

Honeybees gathering Alraune nectar

Alraune Nectar

Harvesting Location: Alraune mamono

Effect: aphrodisiac / stamina boost

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+4) dexterity

It's the bodily fluid of the monster "Alraune" that has the form of a beautiful woman wrapped up in a giant flower. It's a beautiful amber colored, half-translucent liquid that's very sticky and syrupy. Its natural sweetness is attractive, and it's often used in sweets, etc. This nectar simply has an aphrodisiac / stamina boosting effect. The thick, sweet odor given off by the nectar has the power to strongly attract human men.

Perhaps due to that effect, there's an image that it's mainly little children and women who are particularly fond of sweet confectionery, but confectionery made with this alraune nectar is highly popular with both male children and adults. For that reason, many monsters are polishing their cooking skills so they can feed delicious confectionery made using this sweet alraune nectar to their beloved husbands.

Additionally, alraune nectar is also popular with monsters too. "Honeybees" and "Grizzlies" are particularly fond of this nectar. For that reason, alraunes end up getting frequently attacked by honeybees.

When honeybees collect nectar, they get inside of the alraune's flower and tease her body, licking all over it and pleasing her, almost like they're having sex. By making the alraune drown in pleasure in this manner, they're able to collect ripened nectar that's one rank up. Since this ripened nectar has even more sugar than normal nectar, its scent is even more sweet and rich, and because of that, it has the effect of attracting men more strongly, and it has a fortified aphrodisiac and stamina boosting effect.

Also, in the case that the alraune is already married, the nectar will be ripened by the alraune and her husband showing off having sex in front of the honey bees. The honey bees being shown may get the urge to join in themselves, or hurry back home to have sex with their own husband, so it's pretty unbearable for them.

Furthermore, by rubbing this nectar into their own skin on a daily basis, the honey bees are able to attract men, making it so that they have a wonderful body that men want to suck all over even more.

In recent years, other monsters have also taken notice of the effect of this nectar on beauty. In order to attract a wonderful man to be their husband, and have him suck all over their body, they eat plenty of nectar and rub plenty of it into their body.

Note: It would be assumed that this can be gathered from subspecies such as Liliraune and Barometz as well.

Arachne Silk

Harvesting Location: Collected/received from Arachne mamono

Effect: durable garment / spirit energy

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+2) charisma

Spider silk produced in the bodies of spider monsters such as Arachne and Jorou-Gumo, and clothing made using it. They're experts at sewing, and using their fine and durable spider silk they can make fine and beautiful clothing. Even among humans it fetches high prices as top quality clothing.

Clothing made with the special material arachne thread using the secret methods of the arachne has several benefits that monsters are glad about. It's durable enough to not tear even when they're going at it like an animal with their husband, and wrinkles are easily undone. Also, when their husband soils the clothing with semen, it can be easily washed off, and although this is so essence glues persistently to it, and continues to remain no matter how many times they wash it. (The odor of semen completely disappears and only the sweet fragrance of essence, which can also be considered the smell of their husband, lingers permanently, but it's only discernible by monsters.)

The more semen ejaculated on the clothing by their husband, the more it carries essence and that fragrance. Just wearing the clothing can envelop them in happiness, as if they're always in their husband's embrace. It makes them really feel like they belong to their husband, and they can assert it to other monsters. In this way, the clothes produced by the arachne are the best suited for wearing while a monster has sex with her husband. For that reason, clothing made by the arachne is especially popular amongst the monsters. Many of the designs are produced with monsters in mind. They incite arousal and passion in men, and they're mainly designed to make them want to have sex with the clothing on. Garments are made with the concept that even if they look wholesome at a glance, they'll still drive men crazy and make them want to sully them.

In this way, most arachne-made clothing is produced with women or monsters in mind. Conversely, clothing for men is hardly ever seen, and almost never circulates in the market. Normally, the arachne almost never make clothes for men. That's because when they do make clothes for men, it has a very significant meaning to them. When an arachne puts clothing made from threads originally meant for binding prey on a man, it means that man is bound to them for life and they'll never let him go no matter what. In other words, to them it's something that only happens once in a lifetime: a proposition of marriage.

They put the strongest love into the clothes they make for their husband, spending the most time and selectively using only the finest thread. The clothes are their finest products. The spider silk used for these clothes is completely glossed with the arachne's overwhelmingly potent love as well as her mamono mana. By wearing these clothes, a man will continue to be perpetually bound by the mamono mana of the arachne. He'll also be showered in mamono mana during intense sex with the arachne, and in no time at all he'll be able to change into an incubus husband just for the arachne.

Bitter Holstaur Milk

Harvesting Location: purchase in the village of Ryu

Effect: aphrodisiac cure / liquid luck

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) constitution

In addition to intimate conversation for couples after a bath in LongQuan Village, there's also this! Holstaur's Milk! What's more, it tastes bitter! Carefully selected Demon Beans, grown in Mamono Realms like Royal Makai, are added to fresh milk, which is allowed to be bought freely from any ranch that is part of the Holstaur Cow Association. It's a dream dish made possible by direct imports from there! That's right, put your hand on your hip and please drink some! It's a local Ryu tradition!

It's okay, it's full-fledged Holstaur milk and the amount of mamono mana in it is low, so people can drink it safely. Isn't it even common in some lands among the anti-monster nations who are enemies of monsters? This bitter taste, bitterness, and aroma of Demon Beans firmly complements the delicate and rich taste of Holstaur milk. When cooled for long periods of time, such milk has the effect of clearing up a heated head caused by a LongQuan spring!

What's more, there's a nice bonus! Please take a look at the lid of the milk bottle. The wooden lid is engraved with different kinds of patterns, such as national flags and emblems of the Mamono Realms! Since this pattern is different on every bitter milk cap you can buy in town, collecting a collection of milk caps is also part of the fun of visiting LongQuan Village. I also have a distinctive wooden collection box here!

It's not cold at all and your body is still hot?

It's only natural, because Demon Beans, when roasted well and mixed with water, often turn into powerful aphrodisiacs

If they are mixed with plain water, thinking will not be as clear. If you drink even one sip, it will be enough to attack the lady with a clear intent similar to that of your monster lady next door. It's a handy aphrodisiac, but Holstaur Milk has the all-around mildness to neutralize that effect!

Call-Back Bed

Harvesting Location: Succubus mamono

Effect: spawn point / mamono trap

Stats: (+4) health

A fluffy bed that has a dubious charm resembling that of an Inma, that you want to leap into with just a glance. By having a human male sleep in this bed, it can remember the essence of the man in the bed. If a man the bed has memorized sleeps in a place other than this bed, no matter where in the world, he will be brought back, and wake up in this bed. Not only when sleeping, but also when a man faints or loses consciousness due to medicine or magic, he will be returned to this bed.

Among mamono, it is mainly used to prevent men they have their eye on from escaping. Even if a man temporarily escaped before joining with a mamono, when he falls asleep, he will return to this bed again. Beds in rooms given to men captured by mamono, as well as beds placed in conspicuous "Safety Zones" and "Inns" existing in the nesting places of mamono are possibly this "Call-back Bed". Even if you escaped safely from the nesting place of a mamono, surely you will be returned into a horde of mamono.

Per each "Call-back Bed", only one man can be remembered, even if another man sleeps on a bed that has already remembered a man, it will not show its effect. Also, for each male, there is only one "Call-back Bed" that will remember him, and if a man remembered by a bed sleeps in another "Call-back Bed", along with the new bed remembering him, the old bed forgets the man and its effect is lost.

Also, when a remembered man sleeps in the bed, if there are stronger magical powers present that intentionally restrain the man, he will not return to this bed. A strong magical power that has a clear intention of capturing men and not letting them go, that is, "Mamono Mana" do it according to the lust of mamono. In cases such as sleeping with a mamono, lost consciousness by a mamono that aims to ravish a man, or energy is lost by having sex with mamono etc., you will not be returned to the bed.

In addition, the bed's mamono owner can freely forget a man remembered by "Call-back Bed". Also, an essence connection is made between men and the "Call-back Bed", it remembers men by that, and through "Transference Magic" brings them back, but if there is a stronger link with a man, that is, if a man has a mamono partner, you can freely sever the connection between the man and the bed.

In that case, there is no need to recognize the existence or location of the bed, since just having a man on hand is good. If you are together with a mamono, you will not be called back to the bed, if that state continues for a long time, the connection between the man and bed will be lost naturally.

Canteen of Magical Supply

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: converts mana to water

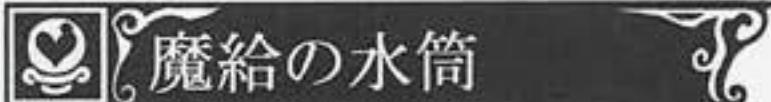

Stats: (-2) strength & (+4) health

A magical canteen that can produce water with mana. By putting very little water elements into it and holding it while thinking, it is possible to pour the mana of the one touching it into the canteen, and a technique to produce "water" with the mana poured in is included.

It is a reassuring magic tool for travelers crossing the harsh desert, but because it consumes mana, that is, physical strength and vigor, in exchange for water, in the event of using one's own mana, it should be thought of as insurance for when the last of the water prepared beforehand runs out. On the other hand, if crossing the desert with a being overflowing with mana, that is, in the case of a mamono traveling companion, if they are your partner mana supply via intercourse or kissing can also be conducted, so by pouring mana into a mamono you can secure safe and limitless moisture. In addition, even if alone it is possible to receive mana by encountering mamono that live in the desert.

It does not turn mana into a liquid state, the canteen consumes the poured in mana, and is an object with a technique said to produce water, so even if you pour in mamono mana you can produce fully-fledged "water". Although, whether ordinary "water" is produced is dependent on the mamono that poured mana into it. It becomes "normal water" because of the regulation and adjustment of mana by the mamono pouring in the mana. In situations where the mamono asked to pour mana by a man is sexually excited or harbors feelings for the man, because the adjustment is ineffective dense and large quantities of mana are poured into the canteen, the mamono mana will erode the water produced, and it brings about an aphrodisiac effect.

In addition, in the case where one possessing mighty mamono mana such as "Apophis" pours mana into the canteen with clear intent of erosion, then even the element of water contained in the canteen may be eroded by the mamono mana. Once eroded by mamono mana, the completely altered "Canteen of Magical Supply" forever loses the power to produce "normal water". Since the element of water that produces water is itself eroded, even if an ordinary human's mana is poured in, it will certainly create dirty water that is an aphrodisiac and brings about monsterization. The devilish water that fills the canteen from pouring in mana quenches thirst together with sweetly melting one's mind. Drinking it in the desert, it is still sweet, and a female adventurer who carelessly tastes it is easily robbed of her normal ability to think, becoming engrossed in her throat's thirst as she completely drinks it. By repeatedly pouring her own mana into the canteen, and drinking it back into the body, female adventurers will convert their own mana into mamono mana with their own hands, and before long will be transformed into mamono.

