spines as if to let the man pull off their tail, but once the man grabs it in his hands, his body will completely ignore his own thoughts, and instead move on its own seeking more ejaculations.

The man will grab their tail and jerk his own penis with it, inducing continuous ejaculations with his own hands. They have infinite lust, and to satisfy it, they'll use their tail as a pump to milk huge amounts of semen while defanging the man.

When they attack a man they always use their tails. They just keep sipping spirit energy through their tail for a while after catching a man as though he's nothing but prey to them, and they don't use their vagina like other monsters. A man's spirit energy taken in through their tail efficiently bonds with their body, and diffuses entirely throughout it. Even if they don't suck spirit energy directly through their genitalia, it reaches their vagina, uterus, the inside of their mouth, and even their fingertips. They become intimately familiar with the taste of the spirit energy, and the shape of the penis of the man who will become their husband. Ultimately, it causes their body to be remade perfectly for their husband's exclusive use so that they can pleasure him even more rapidly than usual and taste his spirit energy.

After specializing every part of themselves for their husband in this manner, they will ravish him using their vagina for the first time. The sex on that occasion results in such great pleasure that both of them will no longer be able to live without it, and this is ingrained in their bodies. This, for sure, is proof of marriage to them. That's how much their husband and sex with him is special to them, but they almost never speak of their true feelings.

Mummy

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

Habitat.....The desert region (ruins)

Disposition....Simple

Diet.....Human men's mana

A type of undead that inhabits the ruins of the desert region, etc. They are reanimated when mamono mana accumulates in a human corpse. Under anubis (p154) they protect the ruins, serving the role of soldiers who repel tomb raiders and their ilk. Their personality and memories from when they were among the living remain; however, starving mummies lose their rationality and act on instinct, so they are extremely dangerous.

They are always overwhelmed with the feeling that their bodies are dried out, so they attack men in order to take in mana through sexual intercourse. They shove a man to the ground and rub their entire body against his as if to cover him, and then, when they take a man inside, they move their hips violently and churn their insides as if trying to moisten their dry body.

By absorbing the semen that will be released before long, their thirst and hunger will finally be satiated. After having taken in mana, their rationality and intellect increase, causing them to become temporarily docile; however, their greedy body will soon be starving for semen again and go dry seeking a man, so once caught a man will not simply be released.

Another thing, they are also known to attack women as well, and in that case, the woman would have all the magical energy of her body sucked out, and would end up becoming a "mummy" herself. Women transformed into mummies in this way are the same as other mummies. Because of the lack of magical energy, they feel hungry, dry, and will assault men.

Furthermore, their skin is extremely weak to stimulation. Even just from being touched, they feel an extreme rush of pleasure. Upon receiving such stimulation, the pleasure would be too great, and they may become temporarily paralyzed. In order to prevent this, they cover their bodies in special bandages that curtail the pleasurable feelings. For that reason when you encounter a mummy, if you can undo the bandages, you can stop her from moving, and escape would then be a simple affair.

However, in general, they leave part of their body exposed with no bandages around it. If one touches that place, it seems to cause intense pleasure rather than disgust. So they aren't just carrying out their duty to protect the ruins under anubis' orders, they're probably just doing it simply because they want to have sex with men who come to the ruins.

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

ナイトゴーント Night gaunt

Habitat.....Underground, caves

Disposition.....Indifferent, obedient, malicious

Diet.....The mana of human men

Demons with a bizarre appearance who have their whole body covered in a black film, and one of the races of monsters belonging to the abyss. They are poor at expressing emotion, and it's difficult to read their intentions from their expression. Since they serve someone, and basically act in accordance with their master's will, it's hard to tell what they themselves are thinking, but if a human strikes their fancy, they'll soar through the sky and carry him where he wants to go. Conversely, if they don't care for a human, apparently they'll snatch him up and carry him off into the sky, only to drop him right in the middle of a swarm of monsters in heat, so it seems that they do indeed have emotions.

Normally, they lurk in dark places such as underground or in caves, but when night falls, they fly around the sky, intent on swooping down on human men who strike their fancy and wrestling them. Their behavior after that is quite eccentric. Even after binding a man, they don't go straight into attempting copulation, instead only caressing him intently. At a glance, from the way it looks as their busily moving fingertips stroke a man's body, it even seems as though they are tickling the man, but the purpose of this behavior is to coat the man's body in the mucus secreted by their own body. Mucus is thoroughly and persistently plastered all over a man from his face and chest all the way down to his lower parts, and as it permeates his body, so too does the pleasure induced by their caresses intensify. A man whose expression was filled with disgust and bewilderment at the beginning will end up grinning lewdly later on.

At this point, they finally seek to copulate with the man, and after even his mind has been violated by the mucus, he will not refuse it. In fact, sometimes, the man will end up attempting to initiate intercourse on his own. The pleasure induced by their body is painted over a man's mind along with the mucus, and once a man has known it, he won't be able to stop grinning lewdly at them and lustfully insatiably for them.

Once the mucus has completely permeated a man's body through intercourse, his nature will change so that he will become a fitting husband for them. He obtains a grotesque demon-like form, and along with that, he can secrete and control mucus just as they do, plus he'll be able to dissolve the film covering their body by touching it. Additionally, their expression actually changes in a variety of ways, and their husband will then be able to sense their emotions, although it is said that they still appear emotionless to those other than their husband and fellow members of the same race. After obtaining a husband, they become dependent on their husband's lust and will, and they will mostly think and act in an obedient manner. Generally, they'll end up spending their time constantly copulating.

Based on their appearance, it is easily possible to distinguish whether or not they have a husband. Married individuals have a grotesque creature, which is their husband grappling them from behind, with countless tentacles crawling all over them, and it can even look like they're having sex in the rear entry position. Moreover, the black film covering the body of such an individual is not their own, but their husband's mucus. The film pulses, vigorously squeezing and rubbing their breasts and buttocks according to their husband's will, continually providing pleasure and ecstasy.