Celestial Sphere of Tryst

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: celestial mamono finder

Stats: N/A

A huge hemispherical slate. A pattern is engraved on the surface, and if you look closely it is a map of surrounding continents and islands. By touching the hemisphere the magical tool begins to move, and if you say the name of a species in this state, every location that species is located will begin to shine faintly. However, the scale is extremely small, because it is a map that can only distinguish the contour of continents and islands, the position can only be specified to the extent of somewhere on this island or the middle of a continent, you cannot determine exactly where they are in a town or forest, nor things like the number etc.

In this Celestial Sphere you can locate not only mamono, but humans, animals, angels and the like are also included. The name of the species needs to be said exactly, and if it is wrong the Celestial Sphere will not react. Also, "Mamono" is not a race name, it is a generic name of various species, so specific races like "Lamia" or "Succubus" need to be said.

Although just a section, it has the power to see the world and project that information, and it is one of the magical tools that gathers magical skill and sophisticated wisdom. And yet, this is also a great big "dud". A high-ranking magic expert mamono at the heart of Sabbath and a skilled artisan gathered to develop this magical tool, with the intent of allowing all mamono to easily obtain a partner, a shared wish of all mamono. However, because the extent of its effect is too large, detected magical power cannot be distinguished in detail, not to mention searching for individuals and specifying by gender cannot be done. Moreover, by declaring the species "Human", because they exist throughout the world, almost the whole hemisphere shines, and so it became useless.

Nonetheless, you can examine the rough distribution of specific mamono species, you can know the places where angelic beings such as "Angels" and "Valkyries" are staying, and you can also examine the rough location of races with very small populations. Gentlemen thinking about wanting to marry a race with extremely few individuals such as "Dragon", by all means why not attempt it? Although I should say, this hemisphere exists only in places such as Sabbath's base and the sorcery institutions of nations that have become Mamono Realms. Other than that, there could be a small fraction left behind around abandoned research facilities.

Censer of Dreams

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: dream walker incense

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) wisdom

A ceramic incense burner that fills anywhere with a bewitching atmosphere. It is a magic tool for burning incense composed of mamono realm herbs, and if you burn incense the vicinity is covered by a sweet smelling light pink smoke that drifts about.

The one who is enveloped in this smoke is invited into a world of lewd delusion. If the smoke is inhaled, they will be unable to stand as the head becomes faint, and will sit or lie down on the spot. Eventually scenery that differs from reality will begin to appear before their eyes, and before long their consciousness will be completely brought into a dream. It is a fluffy sensation as if being in a dream, but the heat and feeling of things touched in the dream, the smells smelled and the taste of things eaten are accompanied by a clear and strong sense of reality. In this world of dreams every pleasure and ecstasy is brought, and it becomes a comfortable, good feeling, and extremely obscene thing. Since the contents are the "delusions" of the person them self, the desirable ideal scene of that person is projected in the most lewd form. In addition, by adjusting the kinds of mamono realm herbs mixed, it is also possible to guide to some extent the direction of the contents of the dream. For example, by adding more of the herb called "Melty Love", the contents of the dream become more sickly-sweet, and it easily becomes a thing that brings a sensation that seems to melt the body and soul.

Furthermore, when two or more people are involved at the same time, each one will see a different dream, but those that have a strong connection, such as men and women that harbor mutual affection, will see the same dream as a pair. Also, a man who loved other men will be a woman in the form of the dream, and to a woman with perverted disposition, it seems the appearance of men may also become that of tentacles or beasts. Even if it is intercourse that cannot be done realistically, it is accompanied by a sense of reality, and the pleasure and heat tasted in the dream will continue to remain in the body and mind even if they return to reality. Basically it is impossible to interfere with other's dreams from outside, but if it is a high ranking inma skilled in manipulating dreams, or a "Nightmare" with the power to enter dreams, although it is not exactly a dream, it is possible to penetrate into this dream world and interfere, becoming a part of the pleasures that men dream of.

In addition, it is basically impossible for others to view the contents of the dream the person in the smoke sees, but by using an exclusive magic tool made for peeking, and analyzing the lingering scent of mana after the smoke has cleared, it is possible to know the contents. Therefore, by burning a small amount of incense, it is also used to gather information on what kind of fantasies a man of interest holds and what kind of sex he prefers. Sooner or later, a beautiful mamono may appear before a man who has viewed a dream with this censer, and perhaps try to make the lewd delusions a reality.

Censer of Memories

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: memory walker incense

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) intelligence

A strange incense burner that gives nostalgia to somewhat-old viewers. Like an incense burner, it exudes a somehow nostalgic-feeling fragrance that fills the room, bringing a curious effect to the human male and mamono couple wrapped in the fragrance.

This censer has the power to temporarily return mamono couples to the "past". In other words, it will temporarily return their memories and mental state to before the two were linked or before they met. However, the body, instinct, mana and soul that dwells within each other firmly remembers its partner. In addition, they have already been completely dyed by the pleasure given by their companion. The body that connected countless times and had intercourse, even without memories, just from perceiving the existence of their partner, will recall that pleasure, and begin to demand the heat of the other's body. The olfactory sense remembers that the scent they always smell in the bed is the only one of the opposite sex that brings arousal, and the penis and womb show a frank response to the presence of the male or female they should pair up with. In other words, this censer is used to recreate the nostalgia of "the moment when two people meet and connect for the first time", that is, "the start of romance", and enjoy "the bittersweet relationship and atmosphere of just before becoming connected".

However, due to its nature, naturally it can't be recreated exactly. If it is an easy to understand start of romance, like a mamono that swooped in on a human man she came across, and they were connected in the rape, perhaps because the exact same thing happens to the two that have lost their memory, the degree of reproduction is extremely high. Also, lovers that deepened their relationship properly, and couples that greeted their first night properly, since they are only returning to the state of that first night, they will likely intersect in a similar flow. On the other hand, a couple connected with twists and turns will not be so, for example, in cases such as when both the man and woman were humans, and the woman became a mamono, because she is a different race from the time of the original

"start of romance", they will be connected in a different way. Also, in cases such as those where hostile men and women join together on the battlefield after a fight to the bitter end, or when a female hero is captured by a mamono and broken in, joins with her beloved as the finishing touch, and then transforms into a mamono in the middle of it, it becomes difficult to reproduce that time because of the dramatic way they were connected. However, in that case, depending on your way of thinking, it is said you can enjoy new encounters and first times with different relationships that didn't actually exist, such as "a man attacked by a mamono encountered by chance" or "gently being connected in the bed with your sweetheart" etc.

Furthermore, as explained in the article "Topic - The Spell Resistance Possessed by Mamono Mana", no matter what means are used, it is impossible to erase a mamono's memory of their partner. The power this magic tool brings is not the property of robbing memories, it is to temporarily reproduce the state of the past by hinting at the thorough enjoyment of sex, and a firm memory of their partner remains in their head. Therefore, the effect will be cut off by an unexpected stimulus other than the pleasure given by her husband, for example, in cases such as when a big sound echoes from outside the room, or someone other than your partner enters the room, the magical effect will be immediately cut off and the head is brought back to the present.

Chocolate Horn

Harvesting Location: purchase from shop
Effect: candy loved by dragons
Stats: (-2) constitution & (+2) charisma

This confection, called a chocolate horn, is a rare commodity sold in Miss Shirtya's house. There are many delicious demonic fruits to be enjoyed in the territory of Dragonia, where rich green demonic lands extend, but these chocolate horns are made with a sugar called "dragon charcoal," which is made from a rare demonic cane plant, "sugar corn." As the name implies, "sugar corn" is a rectangular-shaped fruit that grows from a dragon horn-like cane. It can only be found on full magical hilly terrain in the green mamono realms, and is easiest to find on sunny days. The harvested rectangular fruit of sugarcane is also known to be used to make nourishing healing concoctions and booze, but we use it to make sweet and savory confections by baking them in our fire breath.

Chocolate cones are sweets made of dragon charcoal dough that are coated on top with chocolate mixed with a slime called Numeridake, which coats the surface of the sugar corn fruit, and are baked on dragon's breath. The chocolate cones, which are coated in dark chocolate, are moderately bitter and sweet and forever retain the crunchy texture of freshly baked dragon's charcoal. Dragon charcoal sugar slime is also a rare ingredient, but this confection is by no means sold for a limited time only after the sugar charcoal harvest. Nevertheless, when the sale begins, all Dragons of Dragonia, from children to adults (even her majesty the Empress stops by), gather together in a long line in front of the store to buy these sweets. The reason dragons crave this confection has to do with the appealing and addictive taste of the chocolate cones, but there is another reason for this. The dragon charcoal covered Numeridake invariably slips out of people's hands, and apparently out of ours as well, when we try to grab the chocolate cones with our claws. Since they are almost designed to slip out, you can, inevitably, only eat this confection by taking it in your mouth as it is. Of course, it's hard to eat dragon horns by sucking them in with your mouth.

In other words, if someone is going to eat this candy together... it's a good way to eat the candy and show the man your intentions at the same time! A man can eat the chocolate from the dragon horn that the dragoness is holding in her mouth, and conversely, if the dragon horn is taken in the man's mouth, the dragoness can taste it! It's very much like a kiss and I feel very uncomfortable just looking at it! Nevertheless, the taste is excellent, so that's no reason not to taste it that way! Hey! I stopped by Miss Shirtya's to ask her to make some for you... no, no, that's not it! I spent the money I accidentally found! Give up thinking about the way you eat that sweetness and just eat it! And, of course, you can have it in my mouth now...

Like the corruption fruit, being covered in and swallowed up by the white sticky stuff packed full of the passion of one's beloved is the wish of all fallen disciples.

Corruption Fruit

Harvesting Location: Pandemonium

Effect: fallen angel tears = ecstasy

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+4) strength

A rare fruit that can only be collected in Pandemonium, the holy land of the Fallen God's faith where "Dark Priests" and "angels" live. It's covered in a blue, beautiful skin. Since fallen angels have blue skin, and the fruit appears to be shaped like a tear, they are also called "fallen angel tears". (According to a Dark Angel acquaintance of mine, they're not tears of sadness, and they're supposed to be the tears of joy at having fallen.)

The inside of the skin is packed full of white squishy pulp with some springiness that is faintly sweet. The middle of the pulp is densely packed with little black seeds that sweetly melt in the mouth like chocolate. It's fine to eat all of it together, it's fine to divide it and eat each part separately, and it's also fine to use it as an ingredient for making sweets. So it's a very delicious product, even as a mere dessert.