The husband is also freely able to return to human form, but since their husband had gained total dominion over them by constantly joining with them and continually providing pleasure, it seems they experience anxiety when he changes into human form and separates from them, and it's said they will behave in a clingy manner towards their husband.

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

落武者 (オチムシャ)

Ochimusha

Habitat.....Zipangu region (graveyards, former battlefields)

Disposition....Calm, devoted

Diet.....Human men's mana

Warriors of Zipangu called "bushi" who died with regrets, but were revived by yokai mana dwelling in their corpses. While they are undead, a firm will dwells within their eyes. Some of them return to the place they used to live to once again serve their former lord, and others will wander on foot seeking a new lord, becoming the faithful servants of the human men they encounter.

They have a peculiar value system called "bushido" which deems selfless devotion and taking responsibility by risking one's life as virtuous, and they will personally support their lord along his path and protect him. Even after death, they never neglect their training, and continuously boost their power as swordsmen. The sharp swords bushi wield that are called "katanas" become magical swords (lit: youtou) in which yokai mana dwells when gripped by them, releasing a flash of mysteriously alluring light, and their swordsmanship becomes even greater than when they were living.

Originally, they did battle with a readiness to lay down their lives, but having already lost their lives once and become undead, they are undying soldiers who do not lose their lives on the battlefield. No matter how much their bodies are wounded, their wounds will heal by receiving their lord's affection, and they will regenerate an even more beautifully powerful body.

They have high intellect, endeavoring in both the military and literary arts, and appear calm and collected, so they don't give off an undead vibe at all, however, by becoming undead, as a monster, their feelings of respect and obedience towards their lord become mixed up and merge with feelings of love and passion towards a man. Their loyalty towards their lord is at the same time the wholehearted romantic sentiment of a woman towards a man.

They desire to serve their lord, not only as a warrior, but as a woman as well, and should their lord desire them, they're always ready to offer their whole body at any time. But having lived and died by the sword, despite being monsters, they are not very skilled when it comes to romantic affairs, and because they tend to think of it as impertinent, they will not make a move on their lord themselves. However, it is said that they will seek their lord's affection after having fought and risked their life for him.

From all of their speech and conduct while serving constantly at their lord's side, one can catch a glimpse of their love and loyalty towards their lord, so naturally it's not uncommon for a lord captivated by that to end up in a physical relationship with them. And then, when they offer themselves to their lord as women as well, their hearts experience supreme bliss. Perhaps due to their nature and the monster's instinct, each time they have sex, it's as if the woman part of them gets tempered. While retaining the looks of their beautiful and well-toned warrior body, day by day, they change on the inside, becoming able to please a man like a veteran prostitute, and their body also changes, growing lewder and more womanly, as is appropriate for milking semen.

Furthermore, they are very obsessed with producing an heir for their lord. They won't openly assert their opinion, but they desire to bear their lord an heir themselves if possible. In Zipangu, as of the present, fundamentally only sons can succeed the house. Due to the circumstances of the present world, they can only bear daughters, so sometimes they fight under powerful yokai who have a radical ideology, and expand the territory of the yokai by slaying people one after another with their magical swords, which convert those slain into yokai.

• Ogre Family • Oni/Demihuman Type

オーガ

Ogre

Habitat.....Mountainous regions, caves,
wastelands, etc.

Disposition....Strong-willed, ferocious

Diet.....Meat, wild animals, etc.

Ferocious, dangerous monsters distinguished by their green colored skin and the horns growing out of their foreheads. As suggested by their appearance, they have crude, warlike dispositions. They're always wandering mountainous regions, caves, wastelands, etc. seeking men. Besides that, they are also often seen where humans and monsters battle. They use their superior physical abilities to go on a violent rampage, and then carry away their men after they've been beaten down.

They're constantly thinking about raping men. Should any strike their fancy, an aggressive sexual assault will take place. They try to fulfill their desires through violent sex. They love conflict and having sex with them is almost like fighting a battle. As if to compete with each other to see who can break a man sooner, they are likely to mercilessly beat pleasure into their men in order to bring them to climax as quickly as possible. It gives them pleasure and spurs their fighting spirit, setting them on fire, if their men hit them back. The viciousness of their assault will probably increase, as they try to give their men more and greater pleasure. Whatever the case, once they get started with sex, it won't end until either they or their partners are beaten into submission, no longer able to move. Until victory or defeat is decided, they will continue, but that's not to say that they would let a man go should he choose not to resist. Those who don't put up a fight are viewed as weaklings who deserve to be violated by the strong, and the one-sided abuse and rape will continue. Furthermore, once they feel they really like a man, they won't ever let him go. They are the victors and they'll rape a defeated man whenever they please, continuously violating him with violent pleasure.

Once captured, the only way to escape is to fight them and win. In other words, a man must give them so much pleasure during sex that they become unable to move, then, while they're out cold, he must run away. If a man isn't quick enough during this time, they'll probably soon revive and push him down, demanding a rematch since they have such great stamina. At this point, if they lose again, they oblige themselves to become a man's sex slave and prisoner. Once they're burning with more love and passion, the sex with them reaches new heights, becoming so intense that everything before pales in comparison.

• Ghost Family • Undead Type

ファンタム

Habitat.....Graveyards, ruins
Disposition....Cheerful, composed, lustful
Diet.....Human men's mana

A higher rank variety of "ghost" born from mamono mana bound with the soul of a human who lost their body, that stand out among others as having especially strong mental power. In the kingdoms of the undead (andeddo), "the lands of the undead (fushisha)", they are treated as nobility. Also, it is said that a ghost may transform into a phantom by having sex with her husband a countless number of times, sipping his mana, and continuously storing up mamono mana.