But of course, what a monster would be concerned about is the effect. Monsters are creatures that live by feeding on men's mana. For that reason, they can absorb mana in various other places besides their vagina. Even so, this fruit is used to dramatically increase mana absorption through the "skin", which is normally not very efficient for obtaining mana compared to their vagina and mouth. Pleasure, joy, and ecstasy when having their body showered with semen is raised, and they're able to thoroughly absorb their beloved husband's mana in their body without wasting it. Since the adherents of the faith of the Fallen God love getting bukkaked by their husband and getting stained with milky white stuff, they are greatly pleased with the effect. Besides that, it's also fruit that's popular with monster wives who think, "I don't want to waste even a single drop of my husband's semen!"

Additionally, the black seeds in the center of this fruit of corruption are likened with the dark angels and the clergy of the Fallen God's religion who wear black clothes, and the white flesh is likened with the desire and semen that men direct towards them. Those monster women receive their beloved husband's desire with their entire body. We can truly say that being covered in sticky white semen is the ideal form for adherents of the Fallen God's religion.

Also, if an incubus or a human man eats it, it will raise his ability to produce mana and semen, so if couples eat it together, it's a pleasant fruit for monsters that makes it so a monster can be enthralled by having her husband ejaculate semen on her until her entire body becomes pure white.

Also, this fruit has another effect. The adherents of the Fallen God who are already thoroughly corrupted can hardly even tell, but when a human eats this fruit, just as the name "corruption" would suggest, it causes the heart to swell up with lust and obscene desires. The effect will even cause a little girl with no sexual knowledge to have lust and take an interest in sex, giving her obscene fantasies. A little girl won't be able to bear it, and she'll masturbate for the first time in her life that night, being guided by the pleasure and orgasms all night long. Once the desire for pleasure takes root, it will never subside, and will only increase day by day, and the ability to control desire will also be lost. While still retaining human values, they'll be distressed by it. Sometimes they'll even feel self-hatred for being an obscene person.

However, at that time, their nose will be sensitive enough to sniff out the scent of the "corruption" that was accumulated due to the fruit. In the case of a man, a dark priest or dark angel will appear before him and have sex with him with their lewd body. The voice of the "fallen god" will echo directly in the mind of a female, guiding her to become a "dark priest". They'll awaken as a fallen disciple after being taught the following: Passion, carnal desire, and lust. Letting the overflowing sweet desires dwell in one's body is never wrong. The act of earnestly lashing out at the opposite sex with all of those desires as affection, and being stuck by them is a just and wonderful thing.

Couple's Fruit

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms

Effect: love potion / succubi kiss

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+4) strength

Mamono Realm fruit that always ripens as a pair, consisting of a small blue fruit and a large red fruit. The trees themselves are rare plants that have genders, the male tree and female tree will always sprout at the same time from side-by-side locations and extend upwards, intertwining with each other. When the tips of their branches intertwine, skipping the flowering stage, blue fruits from the male tree and red fruits from the female tree ripen as a pair.

What's even rarer for this plant, is that the seeds still haven't been produced at the fruit bearing stage, perhaps because the flowering stage has been skipped. The two ripened fruits that are side-by-side, will cling closely together just as the two trees became intertwined and grew together. Eventually the red fruit will engulf the blue fruit, as if swallowing it. The blue fruit will sink into the red fruit as if drowning and then they become one. After that, the two fruits ultimately completely become one, blue flesh covered by red flesh to make one fruit. At this stage, the process is akin to pollination in other plants and seeds are produced. They intertwine and grow together, eventually becoming one, and making a child. Its form is said to reveal the ideal form of humans and monsters.

Note from the Wandering Monster Scholar: We can certainly say that the way the female (red fruit) consumes the male (blue fruit) appears exactly the same as monsters and human men.

The blue fruit is very sour and the red fruit has a strong sweet flavor, but when the two completely become one, the resulting fruit is just right, an exquisite mixture of refreshing sourness and mild sweetness. If only concerned about the taste, one could just put both fruits in the mouth at the same time, but a more popular and delicious way to eat them for couples is to have the monster put the red fruit in her mouth, while having the man put the blue fruit in his mouth, then kiss while intertwining tongues, moving the fruits from mouth to mouth along with saliva, while eating them slowly.

If a man only eats the blue fruit and a woman only eats the red fruit respectively, then the eaten fruits will seek one another from inside the bodies of the two people. Naturally, a man and woman who have eaten it will seek one another, intertwine and seek to be joined. For example, if walking together, they would unconsciously hold hands and by the time they realized it, they'd be walking with their arms linked. If they moved their faces close together, they'd kiss and thrust their tongue inside their partner's mouth, then even their two tongues would become intertwined. If they had sex in this state and joined their lower bodies together, they would experience stronger pleasure and a greater sense of fulfillment at being joined. Even after the deed was done, neither one of them would try to separate, they'd try to stay joined together the whole time until the effect of the fruit wore off. Since it has this sort of effect, it's highly popular with monsters that can't be upfront with men and monsters that aren't so good at being affectionate.

Also, even in the case of human men and women, it has the same effect. Sometimes it also circulates among humans as "love potion" or "fruit of love". Human women that have personally experienced the effects of the fruit will be overjoyed to find themselves naturally getting comfortable with being aggressive and when they hold hands with the man they like, or kiss, the feeling of fulfillment ends up getting burnt into their brain forever, never disappearing. When they go to taste it again, they'll probably end up actively using the couple's fruit.

While continuing to use it in this manner, even if they become a man's lover and have sex with him, women who've become prisoners of the fruit's mamono mana will end up still feeling unsatisfied with joining using the human body. They'll start to feel that they want a stronger and deeper connection with their beloved man and that they want to become one with him, even if they have to become a monster. Once it reaches this stage, the mamono mana accumulated inside the body from all the fruit they kept eating until then, will accept the woman's desire and activate, changing her into a succubus, that which exists for the sake of joining a woman's body with a man's body.

Dark Knights' Amulet

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: tailsman / may be engraved

Stats: (+4) constitution

It is not unusual for Knights going into battle to wear a blessed amulet, the same custom exists with the Dark Knights. The medallion belonging to the Dark Knight is just such an amulet. Amulets, that are worn by the Dark Knights, are some kind of jewelry: necklaces, brooches - it can be any kind, but what they all have in common is the presence of a small metal plate with an engraved name. These amulets of the Dark Knights are based on the traditions of the warriors of the Kingdom of Lescat, the amulets they used in the past when knights and ordinary soldiers of the Order went to battle with monsters. According to one story, a simple soldier of the Order once carved the name of his beloved on his weapon as a talisman to return home safely afterwards. As the story goes, finding himself in a country filled with countless monsters, he actually managed to survive and returned safely to his homeland. This story seems to have spread among knights and soldiers and made it popular to wear an amulet on which, to avoid the monsters, the name of an important person - a family member or lover - is inscribed.

When Lescat became a mamono realm, the Mamono improved these amulets by beginning to make them from the demonic ore "Druelite," which can enhance magic. A "no name" talisman will have no effect, but a hand-carved name of a loved one on a Druelite plate will have the effect of a protective rune shielding that person. Strengthened magic of such runes will turn into a protective field that will envelop the body of the owner. In other words, this amulet is a magical object which will show its true value only in hands of your beloved partner.

After some time, the magical field of protection will be depleted, but if you engage in sexual activity, as a married couple should, the amulet worn around the neck will absorb the excess mana and you can use it again. For Dark Knights, this amulet is a symbol of love and affection that has been bestowed by a loved one. Wearing the amulet is the equivalent of proclaiming, "I have a partner with whom we walk the road of life!" It seems that Dark Knights who wear such amulets are often looked upon with respect and envy by other Knights who have not yet acquired husbands.

In the equipment store of Castle Salvarision there is still a large number of "nameless amulets." And since many Dark Knights of both sexes wear their Amulets all day, not just during intercourse, there are occasional situations where abusers misunderstand Dark Knight Amulets as "proof of Knighthood". Therefore, they wear amulets without a name to disguise themselves as a Dark Knight, but it can be said that this is completely counterproductive. Wearing an amulet without a name engraved on it is like admitting you don't have a spouse. If you wear one in Lescat, you'll be spotted in no time by mamonos who have no husband, who will think, "I'll engrave my name on your talisman!"

Demonic Lamp Flower

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: dark energy / hypnotic

Stats: (-4) dexterity & (+2) strength

A flower that lives all over the mamono realm. In the mamono realm these flowers are extremely popular. They have light, pale colored petals with the property of storing mamono mana from the air and glowing faintly. Many of the plants of the mamono realm are queer or ominous, but these plants are still beautiful even from the human perspective, which is a rarity. Especially at night when lots of demon light flowers are glowing in flowerbeds. They're a famous part of the mamono realm, and popular with both humans and monsters. Because of their beauty, they are taken out of the mamono realm and sold in the human world.

The flowers themselves don't have the effect of driving humans mad with lust or changing humans into monsters. They were thought of as a safe plant, but in recent years, we've come to understand that they cause a kind of hypnotic effect, and that caused an uproar in scientific circles. If humans continue to view these flowers after being mesmerized, they will then naturally be drawn towards things that include mamono mana, in other words, things that induce monsterization such as the mamono realm's water, fruits, drugs, etc. In the case of men, it is supposed that they will more easily be charmed by the monsters themselves. That sort of trait hasn't been confirmed in the demon light flowers that live in the mamono realm. According to one theory, once they are taken out of the mamono realm, they can no longer get mamono mana from the air, so they make their owners bring objects infused with mamono mana so they can get it somehow. It may be the case that they have this feature so that if possible, they'll have their owner become a monster, or they'll make their owner bring a monster, so that they can perpetually gain mamono mana.

Demon's Feather Pen

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: creates unbreakable vows

Stats: (-4) wisdom & (+2) dexterity

A quill pen bearing the name of the high ranking fiend that is the incarnation of corruption and contracts, the "Demon".

It possesses a sinister appearance unbefitting of a quill pen and is clearly a tool of the mamono realm, constantly emitting a faint bit of mana, and if you recognize it and seize this pen, you will possess an item endowed with an unworldly "Devilish Charm".

As the name suggests, this pen, filled with the power of contracts possessed by Demons, is an extremely rare magical tool made only by the hands of "Arch Demons", a high ranking species with tremendous magical power rivaling that of the Mamono Lord's daughters, the Lilim. The arrangements written and exchanged with this pen become eternal contracts that can never be broken.