Their bodies are spiritual, and given form by mamono mana, and they can slip right through the walls and ceilings of buildings, allowing them to appear from anywhere and launch an assault on human men. Additionally, since they inherently possess just enough mamono mana to materialize, they are freely able to touch or be touched by humans and physical objects if they wish so, and so it is possible for them to have sex with men without any issues.

At a glance, they appear to have an elegant and dignified bearing suitable for a noble, but these beings are full of obscene thoughts. Just like ghosts, their thoughts are tainted by wildly indecent fantasies of men. Unlike ghosts, which think only vaguely and tend to be driven by fantasies of sex with men, their wild fantasies are about more than just sex and involve a story featuring a man that plays out just like a drama. It's said they enjoy these visions while clearly conscious, and since they're always immersed in their own world, they behave in an exaggerated theatrical manner as if they were an actress.

Like ghosts, they possess the ability to share their thoughts with others being possessed by them and they even have the power to transmit their own fantasies. When they spot a man who strikes their fancy, they use this power to drag the man into their fantasy world, and then whisper of love and tempt him to have sex.

Phantom

This power blurs the line between fantasy and reality for the person to whom it was transmitted, and it's so powerful that the man will be convinced that he's actually one of the characters in their fantasy tale. It's even said that sometimes, it not only affects the man who was targeted, but the people around him as well, dragging them all into the phantom's wild fantasy.

Additionally, their extremely powerful thoughts don't just remain inside their head, instead producing illusions which correspond with the tale they are creating and direct reality according to their desire, as if it were a play. Due to that, they can even freely manipulate the atmosphere of a situation on the spot, and men swallowed up by the atmosphere produced by them will feel that their encounter was predestined, and may even feel that marriage is an inevitability.

Men even more deeply incorporated into their tales will act out their scenarios with them; sometimes they'll become a knight and princess whose love is forbidden, and sometimes, they'll become lovers who are being torn apart by a family feud. All according to the phantom's scenario, they'll end up being joined together and have sex by the tale's end. When the program is finished, the man's body will already be engraved with the memories of sex with the phantom and pleasure. Even if it took place within a vision, the love fostered between the two of them will definitely feel real, and it will remain without disappearing. It would likely be impossible to avoid the fate of becoming a married couple.

Among the undead of the "land of the undead", an artistic culture flourishes, and within these kingdoms there are a great number of theaters. Phantoms lurk in the theaters along with "troupes without men" comprised of undead, lying in wait to claim stray men as their own.

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

ファラオ

Pharaoh

Habitat.....Desert region (ruins)

Disposition.....Various

Diet.....Mana of human men

Rulers of the desert who sleep within royal coffins deep within ruins that dot the desert region. Although they are monsters, divine power dwells within them. They are powerful beings that command the "anubis" and "sphinx".

It is said that they awaken from their long slumber when their ruins become filled with highly condensed mamono mana due to monsters that dwell in the ruins finding husbands and continuing to have sex. If there is sufficient mamono mana, they may also first be awakened by a man visiting their bedroom. The man who disturbed their sleep will be chosen as their eternal partner and will end up having to sate thousands of years of continuous slumber's worth of hunger and thirst with sex.

Originally they were not monsters, but humans. They were monarchs commanded to guide humanity by a certain god different from the current Chief God. The ruins where they sleep flourished in an age even more ancient than of the former mamono lords, and are remnants of kingdoms that were destroyed in the age of the former mamono lords. They went into a long slumber in order to instill divine power within themselves so that they could restore their former kingdoms and oppose those who destroyed them.

Although one could say they are living witnesses to history, they've only just awakened; and since they have been sleeping for such a long time, many of them have vague memories. They are presently aiming to restore their kingdoms to prosperity, and they endeavor to make children with their beloved partners.

If they, with their god-like power, awaken, water gushes out around the ruins; trees spring forth, and an oasis forms. The desert that was a land of death is reborn as a "bright green mamono realm", a realm with scenery no different from human lands, with blue skies and green trees.

Humans and monsters gather in oases that appear in the desert. Eventually, towns form, nations form, and they will go on to regain the shape of the former kingdoms.

With the royal talent for grasping the hearts of the people, the divine power to illuminate people, and devilish charm from awakening as a monster, the pharaohs possess a mighty "royal power." Upon meeting a majestic pharaoh, one would spontaneously kneel, whether human or monster. They would be unable to go without obeying the orders that pass her lips.

If they shout orders, even a busy anubis who dropped everything to seclude herself in her room with her husband; or a sphinx who planned to shirk her duties and have sex with her husband, would have to reluctantly strive to work seriously if it were the orders of a pharaoh. If a man is ordered to be their husband, even a hero who came to slay them would happily offer up everything and feel honored to be sought as a partner. Those who can resist are a handful of individuals who are either gods or have god-like power, or, otherwise, only in the case when one rejects the content of the orders from the bottom of their heart.

Perhaps because of their origins they are basically friendly towards both humans and monsters. However, for some reason, it seems they only don't think kindly regarding the order of the Chief God.

• Succubus Family • Fiend Type

パイロウ

Pyrow

Habitat.....Volcanic regions

Disposition....Bold, cheerful, lustful

Diet.....Human men's essence

A race of fiends that control fire and are also minions of the greater daemons that rule the volcanic regions known as "Balrogs". The fire mana dwelling within them makes their bodies flush constantly, and they're always lustfully seething with sexual arousal. Since these hedonistic and uninhibited girls are eager to engage in lascivious behavior as soon as they spot human men and will attempt to get their hands on them immediately, they stand out even among the succubus family which is full of lustful girls and are known as a race that's highly aggressive especially towards men.

Their level of lust is suitably becoming of a monster, but on the other hand, the behavior and attitude they take towards the men they set after is unbecoming and often seems casual and frivolous. By the same token, the way they attack men also gives off an extremely "non-serious" impression.