As far as I know, this pen isn't used very often, but in the current Lescatие, it seems the Demon's quill pen is mainly used when Lord Castor is performing his duties as a diplomat, together with Mamono Realm Ink in hand when writing documents for diplomacy, and is mainly used when concluding official documents and treaties that document agreements between nations. Most of the content exchanged is basically a peaceful treaty that benefits both nations, with many vowing eternal friendship with Lescatие.

The contracts signed by this quill pen will be managed by a large number of Demons, and those contracts will not be the type that is "unbreakable by magic", but rather the Demons, by their own hands, "will not let it be broken". For example, if you try to void an established contract, you will be given a warning by a Demon that appears out of nowhere, and should you still wish to break the contract, plot to outwit the Demons, maliciously tear the contract, or attempt to tamper with the document etc., then the contractor immediately becomes the property of a Demon, and it is said they are taken away to the "Underworld" where Demons lurk.

In fact, an anti-monster state that launched a surprise attack against a monster state it had signed a peace treaty with was immediately covered by a legion of Demons, and now it seems to have become a mamono realm ruled by Demons and Devils. In other words, a contract signed with the Demon's quill pen is one that is mediated by an agency managed and operated by Demons, and if the contract's contents are something the Demons aren't pleased with, it is likely the contract will be rejected in the first place.

This is a complete digression, but in marriages in the current Lescatие, in order to make an eternal contract of continuously loving their partner and exchanging pleasure every day, it seems this Demon's quill pen is used to engrave a pattern on documents swearing each other's love, and in some cases even on their partner's body, but since the promise between a monster couple is never broken in the first place, the Demons, despite being uninterested in this diplomacy, will sometimes bless them with a hint of jealousy.

Devil's Contract

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: lewd deeds are written

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) constitution

A magical contract produced by the intermediate level fiend "Devil". On this small parchment, the contents of lewd deeds are written. Although it is named "Devil", if it is a mamono, other races can use it as well.

Magic is applied to the human that takes this contract in hand, to enforce the contents of the contract. Not only when handed directly over, but also in the case it is carelessly picked up, the magic is invoked and a pact is bound. Once the pact is sealed the contract no longer has any magic power and becomes just a scrap of paper, the pact will never be broken even if you throw the contract out, or burn it.

For example, when a human male has acquired a contract written with "Performing fellatio until semen is fired once in the mouth", he will not feel like opposing mamono taking his penis into their mouth, and still thinking about obeying the pact, he will casually expose his penis himself, and even thrust it into the mouth of a mamono.

It is made by imitating the pacts of the more advanced level fiend "Demon" but, the demon pact, for example, is something like "By devoting everything to the Demon, you are promised eternal pleasure". The pact's compensation and what is brought by the pact are established, and, although the temptation and pleasure will cause a contractor to joyfully submit himself, the pact is bound only after the agreement of both parties. On the other hand, pacts from the "Devil's Contract" are things like "Gives the right to obscenity with mamono, under the condition the contractor has the contract in hand", an unfair pact unilaterally forced with no agreement. For that reason, there is not much power contained in that pact. It is not possible to bind a great pact like "devoting everything to men" as done by

Demons. As mentioned previously, the contents are things like "Performing fellatio until semen is fired once in the mouth", "For several minutes, accept kisses and entwining tongues" etc., it can only be done with contents that do not require active action from the man, and the number of times and time active are also quite limited. In addition, the enforcement power is also low, it does not mean that a man's body and heart can be seized like a Demon's pact, although the pact is somehow adhered to, a man is often bewildered thinking "Why am I doing this?". However, to bind that pact, is to be an existence that lives by captivating men with sex and sipping spirit. Therefore, even if a man is initially confused, even if the number of times is limited, if you can create an opportunity to directly give pleasure even just once, it is enough.

Because the contents of the pact are unfair, there are also many other defects in this contract. First of all, in the case that a party not bound by the contract holds it, for example, if a pact of "Performing fellatio until semen is fired once in the mouth" is held by a human woman who cannot fire semen, naturally, despite being unable to bind the pact, the effect becomes activated, the magic power is lost and it becomes just a scrap of paper. Also, because this contract cannot limit what mamono fulfills the pact, in the event another mamono comes forward first, the right of fellatio, or rather the man, will be snatched. In addition, for married men who already have a mamono partner, because that mamono's mana dwells within the man, the pact's performer is arbitrarily corrected to be limited to that partner, the right to fellatio is given to the man's partner.

Doppelganger Potion

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: clones up to 10 copies

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) dexterity

A liquid potion with a mysterious color of blue and black continuously mixing and separating, which temporarily creates doppelgangers of the one that drank it. After they acquire a male that becomes their partner, monsters only join with their partners, but this was developed for the enjoyment of "gangbangs by multiple men" with only a married couple. A human male drinking it causes symptoms of mana separation to develop, and can usually produce 2 to 10 doppelgangers depending on the amount drank.

On the surface, it appears as though the person that drank it multiplied as is, but that does not mean the "existence" of the drinker increases. That is, even though they are called doppelgangers, the consciousness, thought, and soul are whole without increasing, and all of the doppelgangers are commanded by one will. In short, rather than increasing one's self, it is a sense that they can move more of their body, it seems to be a feeling partly close to that of "tentacle potion" which feels like "the limbs have multiplied". For that reason, although each of the doppelgangers can be moved, that doesn't mean each has a separate intention, so there is no such thing as a split opinion or quarrel between fellow doppelgangers.

Also, since the doppelganger is not just an illusion, but a man's body itself, it is possible for all of the doppelgangers to use that body's physical and magic abilities. The visual, auditory, tactile, and pleasurable sensations that all of the doppelgangers receive is brought to one base consciousness, and is shared by all of the doppelgangers. In other words, the man that drank the doppelganger potion will move all of the doppelganger's bodies at the same time, and have the senses of many people simultaneously received from all of the doppelgangers sent into just one head. Of course, it is next to impossible not only for ordinary humans but also for incubi to control them all at the same time, and in many cases the head becomes confused and unable to understand reason, making rational thought and decisions impossible.

As the number of people increases, it becomes impossible to think of anything, and the doppelgangers begin to move very impulsively based on instinct. In other words, if a monster companion tempts them in this state, the doppelgangers become an existence meant only to rape the monster before their eyes, and will swarm the woman's body. Naturally, men will become further reckless from the pleasure received from numerous doppelgangers, and from each one's thrusting penis, their ejaculations, and their essence being spewed out, it brings great joy to monsters to be surrounded and overrun by their beloved.

Basically, it is a potion for human men to drink, it is not recommended to let monsters drink it. That is because, as we know, the desire monsters direct towards their spouses is an unusual thing, and even if it is only one monster, they are beings that pour enough lust and pleasure to nearly drown a man. Therefore, if such monsters multiply, and impulsively move to rush a single man, the man will be assaulted by an overwhelming pleasure of unfathomable degree. It is unknown how much will be squeezed out before a man loses his mind, or even how much will be squeezed out after he has lost his mind, but for a man with a defiant heart, perhaps it might be nice to give it a try.

Dragon Orb

Harvesting Location: dragon cities

Effect: fidelity sphere / sexual energy

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+4) strength

Dragonian magic item stores have a variety of items, but the first in popularity among them are dragon orbs. These are pieces of gemstones, usually "Magic Crystals" of good quality, that are sold with a stand in the shape of a dragon's paw, claws, or the dragon itself. Two kinds of spheres are sold, one of which has a color attached to the gem or jewelry, while the other kind is colorless. As you can see, the colors swirl beautifully in a magic pearl, right?

The dragon ball has a magical property. The magical power that is left in the magical jewels always changes color and when lightly stroked, it glows slightly, like a lamp. The dragon ball, which has mamono mana, is very beautiful and there is a custom to decorate the front of the house with untreated stones (without a stand) or finished artifacts. At night, Dragonia takes on a fantastic and beautiful appearance, thanks to the glowing dragon orbs built into the houses. I have a strange face because the artifacts we are now discussing are used by couples about to marry, with them they show, "I already have a mamono wife in my house."

Fool! My stone is colorless, come back immediately! It's all right.

Dragon spheres are also called fidelity spheres... To charge this magical pearl with magical power, you must put a Dragon Sphere in your bedroom and allow high quality magical energy to be released in vigorous nighttime activity. Thus colorless spheres are bought only for monsters with whom one plans to spend the evening together. And now I have to tell you that if a single person buys such a dragon orb while purchasing other things together with a dragon lady they know, it is the same as letting a sign that reads "please attack me" down from around your neck. Have you noticed that colored dragon spheres are expensive and colorless ones are cheap? So there are adventurous men who occasionally go on to buy colorless stones while already married, but such buyers are usually kidnapped by erotic monsters the same day, or they are protected by serious dragonesses who call themselves protectors and will stop any excesses of the male dragon... Seriously, in some cases you will even be attacked by saleswomen!

Oh, I'm glad you're interested in this product. To challenge a hot night, you will need to be in good shape, after all there are certain relationship milestones, etc. But in the near future there will be an annual fair and there will be a Dragon Ball exhibit nearby, one of which you can buy if you dare to venture... I wish I'd known that!

Dragon Spike

Harvesting Location: Dragonia

Effect: Dragonia bread made with love

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) strength

"Dragon Spike" is one of the popular homemade dishes in Dragonia, served in every home along with potatoes or stews. It is usually consumed by dipping it somewhere. We dragonians are careful to bake these buns in the oven, and although their surface feels very hard to the touch, which fits the name "Dragon Spike," the inside of such a bun is, on the contrary, very soft. This is not an easy bun to make, however, because the flour that is made in Dragonia tends to harden when baked in a hot oven. However, there are ways to bake it so that only the crust is hard and crispy and the bun is puffy in the middle.

It is very difficult to regulate the temperature of the oven. But if you manage to bake the surface properly as a result, you thereby limit the heat inside the bun, forever keeping its fresh flavor inside. Well... in order to achieve this, you'll have to repeat over and over again, consisting of lots of trial and error. And for the dish to turn out truly delicious, you definitely have to think of your loved one the whole time. Learning how to make Dragon Spikes comes as one part of the bride's training in the Order of the Dragon Knights, in addition to the simple cooking classes. After all, as they say, only a good wife can make good Dragon Spikes. I'm still practicing because my buns are still burning up in practice, but I'm sure I'll get good results if I get good at it!