Upon keenly detecting a man's lust towards them, they may casually call out to him and speak and gesture in a sexually provocative manner, link arms, lean their body against him, and trace their fingers over his penis above his clothes, among other things, to give a frank invitation for sex. While that invitation indecently inflames sexual desire, it does not give even a hint of the feeling of a bestial predator or destructive devilish temptress like when a typical monster attacks a human. Instead, it's so relaxed and familiar that it's just as if they were calling out to a man who just happened to be passing by with the goal of making a bit of money, like a casual invitation to have a quick go for some relief. This aura the pyrow have deludes men into feeling that they can casually have sex with these girls without a care in the world and simply enjoy the pleasure, and when men leap at the offer, they would never even dream that it would develop into a relationship where they would be spending nearly an eternity continuing to be milked of their essence as a pyrow's husband.

Actually, when they perform this sort of seduction, they use their "power to light fire" on their prey, but instead of causing a radical sudden urge or change in condition, it is so subtle that most men remain unaware of the changes within themselves. Once the fire is lit in his heart, the prey will feel sort of feverish and at the same time become more easily excitable, getting fired up over the slightest things. Also, his lust will swell more easily too, and he'll soon grow hot and bothered. It frequently causes arousal and erections, creating an excuse for them to call out to their prey. Moreover, the presence of these monsters who give the impression "they wouldn't mind being used to casually vent lust" when they appear before men in such a state emboldens their prey and makes them uninhibited. Even honest men, timid men, and the like who would normally never do such shameless things will stare at them with raw lust in their eyes, gradually crawl their hands towards their buttocks, and invite them to an inn. It will be as if smoldering flames have suddenly flared up when they make advances on them thinking, "as long as it's her..."

This "power to light fire" comes from the fire mana dwelling within the bodies of these girls, and when joined with them through sex, naturally, the effects become even more powerful. If a man has sex with a pyrow even once, from then on, the fire of passion will light up immediately from even the slightest little thing she does, such as a casual wink or a mere touch, and once the fire has been ignited, it will continue to burn licentiously forever. The fire will be quenched with her body. And her availability for getting casual relief will spur it on repeatedly, so that eventually the man becomes unable to live without sex with her.

In this way, they can ignite a fire of passion and arousal in men and freely increase its firepower. In other words, they can induce the men they are pursuing to lust after them and make their own advances towards them. In short, if you've called out to them or they've called out to you, at that point, the outcome has already been decided. When playing with fire, it might not seem so risky, just one emission during a casual one-night stand, but that is only on the surface. Once a small flame is sparked, the fire spreads and your whole body is covered and burnt in no time at all. What they are is incarnations of the flames of passion from which there is no escape. Men will be utterly incinerated and milked dry.

RED ONI

• Ogre Family • Demihuman Type

Habitat.....Zipangu region (caves, mountainous areas)

Disposition....Strong-willed

Diet.....Omnivorous: prefers sake and meat

A kind of ogre called "oni" that only inhabit the Zipangu region, distinguished by the horns growing from their forehead, and, as the name suggests, their bright red skin. Because of their superhuman strength, which lets them wield a huge metal rod with ease, the people of the surrounding areas fear them as monsters.

However, they are by no means ferocious. Although their speech and conduct are rough, they are bighearted and good-natured monsters that don't fret over minor details. They pay no heed whatsoever to the fact that humans fear them, and sometimes they are even pleased to receive men and sake as sacrificial offerings without even doing anything.

Their most favorite things are men and sake, and they always drink a lot. They're always drunk, which stains their red faces even redder. On rare occasions, they head to villages to acquire sake and human men that catch their interest to bring back with them to their dwellings. They'll sip sake together with the man they brought inside. After boozing it up and thoroughly enjoying themselves, they'll violently push over a man and enjoy violating him thoroughly, as if he were a snack to go along with the drinks.

And then, after copulating wildly again and again until they are satisfied, they once again resume drinking. According to them, it seems "the sake they drink after getting refreshed by doing it with a man tastes several times better than usual." There is actually more to it than just their mood; the mana taken in from a man is said to enhance the deliciousness of sake. Were it the mana of a man they recognized as their husband, that would make it even more exceptional.

They are feared because it is said that "the men kidnapped are devoured," and they definitely are devoured, in a certain sense. Men that strike their fancy will be made their husbands, and will never be released by them again. These men will end up enjoying a feast of sake and flesh with them every day.

Other than that, men may also be brought along to drinking parties held by Zipangu monsters who are fond of drinking. At these parties, a man will be treated as the snack to go along with the drinks by the monsters gathered, and he will be ravished by them one after another. Whichever of the monsters takes a liking to the man will bring him home with her, and he will be made her husband. For that reason, most of the men kidnapped by red oni do not return to their villages, and it's no wonder they are feared and such rumors are going around.

Additionally, among these oni, there are said to be oni of various colors each having different traits, such as "blue oni".

レッドキャップ

Redcap

Habitat.....Graveyards, ruins
Disposition.....Ferocious (gentle)
Diet.....Omnivorous: prefers meat.

A race of goblins with a child-like form, distinguished by the red cap they wear that appears blood-stained, as the name suggests. They continuously accumulate an extreme lust that boils up ad infinitum, and they're constantly driven by the urge to violate men.

They always glare at men and grin with their desires and urges laid bare. These are extremely ferocious monsters who assault men. They lurk in places such as ruins, and relentlessly stalk the human men who will end up as their prey, employing tactics such as lying in wait to ambush a man and attack precisely the moment when their target is alone and defenseless.

Contrary to their child-like appearance, they display terrifying aggression when assaulting a man, mercilessly slashing at him with the weapon in their hands. Their weapons, made from mamono realm metal, injure their foe's mana, rather than his body, and instead of hurting, the wounds grow hot and throb. There are no external wounds, nor is it life-threatening, but if seriously wounded, the body will be immobilized for a while. They prefer to one-sidedly rape a man after slashing him up and depriving his body of freedom. The manner in which they have sex is incongruous with their petite body; they straddle a man as if mounting a horse, taking his penis deep inside, and then they drop their hips again and again as if crashing into him, inducing pleasure in a man that's even violent. The gasps and moans escaping a man's lips will greatly satisfy their urges and elevate them to even stronger excitement.

Even if a man releases semen, their urges won't subside, and despite him being in the middle of ejaculation, they'll further strengthen their hip movement, with a single-minded focus on continuously attacking a man, indulging in pleasure and mana. Men who fall into their clutches will be brutally milked of mana in that manner and end up having sex until they pass out.

Their mana becomes more thick, gooey, and red in proportion to their desires and urges, and it is their liquefied mana which also drips from their weapon. Actually, their caps are white to begin with and become stained red when this mana soaks in. In other words, the more their desires and urges build up from being unable to vent them by having sex with a man, the deeper the red color of their cap will be, and their ferocity increases in proportion to it. Due to that, the only individuals who appear in front of men who will end up as their prey are those with caps stained red since they don't have a specific husband.

On the other hand, the red stained caps of individuals who, by obtaining a husband, having sex again and again, and having mana continuously poured inside them; have had their desires and urges satisfied, and will regain their original whiteness. When their cap is in a white state, as a lingering effect of having been filled with human mana, they will appear to be intoxicated, and most will seem merrily spaced out; there is no apparent ferocity or aggression as in their red state. The expression in their eyes as they look at their husband also becomes a soft one filled with love. For example, even with their husband next to them, they would only smile at him like a little girl in a manner suitable to their appearance and snuggle up to him, and they would never do something like rape.

However, having obtained a specific partner, their desires and urges will grow even bigger and stronger, and they'll become unable to endure it. The urge will soon swell up and dominate them unless they are constantly immersed in ecstasy, basking in the afterglow of sex with their husband by having mana relentlessly poured inside them. If one were to skip even just a little bit of sex because they aren't attacking, their cap would suddenly be stained red, and their husband would end up being thoroughly ravished like when they first met.

• Golem Family • Undead Type

スケルトン

Skeleton

Habitat.....Graveyards

Disposition.....Simple, poor at expressing emotions

Diet.....Human men's mana

Human bones reanimated through the infusion of the Mamono Lord's power. They look like a kind of undead, but actually since their short-lived body was made through the infusion of mamono mana, they are a kind of golem, but made using bone as the material. Or it could be a type of ghost dwelling within the bones. That's another possible explanation. The opinions of researchers are still split. Just as other undead, they retain memories and thoughts from when they were still among the living, but most of them have a weak thinking ability and a fuzzy sense of self.

When they get hungry, instinct pushes them to wander around in search of the mana needed to maintain their body. When they spot a man, their instinct as a monster stands out among their vague thoughts and tells them what they should do then. They'll assault the man and straddle him according to the voice that echoes in their head, and await the arrival of mana while shaking their hips as their bones rattle.

The mana they acquire from having sex with a man in this manner allows them to store up mamono mana and regain a bit of their thinking ability and sense of self. Due to that, new thoughts will occur to them, and they'll then feel that the sex that they just now had was "pleasurable" and the mana was "delicious", and they'll have self-realizations such as, "I want to taste more of it" and "I want to violate the man before me." And then, they'll end up having sex with the man before them again to sate the desire that sprung forth. From then on, every time they have sex, the sense that "it feels good" and "is delicious" will swell enormously within them, and the self desire to have sex with the man grows strongly distinct, eventually becoming the driving force of their actions. Before long, they'll begin to sexually assault the man of their own free will instead of just instinct, and the movement of their hips and the gasps escaping from their lips will change to reflect their enjoyment of the pleasure.

Perhaps because they are ephemeral bone constructs, they don't have much strength. A strong force can shatter their body, but no matter how many times you shatter it, it will always soon come back together. Once they give chase, they will follow you everywhere, so it's very troublesome. However, once their hunger for mana has been sated, the self-motivation and thoughts that arose during sex have been satisfied by sex, so they once again become spaced-out and grow docile. Once they begin to become spaced-out, the only feeling that remains is the desire to be with the man who poured mana inside them, and it is said that they'll then entrust their thinking to the man and follow his orders.

Zombies and other undead type monsters can fundamentally never rise from a man's corpse; however, in the skeleton's case, mamono mana doesn't dwell within the body, the body itself is made up of mamono mana. They are an exception, and men's bones can become monsters too. Even in that case, the body formed is still a female body. Thoughts and memories from their life as men remain, but they mostly become twisted in ways such as the following: "When I was alive I was a woman." "When I was alive, my best friend was my lover."

There is a class of spells used for manipulating the dead known as "necromancy" but if used when a powerful monster is nearby, in a dungeon filled with mamono mana, or in a mamono realm, it is incredibly dangerous. Upon raising a skeleton, it would be infused with mamono mana and become a monster. After having just been born, she will be very hungry and will probably attack immediately.

• Succubus Family • Demon Type

サキュバス

Succubus

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition....Lustful

Diet.....Mana of human men

A greater demon possessing extremely powerful abilities that lives in mamono realms, etc. They are also called "inma." They appear in various places in search of human men even outside of mamono realms. Some of them also assume a human form and take up residence in human settlements. The majority of the monsters that have changed into the form of a woman and begun feeding on human mana have done so due to the influence of the current Mamono Lord, however, the succubi are a race that have always had the form of a woman and fed on mana, even ages ago.

In order to meet the desires of a wide variety of types of men, they range from having full, voluptuous bodies, to having bodies that stay like that of a child and never grow. Despite the variations, all are beautifully lewd, arousing the desire of men. Just as their appearances vary greatly, so too do their personalities, but every succubus has in common being extremely lustful and dedicated to the pursuit of pleasure.