And anyway! For us Dragons of Dragonia, this dish is special. These Dragon Spikes were originally made by humans for dragons during the founding of the country, using less flour, when the amount of food was not as plentiful as it is now. In fact, we understand that humans are better at baking bread, whereas for dragons it is a delicate job that we do rather clumsily. Nevertheless, for us it is the bread that man first shared with the dragon, the special first meal that we can eat together, side by side with humans, in the same way now. That's why we, like you humans, are in the same process, lovingly engaged in the same thing, that's the whole point. Among monster dishes, it's just plain bread, with no unusual effects... but in Dragonia, all the love and tender affection of a dragoness is put into every Dragon spike you make. Are you saying it's a good dish? The most delicious dish is love and I hope you too... can get some

Dragon Steak

Harvesting Location: Dragonia

Effect: dragarlic flavored lizard entree

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) strength

There are many dragon meat dishes on the menu, such as this Dragon Steak! Some people are surprised about the name because they think it actually uses dragon meat, but we don't actually use our meat in our cooking. The large golden piece of meat on the plate is a similar sliced meat of the demon lizard that inhabits all of territories of the dragons! Demon lizard meat has often been eaten in Dragonia since the change of the Mamono Lord, but I'm not sure why its meat became known as Dragon meat. According to one theory, it is due to the large size and strength of the demon lizards, which resemble old dragons in appearance and strength. Another attributes it to the fact that the dragon lady who cooks the steak uses her own fire to roast the meat. Because sightseeing travelers spread misinterpretations of the name prior to this clarification, its origins are densely mixed with a host of theories. Nevertheless, for unknown reasons, this steak, associated with the name of dragons, has become very popular and is one of the special dishes of Dragonia! Demon lizard meat is quite nutritious and not inferior to Demon boar meat, in addition, the more you chew the fire-roasted meat, the more flavorful meat flavor will gather in your mouth until it fills it completely.

This steak is flavored with Dragarlic, a demonic plant that grows in Dragonia. This spice complements the fragrant smell of demon lizard flesh and helps your appetite, so you don't have to think about the amount of meat! Dragarlic also has a pungent odor and changes the unpleasant smell of human breath to an attractive aroma known as Dragon Man's Breath! If you eat the steak before sex, a man's spiritual energy will be strengthened enough to be exchanged with mamono for three days and three nights, and the "man breath" is sure to keep the dragon in that intention.

A meat dish with dragon charm effect is what Dragon Steak is all about! Although it's worth noting that occasionally some tourists who don't understand the name of this dish order it this way, "Let me eat a dragon!" The restaurant for its part usually provides this steak, but if at least one dragon lady is on service, which was struck by the customer, by the time it is delivered to the hotel, he will be all red, because really "eats" a dragon lady.

Dragonium

Harvesting Location: Dragonia shops

Effect: consumes magic in armor form

Stats: (-8) wisdom (mamono SE)

Dragonium is a rare ore mined in Dragonia.

The following is said about this demonic ore: "It appears in the same way as demonic silver, but under the influence of the powerful magical energy of the dragons, it changes its properties over time. But since the Dragons' energy is mostly concentrated in the air, Dragonium is primarily formed in those places where the veins of demonic silver come to the surface due to the collapses of the ground hiding them. A solid crystalline body forms on the surface in such places."

In other words, Dragonium is found only in places where strong magical energy drifts, such as in the dark demonic lands of Dragonia, where it is dangerous for humans to enter. That is why this ore has such a rare distribution. It is mostly found in the caves and ruins of Dragonia where the magical power remains. But the most famous place of origin of these crystals in Dragonia is the "Graveyard of Dragons", the home of zombie dragons. Several times a year, there are witnesses who see adventurers blinded by greed who head for the graveyard in search of Dragonium. But the results of their forays are easy to imagine.

Dragonium has a characteristic called "dragon's breath". This "breath" has the property to "dissipate magical energy" when mixed with precious metals. For example, armor and shield made with Dragonium can decrease magical attacks by dissipating it. And when processed to make weapons such as swords and spears, magical attacks are spread more widely than usual. The rare abilities that Dragonium possesses are very useful even to us dragon knights. In a passionate encounter with a dragon, men who have not yet become incubi are often exposed to strong magical energy, as well as the accompanying old dragon's physical power. If you wear an accessory using Dragonium and it touches your skin, as in the case of a pendant or necklace, fatigue during sexual activity will decrease and the time of reaching orgasm will decrease, and incubization of the body will not occur.

But I must warn you. If you're looking for easy power or inexperienced in controlling magical powers and easily grabbing weapons from this ore, you won't be able to hold the dragon's power. If that happens, it will only be a great feast for the beautiful mamono attracted by the release of your delicious spiritual energy. For these reasons, Dragonium weapons are mostly purchased by demons from the radical faction or mamonos with special abilities, and armor by single men who have not yet become incubi. When buying, men may have to demonstrate to the vendors how they control their energy to see if they are fit to handle the weapon, or they may have to undergo personal training. Even our dragon knights are not allowed to use weapons with Dragonium inclusions until after they've been fully titled. Of course, when you become part of the Dragon Order, you will be granted a Dragonium spear.

Although it is not bragging, Dragonium was also used in the creation of my weapon. This Dragonium, which might be called a symbol of our race's power, is of little interest to you? Then I can help you take the first step to becoming the dragon knight that no doubt you are...

Dragon's Lifeblood

Harvesting Location: purchase at trading shops

Effect: dragonian wine / stimulant

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) dexterity

What's wrong? Are you tired? Of course, Dragonia is vast and there are many steep streets. No, there's nothing to worry about. Rather, it seems like my spirits were lifted when I thought about being with you for a long time during this walk... I'm sorry I missed it by caring for you.

That's right! There's something useful you should drink! It's "Living Dragon Blood"-it's given to everyone in the Order of the Dragon Knights. Hoo-hoo, even though I say living blood, it's not the blood of our dragons, so please be assured. It is the juice of the fruit of the mamono realm, where her majesty the Queen lives. Of course, the juices of the fruit of the mamono realm are by no means a dangerous thing! In our country, we focus on the cultivation of demonic grapes.

Demonic grapes initially absorb mamono mana from the ground, but one of the breeding methods brought to Dragonia after one of the diplomatic missions, allows us to infuse the ground with magic at the cultivation stage. There are mamono who directly influence the growth of demonic grapes. If you guess who it is, then you are probably good at guessing? This new variety originated from trees grown personally by Queen Deonora. All varieties of demonic grape juice are quite colorful, but this one stands out with a special royal red hue, like it's on fire. The demonic wine, made from demonic grapes also grown by Her Majesty, is offered as one of the brands. But it has a very strong intoxicating and arousing effect that causes the dragoness to go into uncontrollable heat. It is so intoxicating that it causes such a commotion in crowds that a dragoness can hit a person, so it is only given in small doses to dragon knights going off on missions. Therefore the honey provided by the Alraune who live on the mountain slopes and a mixture of soothing herbs from the mamono realm are added to this drink, which neutralizes the effects of the wine, reducing it to an invigorating, body-stimulating drink.

Processed in this way, it can be widely distributed and sold along with fruit juice in many Draconian stores, and it can also be drunk by children and adults. Are you concerned about the strong neutralizing effect? Drink it now and your physical strength, vigor and vitality will quickly be restored, those who feel tired or malaise will get a pleasant, refreshing feeling, like after a good night's sleep.

In addition, it can be said that it's really proven that the rush of energy will be like an explosion, like magma pouring out of an active volcano. By drinking this, husbands with no physical training who avoid intercourse with a dragoness will be able to engage in intercourse with a dragoness for three days and three nights at a time, isn't that really reassuring?!

Don't make that weird face.

Ultrasensitivity is a characteristic of demonic grapes that have been condensed. Like its rich flavor, the blend of herbs guarantees it.

If you drink this drink with peace of mind, it will only fill you with energy, but if you get excited, you will be quickly overwhelmed by it and want to use this excessive power right now with a dragon.

What's wrong, why aren't you drinking? Well, that's, of course, take my drink, it shouldn't affect the taste or effectiveness! No problem, feel free to drink! Come, drink it now! Don't run away!

Drop of Rapture

In the courtyard of Salvarision Castle is a fountain that was secretly visited by Wilmarina, whose heart suffered from an impossible love, because of the difference in their positions, between her and her lover and she cried there. This "source of tears," in which Wilmarina's sadness swirled, is now corrupted by the magical power of monsters. And now that Miss Wilmarina is filled with the happiness of being close to the man she has always dreamed of, this fountain has become known as the "Source of Happiness" and has become a famous dating spot for dark knights. Since its water has absorbed Wilmarina's strong feelings, it has a high level of magical power, which the fountain is able to give away in the form of the "Drop of Rapture". This fountain contains a statue representing an Inma, and it often splashes drops of water on those who pass by. When this happens, those caught in the splash find themselves inspired by the rapture contained in the drops.

They allow the rapture of being with their partner to overflow their hearts and feel especially keenly how good it feels to be with their love, to deepen the relationship of the demonic couple and to be more vigorously have intercourse with each other. If a man without a spouse is showered with this delightful dew, he is sure to have a desire to feel this rapture and will certainly begin to seek a mate. Also, to my surprise, the excessive rapture of Wilmarina is given not only to humans and demons, but even to inanimate objects. In particular, the dew has a particularly strong effect on objects that are filled with feelings. I was told that the statue that sprinkles the drops of rapture was originally a statue of the Chief God when it was installed in a fountain. However, when the fountain was engulfed by mamono mana, it turned into a mamono called the Gargoyle. It seems that the gargoyle is now happily married to a male knight who once willingly prayed to the statue of the Chief God in this very spot. It seems that he is happy to be at peace with his consort at night. It is also said that while courting your man, in order for your marriage to last forever, you must allow your partner to drink this water from your lips.

Although its effects are great, the drops of the Drop of Rapture are very hard to keep for long: if you put this water in a bottle, its effects may disappear after a while. For this reason, the fountain water is currently being researched so that it can be stored longer. If a breakthrough is made in the research and it can be exported outside of Lescat, this water will allow many people to take a step toward coexistence with the mamono.

I hope that one day I will be able to provide this water with my own hands to Teacher, who continues his research journey so far away... so far I cannot hope to help him in any way.

Emblem of Satiation

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: mana consumes hunger

Stats: (+2) strength (active harem mamono)

A small crest engraved with the design of a goddess with insect wings. One of the extremely valuable legendary magical tools made by a certain human sage for the purpose of overcoming "hunger". It gathers the mana in the air to the body of the person that wears it, and takes it in as the life force necessary for living. In other words, as long as you wear this you will not starve, and it becomes possible to live without eating.

However, this magic tool tries to take in all the surrounding mana into one's body indiscriminately and without hindrance. Although it is not a problem if it is mana in normal air, while wearing this emblem, if you step foot into the Mamono Realm full of Mamono Mana, or the bedroom where monsters and their partners have joined, you will immediately transform into an incubus or monster. Also, in some cases it may even cause monsterization from merely approaching monsters. Since the mana taken in is of such a large amount and dense state that it is incomparable to what the body naturally takes in, in the event of such monsterization, there is a very high possibility of becoming the same race as the one that was approached. In addition, when a man with a strong desire to become a woman becomes an incubus, he will change into the monster "Alp", but even in the case it isn't an "Alp", a phenomenon rarely seen in which he will change into another race that was approached at that time occurs.