They have powerful magic, but nearly all of it is used for seducing men. Whenever they find a human man, they use charm spells, their gorgeous bodies, and various means to seduce him, and gain mana through sex. Every aspect of the succubus is designed to enable her to bewilder men. Few, if any, would be able to elude the temptation, save for those men who possess truly remarkable willpower. After gaining mana, if they fancy a man, they'll bring him back home to their residence in a mamono realm.

Also, they do attack human women as well. In that case, they pour mamono mana into their partners through sex, and change them into succubi like themselves. Humans who have just barely been changed into succubi are called lesser succubi (p. 10). Additionally, succubi can transform men as well. Through intercourse with a succubus, eventually a man will become full of mamono mana.

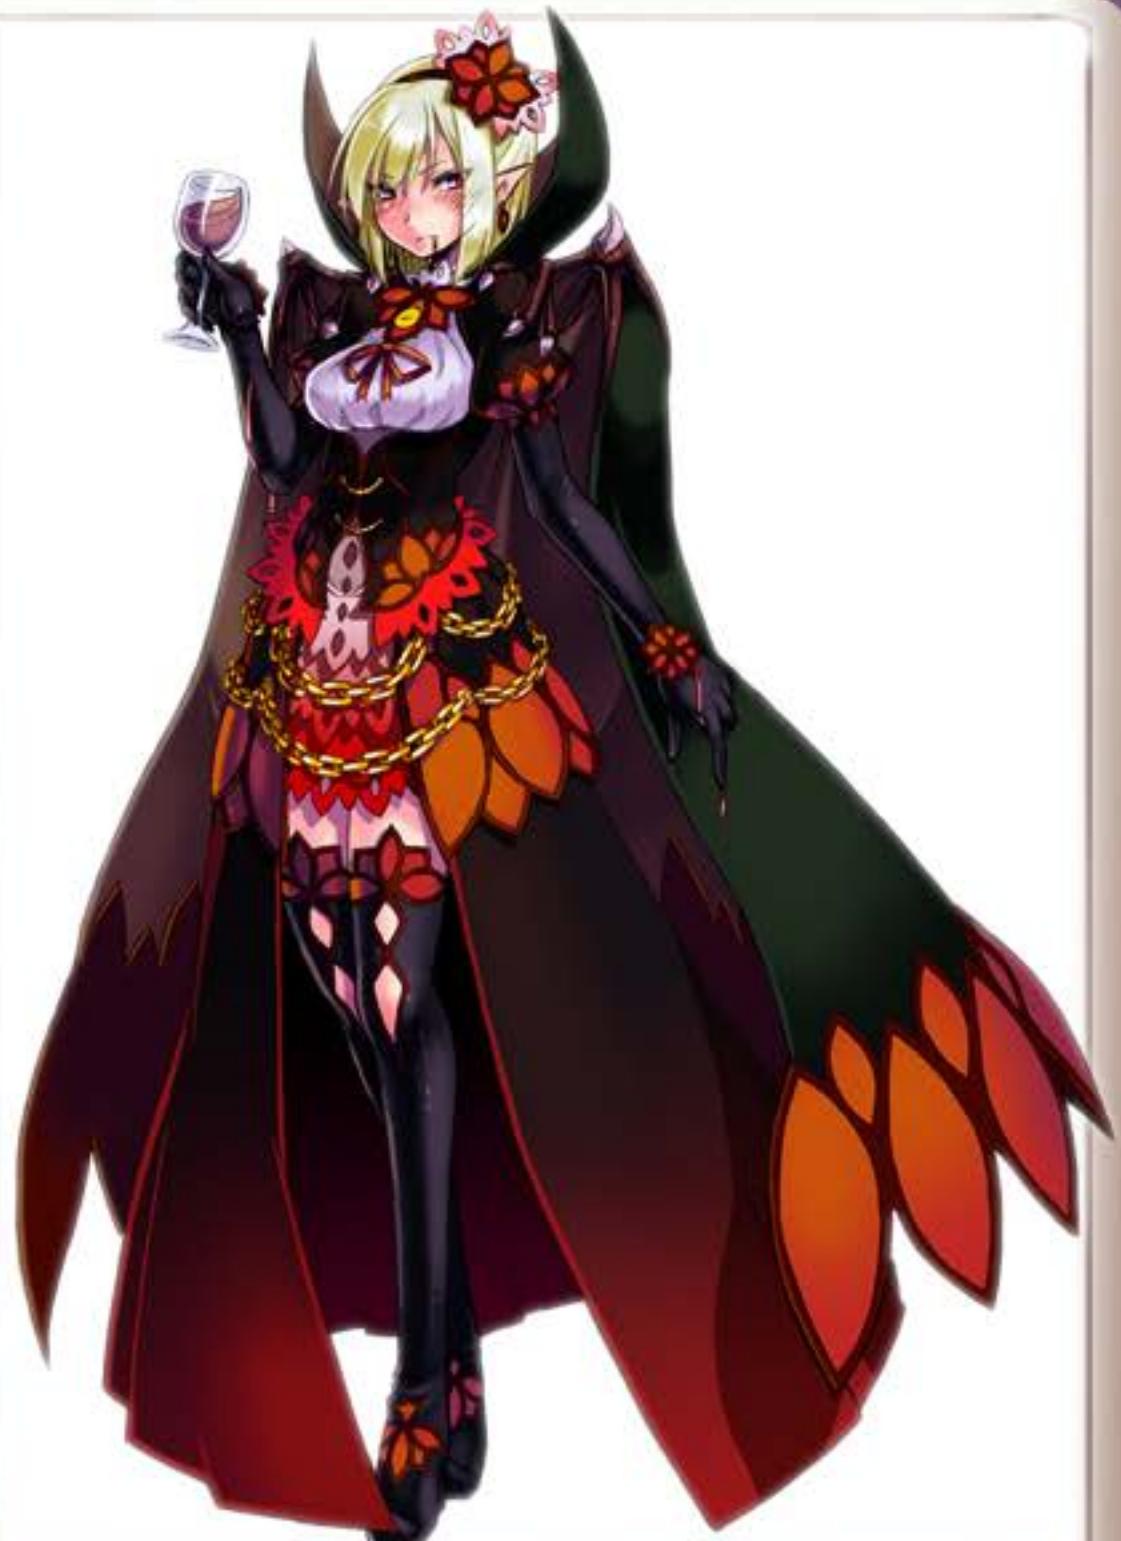

Such a man will have heightened sexual desire, and produce a high volume of mana to offer to the succubus. They end up becoming beings that are extremely useful to the succubi. Once this happens, they are no longer normal humans, but beings known as incubi (p. 13) whose very lives are fueled by the mamono mana gained through sex with the succubi. After becoming like this, one would be left with no choice other than to continue having intercourse with them for the rest of his days.

Furthermore, the current Mamono Lord who changed all of the monsters into having the form of a woman is a kind of succubus. In the era of the former mamono lords, the succubi were merely a medium ranked race of demons, but thanks to the rise of the current Mamono Lord, the rank of all the succubi has gone up greatly.

When the current Mamono Lord took over, the values of the monsters changed, and having sex with human men became the most important thing, so techniques for seducing and pleasing men, and the like, have mostly become more valued than raw fighting abilities. That is why the monsters acknowledge them as being superior.

Through the influence of the Mamono Lord, the appearances of all the monsters have greatly changed. All of the wicked and war-like monsters have instead become lewd, and lustful inma. When the beastmen come into heat, they seek human men. Many of the monsters have started to enjoy intercourse with human men for the sheer pleasure of it, even when it isn't necessary for feeding or reproduction.

All of these changes were fundamentally influenced by the nature of the succubi. At present, it would be fair to say that the succubi are representative of all the monsters.

Succubus Family Undead Type

ヴァンパイア Vampire

Habitat.....Mamono realms

Disposition....Strong-willed, haughty, stubborn

Diet.....The blood of human men

A higher rank race of monsters, boasting high magical power and a surprising amount of superhuman strength, which inhabit places such as mamono realms. They reveal themselves only at night and use the cover of darkness to attack their prey. They are extremely prideful, considering themselves to be "nobility" while strongly looking down upon humans as lesser beings.

Like other succubus family monsters, they feed on the mana of human men, but they don't obtain it through sex like a succubus would, instead biting a man's neck with their fangs and obtaining it in that manner. Perhaps because when they suck blood they infuse the man with a slight amount of mamono mana, the men don't feel pain from the act of them feeding. Instead, both the one doing the sucking and the one being sucked can obtain pleasure enough to melt each other's brains

So for the vampires themselves not only is a man's blood a sweet treat, at the same time it also makes them unbearably aroused just like an aphrodisiac. Due to the pleasure of the act of sucking and the blood itself, most of them feel a large amount of lust towards their prey directly after feeding, but as far as they are concerned copulation with a human being is a filthy act so most vampires are likely to try to control their lust.

Men they are fond of are taken away to their homes and kept as both servants and food sources, being forced to take care of the vampire herself. Although they look down on humans; due to the influence of the Mamono Lord's mana, when they are looked after by the man they brought home, a powerful feeling of love wells up, and when they look at that man their body will throb badly. Since they are monsters, they won't be able to resist the urge, and eventually they'll come to desire the man both physically and emotionally.

A man who lives as their servant is infused with mamono mana every time the vampire feeds, eventually being transformed into an "incubus." Men who have become "incubi" will then be treated by the vampires as "nobles" the same as themselves.

Due to this, since men cease to be the "humans" that they look down on, depending on the individual, they may totally change their attitude. There are even those who start to treat their men almost like lovers, as if all the feelings for the man they had been suppressing until then had been forced to the surface. It is said that they also become unable to suppress their lust during bloodsucking, and will then have sex with the man according to their desire.

When the mamono lord took over, their nature changed into that of a kind of succubus, so they can also obtain mana through sex. Once they start having sex with a man, the more they had been repressed, the more they will be enthralled by the strong pleasure that satisfies their devilish nature, and the sweet taste of semen, which will be on par with or perhaps even exceed the sweetness of blood.

Additionally, they also will rarely attack human females. This isn't for the sake of feeding, but for the sake of changing a woman determined to have a "noble nature" into one of their own kind. Women who have had their blood sucked are infused with a vast amount of mamono mana, and are transformed into "vampires" themselves.

They possess extremely high fighting abilities, but they also have a ton of weaknesses. Under the sun's rays, their physical abilities are weakened to the degree of an ordinary human girl, and just from touching fresh water, a powerful numbing pleasure will course through their body. Additionally, they are weak to garlic, and just smelling it will diminish their reasoning abilities, and render them unable to think straight. Were one to put it in their mouth, their rationality would completely disappear, and they'd end up going wild and seeking pleasure just like the original variety of succubus.

ワイト

Wight

Habitat.....Graveyards, ruins

Disposition....Lustful

Diet.....The spirit energy of human men

Undead raised from the corpses of a few superior individuals such as royalty or heroes. They are high rank undead that control numerous other undead, and those powerful wights that rule over an especially great number of undead sometimes create demon realms of everlasting night known as "undead kingdoms", and reign as monarchs of the undead. They have decadent, alluring beauty and high intelligence, and they behave appropriately in an elegant manner, overflowing with dignity, as suits them. However, their bodies are full of lust rather than decay, and they look at human men with raw passion in their eyes. They don't randomly attack men that they like, but most men who are tempted by them will have their hearts stolen by their devilish nature. They will desire to win their favor, and try to become theirs on their own. Most of them rarely show themselves in human domains, secluding themselves in a world of everlasting night, leading an elegant and lewd life full of pleasure with their male partner.