Also, men that wore an "Emblem of Satiation" in order to continue maintaining optimal nutrition by constantly taking in mana will become an existence that is always filled to the brim with mana, or rather, spirit. To monsters, it is always fresh and delicious, equal to walking around with a smell that can be said to be spirit itself floating about, and not to mention because it takes in all mana indiscriminately, allowing the use of magic including seduction magic as much as you would like, they become suitable prey that is said to be willingly fascinated and even come to desire intercourse from just the mana one is normally clad in.

If you actually join together like that, because new semen continues to fill up no matter how many times it is squeezed out, no matter how many times ejaculation repeats the amount and quality of spirit is not reduced, in addition, no matter how much the male releases his spirit, since the semen for the next release is already filled at the moment of ejaculation, he will always be in a "backed up" state, which will continue to bring about further desire to put out even more. For that reason, the owners of this emblem on record have built up huge harems of gathered monsters.

Furthermore, in the case of a monster wearing it it has the same effect, it will become possible to live without meals or joining with a human man. A record remains of an experiment carried out with a "slime", which mainly acts based on appetite, based on the idea that a certain human scholar focused on, where it may be possible to suppress the desire of monsters that act based on appetite if they are made to wear this, making them docile. As a result, as was surmised, the behavior of impulsively attacking men based on the appetite of the slime was suppressed. However, on the other hand, as if the degree of appetite was increased, the desire for pleasure and desire for reproductive behavior to make a child was strengthened, and it seems that she came to excessively prefer the act of intercourse itself. In other words, as a result of suppressing appetite, the more lustful nature and mind that seeks intercourse based on reason and thought for the sake of obtaining pleasure sprouted. In addition to that, along with a strong interest in intercourse with a variety of tastes, it is also accompanied by thoughts to pursue even more pleasure, and even the "desire to serve" men sometimes seen in monsters with relatively high intelligence was observed. Since there are no records of experiments remaining after the scholar was linked with the slime, it isn't certain, but it is presumed the same thing will likely occur even if you tried it with any species of monster.

Essence Supplement

Harvesting Location: Golems

Effect: mana regeneration

Stats: (-4) charisma & (restores HP for active Magical mamono)

A powdery medicine of white powder, or a hardened solid medicine, that can replenish mana when monsters swallow it. By processing the essence of men collected by "Golems", keeping in mind an unspecified number of monsters drink it, the individual male's information included in the mana is removed, and pure "Human Mana" is made. Although the efficiency and quality is far inferior to that obtained from men through intercourse, it can replenish mana immediately with higher efficiency than ordinary meals, and is a useful item to magicians run dry on mana, or as a nutritional supplement when exhausted.

However, this medicine has a reputation of being extremely unappetizing amongst monsters. To monsters, a man's essence is a first-rate treat, but what is more delicious than anything else, in addition to the taste of the essence itself, the taste peculiar to the individual male included in it, and the flavor added through the act of intercourse is lost. And above all else, due to the strong feelings monsters have towards men, their husband's essence will be even more delicious. This "Essence Supplement" in which none of that is present, is thin-tasting itself, and because of the extremely unpleasant sensation of it being tasteless, even though it should be their favorite food of essence, it is, generally speaking, a substitute which can only be said to be disgusting. An unmarried monster without a partner will reluctantly drink this when she needs immediate replenishment of mana, and as for monsters with companions, because they know the taste of the best and real thing, they are all the more unable to drink it. Even in Sabbath, there are many scenes where the recovery of mana is necessary along with magical research and experiments, so you often see the appearance of unmarried witches grumbling complaints of "I want an Onii-chan as soon as possible" every time they drink this.

Eva's Pendulum

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: Alps appear as females to others

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+2) charisma

Many different mamono exist in this world as of today, but even amongst them [Alps] have an extremely peculiar nature. As for these mamono that are given birth when a human male mutates into a female mamono via becoming an incubus first, I will not write down a detailed explanation regarding this monsterization here, however for the circumstances to happen were a male incubus turns into a female to happen, the most important thing is the [disposition]. There are 2 points, one must either hold the wish [to become a woman] in the innermost depths of their heart, or must strongly give their hearts to [a person they want to be with], which means there being a male they yearn for.

However, despite holding such wishes, most Incubi have a masculine spirit, so cases were they monsterize into an Alp after being both aware and embracing these desires are extremely rare. Also, if it should be seen as forbidden love, then coming to accept such an immoral wish is extremely difficult and accompanied by unbearable agony.

Hence, while there are many in this world with the disposition to turn into Alps, their suffering continues, as there are by no means few men swayed by unapproved feelings towards their loved one.

To help the kindred souls in such pain, and to fulfill much more love, Lescaties dark strategist and Alp Eva has developed a truly magnificent magic tool, this very pendulum!

Embedded with Eva's unique magical powers as an Alp, it will only react to those who posses the same disposition as Alps, and will indicate them!

The magic powers the pendulum is charged with will adhere to males that have been indicated by it, making it known to the surrounding mamono that this man holds the disposition to Alp...

Namely, mamono will no longer perceive and treat this man as a male, but as a [female]. And so they will rush down on him, not to turn him into their husband, but in order to turn him into a mamono!

Usually, no matter how much he secretly desires it from the bottom of his heart, it is normal to be opposed things like becoming a mamono, or having to let go of the fact that he is male. But for a man with the disposition of an Alp, the magic power of this pendulum will calm down his spirit, letting him accept things like being attacked by mamono, and that he will turn into an Alp upon monsterization.

The magic powers of the pendulum will urge self-awareness to see himself as a [female], and the thought of him being corrupted into an Alp will turn into something giving him otherworldly strong intoxicating pleasure, so in other words with this his transformation into a mere female can progress more smoothly...!

But of course this is not all! In case a male human holds this pendulum, then the pendulum will react to [males] with strong affection towards the user of the pendulum, or in other words those with the disposition of an Alp!

This pendulum will show the right way to those destined to become [Alps], since this wonderful magic item is able to certainly guide them into alping, and in practice with this magic item a by no means negligible number of Alps may be born in Lescaties, leading new lives as females!

As long as one has this, all the alp candidates that still live in this world have nothing to be worried about! As I wrote earlier, Eva who has not forgotten the pain of falling in love with the man in one's heart before turning into a mamono, has developed this magic item with the intend of releasing other Alps of this pain, if even only a little bit earlier.

As immature as I am now, looking at this magic item, the desire to one day create something for the sake of those with similar intentions grows hot in me...!

A Fairy Hug flower "gathering" fairy powder

Fairy Powder

Harvesting Location: Faries & fairy hugger Tentacle Plants

Effect: craft enchanted weapons

Stats: N/A

Fairy powder is made up of scales from the wings of fairies. The beautiful powder faintly glitters in 7 colors, and is filled with the magic of fairies. It is treasured for uses such as an ingredient for magic potions, or dye, when inscribing runes. Furthermore, it is said that one can travel to the Fairy Kingdom by sprinkling it over their head, but let's just say that that's more of a half-truth. It's not that one will be able to fly directly to the Fairy Kingdom. Instead, a man covered in this powder will become extremely popular with fairies, and a huge number of monsterized fairies will swarm over him eager to play sexual games, so eventually he may be taken to the Fairy Kingdom. It also affects more than just fairies, influencing races of Monsters with a childish appearance such as "Imps", "Goblins", and even "Baphomets" by causing them to take a liking to a man and go wild with lust more easily.

Also, after raping a fairy, Fairy Hug tentacle plants do on occasion open their petals and bloom in full glory while displaying the mucous-covered fairy that had gone limp due to pleasure in what almost appears as a crucifixion. On such occasions, they often encounter human men looking to collect and sell fairy powder. When a fairy whose mind has become obsessed with pleasurable games due to the tentacles' hardcore training notices the human man that has appeared in front of her, she'll spread her legs on her own without even needing to be forced by the tentacles, and invite the man in front of her to use her body. Among those whose profession is to collect and sell fairy powder, a plant in this state is referred to as "fruit bearing". It is said that most of those who work in this profession will inevitably end up having several fairies as wives.

False Book

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: conditionally reveals its content

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+4) intelligence

A magic book that cannot be correctly read by a person who does not meet the requirements. For example, in the case of a "False Book" with the condition of having a certain degree of mamono mana in the body, it becomes a book that can only be read by mamono, or the incubi that are their companions. Should another view the book, both the binding and contents of the book cannot be correctly recognized, it looks like a book of nonsense sentences or a blank book, and there also exist those made with a more complex technique that look like a completely different book.

Various requirements can be added depending on the technique, such as those that can only be read by men who were tempted and fascinated by mamono, and women that are turning into mamono, or those that can only be read by a specific race of mamono or human of a specific bloodline, it can also be a more complex requirement, such as a book that can only be read by those among human women that have a high quality to become a specific race of mamono.

Many Sabbath-related books, including this book, are "False Books". They can only be read by mamono, incubi, or those that have already had their hearts snatched away by mamono. Even if the book you are now reading is found by members of the church, you can be relieved because in their eyes they can only see the bible of the Chief God.

Usually, this magic tool is said to be used with the intention of "falsifying the appearance so the existence and contents of the book are unknown except to specific people", however, there are also some made with the intention to "slip in another book by falsifying the appearance". For example, the "Scripture of the Fallen God" is slipped into the many "Scriptures of the Order of the Chief God" that exist around the world. Since they falsify their appearance as the scripture of the Order of the Chief God, no one notices their existence, and so the "Scriptures of the Fallen God" said to stain you with the teachings of the Fallen God if you read it continue to exist in the libraries and archives of religious nations throughout the world, waiting for the time when those possessing demonic qualities take it into their hands.

Thus, apparently, it is not uncommon in Lescatvie for a thief who has grabbed a treasure to turn into a Roper.