They excel not only at handling a man's body and soul, but his "spirit energy" as well. They can even freely manipulate the absorption of spirit energy and the pleasure that accompanies it. During sex they can deliberately sip spirit energy bit by bit through everything from the gentle touch of each and every one of their fingers, to close contact with their soft skin. As this takes place, the pleasure experienced by the man isn't just physical. Even his soul will melt sweetly. They'll captivate a man's heart, and they won't let go. Furthermore, they can steal almost all of a person's spirit energy just by touching them. If there's a hostile individual, they can make them faint and collapse as if kneeling before them by just barely touching them with a fingertip due to the exhaustion and overwhelming pleasure of having all of one's spirit energy taken out. If it's a human woman, then the spirit energy stolen from her body will be replaced by the wight's insuppressible demonic energy, and she'll turn into a wildly lustful undead, a loyal servant of the wight.

"Zombies", the quintessential undead, regain more of their looks from when they were among the living the more spirit energy they gain. Eventually, they even surpass their former beauty. Wights, which were beautiful to begin with, are even more remarkable, and as they have repeated intercourse with their partner, their body and soul become stained with the spirit energy of their beloved, and as they indulge in pleasure, the allure of their beauty increases even more. In the undead kingdoms, there is a high society where notable undead from around the world periodically gather accompanied by their husbands, the wights being the first among them. Sometimes, evening parties are held by these undead. At these gathering, the wights ostentatiously display their own beauty to those around them, and they also show off how deeply they love their partner, how many days they spent having sex, and what an indulgent individual they are.

Additionally, it is said that zombies may transform into "wights" by having frequent sex with their husband, sipping spirit energy, and storing up vast demonic energy. These newly born wights receive invitations to the undead kingdoms from out of nowhere, and they're invited to join high society with a very hospitable welcome.

• Ghost Family • Undead Type

ウイル・オ・ウィスプ Will-o'-the-wisp

Habitat.....Graveyards, ruins

Disposition.....Ferocious, gloomy, lonely

Diet.....Human men's mana

Undead monsters that result from the fusion of mamono mana with the soul of a person who died alone. Their bodies are comprised of raging flames of jealousy, and they wear something like a cage around their body to hold the flames in. They are persistent, ferocious monsters.

Because of their loneliness and feelings of dissatisfaction, they are extremely jealous of the living; especially lovers or married couples that seem to be happy. When they see a man and woman in love, their flames increase in intensity, and their ferocity increases even more. Due to this envy and jealousy of the living, there's always a darkly obscene passion swirling in their hearts. When they spot a human man they will smile gleefully as they assault and violate him.

Due to their origins, they have a sick obsession with men. When they capture a man they'll shut him inside their own cage. The sex will be intense and relentless; they'll adhere closely to a man's body and continue fondling him all day long without growing tired of it. When they kiss, they'll continue sucking with their mouth and entwining their tongue with his as if to suck up every last drop of his saliva.

Once they've joined with a man they hate it for his penis to leave their vagina. They transform their cage to bind the man and ensure that he cannot escape. Once that happens, they'll move their hips as if to cling to the penis, and a man will continuously have his mana squeezed and sucked out as he experiences pleasure of such a degree that he'll be under the illusion that even his very soul is being poured inside of them. In this way, a man will always exist inside of them.

When their body is filled with warm mana, they realize that they're not alone, and their once empty heart is filled with warmth and ecstasy. It is said that men who have had their body and soul seized by them and became their husband will not be released even after death when only their soul remains. They will end up continuing to have sex with them as their husband for eternity.

Also, sometimes, living men are not their targets; instead they trap in their cages the souls of men who died alone like them and make husbands of them. They say that when the living wander into their residence, they'll show off while they make love.

Furthermore, even after obtaining a husband, their deeply jealous personalities do not change. Every time they encounter a pair of lovers or a married couple other than themselves, they get jealous and express feelings of rivalry.

If a couple is intimately making love, they'll get jealous of it, and fawn on their husband as if to indicate that they would like to do the same. If there's a wife who devotedly serves her husband and smiles happily as she's able to make her husband happy with her own hands, then they will be extremely jealous and envious. They will then devotedly serve their own husband to the point that it becomes obsessive. In this manner, their flames of jealousy rage without limit, and they won't be able to settle down unless they're the most indecent and most loving couple.

Zombie

• Zombie Family • Undead Type

Habitat.....Graveyards

Disposition....Simple

Diet.....Mana of human men

An undead-type monster that is a human corpse reanimated by mamono mana. Although they retain their memories from when they were human, their intelligence and reason are diminished. Guided by instinct, they wander graveyards at night in search of human men. The decay of their bodies is suppressed by mamono mana, and even in the case of a messed up corpse with horrible wounds, becoming a zombie will restore the body to a certain degree. However, in order to maintain their bodies, they absolutely must have a man's mana. For that reason, their lust and appetite are extremely swollen compared to when they were human. When they spot a human man, they will aggressively attack to obtain mana out of both desires. They pile on their prey, indulging in sex and mana.

By obtaining a large amount of mana, a zombie's visible wounds will heal (yet, they don't become indistinguishable from humans), and they can regain the wits they used to have when living, but ultimately, due to their swollen lust and desire for sex, a zombie's thought patterns remain simple, and their wits won't often be used for intellectual pursuits. Furthermore, although they appear to be reanimated corpses, if the womb was originally intact, or an individual has received a large amount of mana resulting in the restoration of her womb, then it's even possible for them to have children. In that case, the children born will also be zombies. According to one theory, it is said that zombies aren't human corpses reanimated by mamono mana. Instead, they're human corpses that have changed into a living race called zombies.

Also, those who lack mana and have low intelligence sometimes attack human women by mistake. However, no matter how hard a zombie tries, and no matter how long she goes at it, she won't be able to obtain much mana from a human woman. Since their wits are lacking, they expect providing more pleasure to result in the release of mana, and they end up continuing to have sex for a very long time. Eventually, pleasure will flow into the woman's body along with zombie mana, which will violate her body and change her into a zombie while still alive.