Francisca's Glass

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: holy grail / tentacle rape

Stats: (-4) strength & (+2) charisma

Francisca's Glass is a magical goblet that keeps filling itself with a thick, wine-like liquid. It contains the magical energy of Francisca, the Roper Queen and one of the Seven Princesses of Lescatvie. This cup is used to baptize and test lesser succubi and humans who have been captured as prisoners of war by Lescatvie. It is used to determine those who possess the required qualities to join the Order of Dark Knights. The magical power of Francisca contained in the liquid penetrates the spirit and magical power of the person who drinks it, and causes their mana to manifest in the form of tentacles. The tentacles, embodied by Francisca's magical power, bind the person who drank from the cup and faithfully bring pleasure to their entire body. Normally people dislike the caress and touch of the tentacles, but these special tentacles are endowed with the power of love and Francisca's blessing, so disgust gradually turns into pleasure. In this way they continue to caress a person for a long time. The tentacles will continue to form, consuming the magical power of the person who drank from the cup and, in spite of all pleas, will caress them until they lose consciousness. The goal of the subject is to remain sane to the very end because of the prolonged pleasure that these magical tentacles continue to provide. For those who have a strong will and strength in their heart, this ordeal will seem like a simple stroll, during which they enjoy pleasure, and they can indulge in sex with their partner when they want to. They will become excellent Dark Knights, that also in bed will be able to lead their partner to higher levels of pleasure.

On the other hand, if a girl is struck by the pleasure brought by these tentacles, and she will give herself to the pleasurable sensations, and then simply surrenders to them, wanting only to receive pleasure, then that means that she is more appropriate for the role of a beautiful servant, like a maid, who will faithfully give pleasure to her spouse. There are jobs for them too in the castles of Salvarision and Lescatvie. From time to time, such girls themselves become Ropers and faithful maidservants of Lady Francisca.

Nowadays this demonic goblet is used as a test for the Dark Knights, but originally it was the Holy Grail used to bless knights and heroes in the land of Lescatvie. Even though it has been corroded by mamono mana, this goblet has retained its beautiful decoration, including a rare demonic gold that can enchant the heart of a casual viewer in an instant. Also, this cup is inlaid with magical gems, shining with a mysterious light that invites people to depravation. For this reason, when, in times of peace, intruders enter the castles of Salvarision and Lescatvie, each of which holds such a cup, many find themselves enchanted by the magic of the cup. Whoever reaches too close to the Francisca's Glass will be enveloped by the magical power of the Queen swirling in the cup, and will be subjected to the same trials as the Dark Knight.

Griffon's Feather Pen

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: declares ownership / barrier

Stats: (-2) charisma & (+4) wisdom

A special pen made from a feather of the valiant demon beast known as the guardian of treasure, the "Griffon", which has both the lower half of a lion and the wings of an eagle. This pen is as light as a feather, and by giving it mana, it can dance through the air on its own, writing flowing sentences.

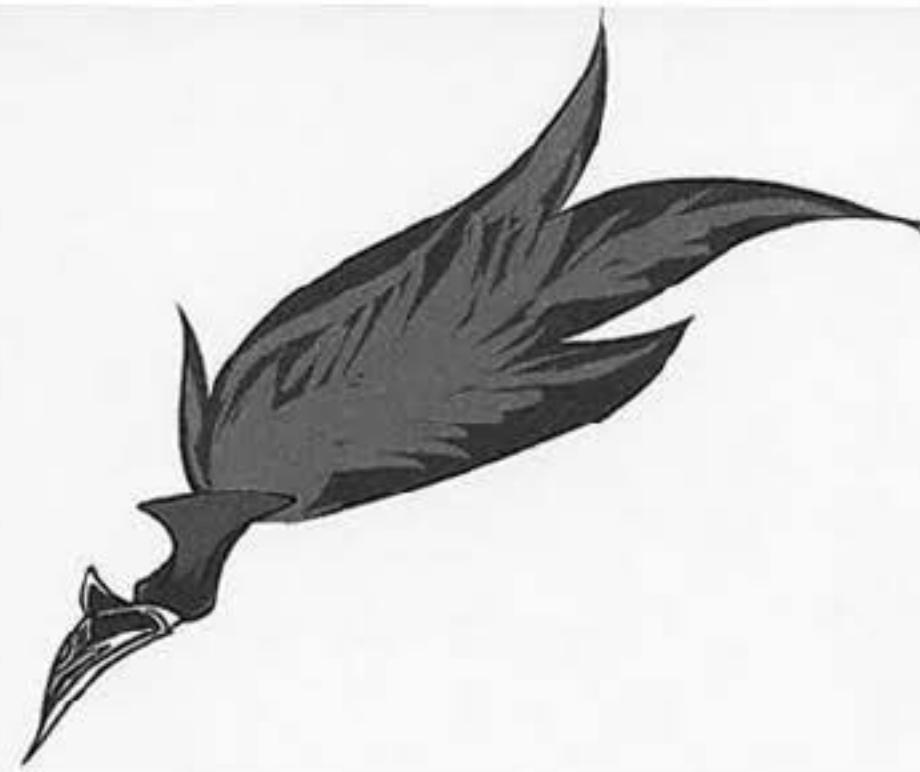

However, the greatest feature of this pen is not how easy the pen itself is to use, but that by using the mana of the Griffon soaked into the feather, you can give effects such as "assertion of ownership" and "protective barrier" to items that you personally cherish. This effect lasts a very long time, and once you have written a rune on a letter or valuable item that you cherish, that rune reacts immediately in the event of emotions such as desire or hostility being directed towards it, and informs the owner of the danger approaching the item while warning and criticizing the one trying to take it.

At Salvarision Castle, this pen is used to carve runes into the rare magical tools and treasures slumbering in the equipment treasury, protecting them more reliably from the hands of intruders. As mentioned above, although this is a pen for "protecting treasures" to the end, some monsters, taking advantage of this property, use this pen to write runes on their partner, asserting their ownership of them along with becoming able to more sensitively react to those that are hostile toward or wish to inflict harm on their partner. This pen made from a Griffon feather is widely used by monsters that often write documents, but in order to obtain one, you will need a unique route that only some monsters have, as there is no stable supply of them even in the Lescatite Magical Tool Shop, which is one of the largest among monster kingdoms, and it is known as a magic tool so popular that restocks are always pending.

For that reason, more and more humans that have heard rumors and passionate magic tool collectors have entered Griffon nests in search of their feathers, and as a result, it seems there is no end to cases of them becoming the partner of the Griffon that owns the nest.

In addition, when the protection rune is put into words, it means "this is mine", and when applying mana to this quill pen, it may rarely read the user's desire too much, and begin carving protective runes on your loved one arbitrarily, or even start to write the words of love hidden in the user's heart, so it seems to be a rather difficult magical tool to master.

Nonetheless, this feather pen is still quite charming, and I've been continuously using this Lescatite Pen ever since I inherited it, and one day I'll use this pen on my beloved "teacher"... ah, if you aren't careful, it seems you end up writing about totally unrelated things, as I thought, this is the fly in the ointment huh?

Hel's Nostrum

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: converts drinker to undead

Stats: (+4) constitution

A nostrum that instantly takes the life of its drinker, and resurrects them as an undead. This magical medicine is not created intentionally, but changes into this when things like poison and powerful medicines that take human life take on the power of the Goddess of Life and Death "Hel". That is, the medicine for killing all humans under the influence of the Goddess "Hel", is this "Nostrum of the Goddess of Life and Death". This nostrum is considered to be one of a number of "Curses that do not end with death, Endless blessings in death" brought about by the Goddess "Hel" and her believers.

When a chemical becomes "The Goddess of Life and Death's Nostrum", it completely loses its toxicity, and only the power to "rob humans of life" remains. Tortured to death, burning the inside of the body, and evoking disease, all processes that bring death will vanish, and the nostrum takes away your life the moment it is tasted. There is no suffering at the moment of death, and just as a human is at the verge of death, their life is lost with a pleasure similar to climax. In addition to death, the body is filled with ecstasy and euphoria, and is revived as undead types such as "zombies" and "ghouls", receiving a life that will never end again.

Should a man take this nostrum, he will enter a state of apparent death similar to the effects of an "Undead Grey Lamentation Mushroom". The smell of essence and death worn by a man in this state greatly attracts undead mamono, inviting the living to the undead. If this lingering scent of death drifts to a woman thinking of a man, guided by the Goddess "Hel" she will become captivated by the "Nostrum of the Goddess of Life and Death". Thus, in many cases they will drink this nostrum to follow the man, reviving as undead. In this way, being safely bound to an undead mamono, a man in incomplete death accepts their magical energy and welcomes complete death. And then, he will be resurrected as an undead mamono's partner, an "undead incubus".

The Goddess Hel's believers, and Hel's church, in order to fulfill the desire of the goddess, bringing all "Curses that do not end with death, Endless blessings in death" to humans, must fulfill their missions in secrecy. And so, "The Goddess of Life and Death's Nostrum" does not exist solely in Undead Kingdoms. Through the spread of the Goddess Hel's followers, and the magic rituals they perform, even in Order nations where the shadows of mamono are never seen, the power of the Goddess Hel unknowingly extends. A story loved by many mamono, including citizens of Undead Kingdoms, seems to be one where "Two lovers born to hostile noble families attracted to one another, commit suicide with poison, and are bound together as undead". This is said to be an incident that actually occurred in a certain Anti-Monster state, an example of one of the cases related to the "Nostrum of the Goddess of Life and Death". Nowadays, both noble families have become noble undead, and it is said that the country has become an Undead Kingdom.

Holstaur milk is best when fresh-squeezed!
The holstaur dairy cow association is currently offering personal tours!
You're very welcome to bring a holstaur home with you as well!

Holstaur Milk

Harvesting Location: Holstaur mamono

Effect: boosts stamina / enlarges breasts (on females)

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) dexterity

It is milk squeezed from the breasts of the monster called holstaur which has distinctive black and white fur. The milk has a nice taste that is mellow and full-bodied and it melts almost like when a holstaur is having sex with her husband. It's delicious to drink as is, and it is also highly popular as an ingredient used in cuisine and confectionery. There is only a minor amount of mamono mana mixed in with it, which is unusual for a monster-related product, so humans can also drink it with peace of mind. Even among humans, there's no end to the number of people who have been charmed by this milk. Trade is bustling, and sometimes it even circulates in anti-monster states.

Not only is this holstaur milk delicious, it is full of nutrients, and of course it also has the effect of boosting their husband's stamina, which pleases all the monsters. Even those monsters and incubi who frequently spend a lot of time having sex can enjoy even healthier and more active sexual relations if the couple drinks this milk everyday. It also has the effect of maintaining the resilience and luster of the breasts, and sometimes it can even have a breast-enlarging effect.

(The effect varies depending on the race, the individual, and the sexual tastes of her husband. For all the monsters whose charm point is their childish appearance, it won't cause them to have full breasts. Instead, it exhibits an effect that will cause their tiny breasts to become even squishier, and make their skin feel even softer to the touch, so even adherents of Sabbath should relax and drink it.)

There is plenty of holstaur milk in circulation in monster-friendly states and Mamono realms. The number of habitual drinkers who like to start their day with a cup of holstaur milk and 3 loads of their husbands semen(!) is continuing to increase.

The quality of holstaur milk is greatly influenced by the condition of the holstaur herself. First of all, health and stress management are important. As you may have guessed, the most important thing for maintaining a monster's health is to pour inside plenty of her beloved husband's essence, which is the source of a monster's strength. Also, in contrast with their docile, submissive disposition and dim appearance, the holstaurs are a race that has powerfully intense love and sexual urges. For that reason, if they're unable to touch their beloved husband for a long time, they become frustrated and restless, causing a build up of stress. If a holstaur presses her breasts against him, he should rub and squeeze them well. If she desires sex, he should indulge her desire for physical intimacy and make her feel good. And every day it's important to eliminate a holstaur's stress by having plenty of sex with her and pouring in plenty of love and essence, filling her womb with semen until she's satisfied.

The other important factor is how pleasurable it feels to the holstaur when she is being milked. The more pleasurable it is for the holstaur, the more delicious the milk will become. The pleasure experienced is much more heavily influenced by whose hands are doing the milking than the technique.

Of course, to the holstaur, having their husband rub them feels the most pleasurable. So on the occasion of milking, it's important to rub them and squeeze it out deliberately, gently, lewdly, and sometimes roughly. Furthermore, milk squeezed out of the breasts while joined during sex will be even more thick and delicious. After obtaining a husband, the quality of a holstaur's milk improves tremendously. Even if her breasts are rubbed by someone other than her husband, she won't be able to get very much pleasure out of it, so when milked by someone other than her husband, the quality of the milk will plummet, and far less will be produced. In fact, in some cases, milk won't even come out at all.

Of course, it's no good with a man other than their husband. Even in the case of using the kind of milking device used on ordinary dairy cows, delicious milk can't be squeezed out. Furthermore, holstaurs hate having their breasts rubbed by men other than their husband, and it can lead to a huge amount of stress. In the case of milking a holstaur, it must always be done with love by her husband's hands.

In this way, it takes time and effort to produce holstaur milk, and it is problematic since there are only a limited number of people who can milk their breasts, so production in a large-scale farm is impossible, and most production is handled by individual farms. In order to stabilize the supply henceforth, the holstaur milk industry is very busy with the task of procuring husbands for the holstaurs and encouraging breeding.

Inma's Guide

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: staff points the way

Stats: (-2) strength & (+2) wisdom

A hard rod-shaped staff that imitates the shape of an inma's tail. Usually it is an ordinary cane with a rigid and straight shape, but when a woman takes it into her hand and concentrates it goes limp and bends, and it points to the direction of where a specific man desired strongly in her heart exists, in other words her beloved. It is a magic tool used willingly by human women, rather than by mamono that possess a certain degree of power to sense the presence of men. Only the direction can be known, you can't know the distance to the man or the detailed location, but the effect is not limited by distance, it will accurately point to the direction of a man even if separated by sea or if he exists in a spirit realm. In other words, by continuously using this magic tool, no matter where in the world he is, eventually you can track down a man without fail.

However, this magic tool is a "Cursed Tool" to humans, by continuing to use it the desire towards the beloved grows stronger, and it becomes lewd like that of an inma. They will come to constantly think about their beloved, the love and desire growing still stronger, and begin to indulge in masturbation night after night while their beloved comes to mind. Then, the women that have come to hunt men like starved inma, without considering the changes in themselves, will continue to use the "Inma's Guide" with only the desire to reach their beloved. At that time, the "Inma's Guide" that was stiff and straight while not in use, will continue to always point in the direction of a man while twisting and turning, even without trying to use it. Before long, it begins to move willfully like a living thing, and when it wraps around the body of a woman, it adheres itself to above the ass and doesn't come off, becoming a genuine "Inma's Tail".

The creator, method of production, and the origin of this magic tool isn't clear, also no new ones are made, only the previously produced ones currently exist. According to one theory, it is said it contains the regrets of inma that lost their lives in battle with humans without obtaining a man in the age of the former mamono lord, for that reason, they are an existence constantly seeking a beloved man, and by turning women into inma and becoming a part of that body, it is speculated that it is trying to obtain a man and taste ecstasy for itself. It is based on speculation, but given that it becomes the tail of an inma, and looks like it lovingly winds around a man's body, it seems to be somehow happy.

Insignia Activity Potion

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: activates dark insignia tattoos

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) charisma

A magic potion with the power to activate "Dark Insignia", whose liquid continues to emit a faint pink light. It forcibly activates all of the "Dark Insignia" engraved on the drinker's body, and raises the power those insignia bring to their body and mind to the maximum. On the other hand, it does not have any effect on those who are not engraved with "Dark Insignia".

While activated by this magic potion, the insignia continuously holds a bewitching light. The flesh becomes ruled by the insignia, and will continue to throb in search of pleasure and gratification corresponding to each insignia. If the person engraved with insignia does not take action to satisfy it, the insignia emits an even stronger light as if it has its own will, urging an endless increase in the power of the insignia.

For example, a "Pleasure Insignia" that has been activated to the maximum, even without something to produce pleasure, will feel a tingly weak pleasure, as if something is touching the skin when there isn't. As a man gets closer, that sensation intensifies, and if there is one in the immediate vicinity, just from the mana released by the man brushing by their body, they are visited by a pleasure as if the entire body is being lewdly caressed, and will come to only seek pleasure as if clinging to the man. In this way, although the power of the insignia activated to its maximum is strong, it may be possible to enjoy it to some extent if one has the mind of a monster, but the human mind will be at its wits' end, and become swayed by the desire and impulses that the insignia brings.

On the other hand, by accepting the insignia that has been activated to the maximum from the bottom of the heart, the insignia familiarizes to the body and mind, becoming fixed. The power of a completely familiarized insignia can be treated as if it has become one's own, and instead of being swayed by it, a figure that enjoys the surplus of impulse and pleasure brought by the insignia is shown. However, their thoughts and actions will come to flatter and obey the insignia, becoming an existence like a monster that possesses instinct and a way of life brought by the insignia. Those who have become completely familiar with the insignia will seem to feel as if they have awoken to an entirely new self, and those that are engraved with "Vixen's Insignia", "Rabbit's Insignia" etc. also show a change as if they have become an entirely different person.

This activation will subside if the effect of the potion wears off, or by fulfilling the desire of the insignia by joining with a man. It is different if you are imprisoned or tied up, but basically you cannot bear the impulse, and it seems you can satisfy the insignia by joining with a man. However, sexual intercourse with a man while the insignia is in a state of maximum activation is an act that familiarizes the insignia to the body, and gives it great strength. Therefore, from the moment you taste this magical potion, it is inevitable that flesh engraved with an insignia will become more indecent than before drinking the potion, and lewd desires will inhabit the mind.

Intimacy Vegetable

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms

Effect: consumes sexual mana & grows

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+2) strength

One of the mamono realm vegetables, also known as "mamono realm potatoes". They are familiarly known by a corrupted version of that name, "mamono realm taters". These vegetables are similar in shape to the "potatoes" that exist in the human world, but they have a reddish tinge due to the influence of mamono mana. As one would expect from a mamono realm food, they're a bit sweeter compared to potatoes. It's an all-purpose vegetable that can be eaten after being cooked in a variety of ways including simmering, roasting, and boiling.

The most notable characteristic of these vegetables is that when they grow, they absorb the magical energy around them. Due to the energy absorbed, they may even grow massive, and change in taste, shape, and color. Anyway, the changes that occur due to the environment are remarkable. If we were to minutely classify them, as of the present, there are said to be hundreds or even thousands of varieties of intimacy vegetables, and they continue to increase in number even now. When cultivating intimacy vegetables, their nature is of course influenced by the location where they are being raised, as well as the mamono mana contained in the soil, water, and fertilizer. Additionally, in the case of cultivation by a man and his monster wife, the wife's monster race and individual peculiarities will also influence the produce. What has the biggest impact of all is the couple's love life including kinks, and the methods and frequency of having sex day after day. In other words, intimacy vegetables are crops that mainly receive a powerful influence from the magical energy that is released during sex by the couple cultivating them. We could probably even say they're the crystallization of a couple's love.

Given the nature of these vegetables, they're not just grown by farmers. It seems there are typical families who also grow them in the garden and look forward to seeing what sort of intimacy vegetables will be produced.

Additionally, farmers, and households involved in cultivating these vegetables can devote themselves to cultivar improvement while at the same time enjoying their sex life by trying out foods and drugs with varying effects. Everything about these crops varies considerably depending on the land of production and the producers. Since who produced it is extremely important, there are an extremely large number of crops that are sold using the producer's name like a brand.

Also, "mamono realm tater contests" are periodically held involving many farmers and regular families as well. Couples from all over proudly bring the crystallization of their love, intimacy vegetables. Every time a huge number of intimacy vegetables are gathered when these contests are held, new varieties are discovered. Some are so enormous that you have to look up at them, some are half transparent and can be seen through to the other side, and some are soft and flaky while raw in spite of not having been cooked, etc. It's turned out to be an event where one can enjoy looking and eating.

Furthermore, remarkably, unlike what is seen in other vegetables, these vegetables don't have special effects or contain aphrodisiac compounds. However, since it's eating a crystallization of love that accumulated in the earth, the night after having eaten these, it's become customary for a couple to make love by having hotter, wilder sex than normal in order to return their love to the earth.

Intoxication Fruit

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms / forests

Effect: demon grapes / thought removal

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+4) charisma

Also called "Mamono Realm Grapes". A Mamono Realm fruit that grows in clusters. It's characterized by its peculiar appearance with half-transparent jelly-like skin full of red liquid on the inside.

The red fluid is condensed Mamono Mana sucked up from the ground. First of all, Mamono mana collects in the first fruit at the top of the cluster, and, as if filtered from there, the mamono mana liquid drops to the lower fruit while becoming even more condensed. In this way, the lower the fruit is, the less fluid there is inside, but it becomes that much more concentrated. The taste also grows thicker and more delicious. The upper fruits are cheap, and sold in large amounts, but the lower the fruit is, the more the taste and price increases. Especially the heart-shaped fruits at the very bottom, which are the most scarcely produced. These fruits are top quality products with mamono mana condensed to the limit.

The red liquid inside is like mellow wine, and it's mixed with a perfect balance of sweetness, sourness, bitterness, and astringency. If one puts the entire fruit with its half-transparent skin in the mouth and bites it, the skin will burst and the liquid will spill out, filling the mouth with a thick taste, causing those who eat it to become pleasantly intoxicated. This pleasant feeling of intoxication is most suitable for freeing one's mind from excessive thoughts, allowing one to fill their heart with only love and affection for the lover across from them. It's popular to eat one before sex.

Especially in the case of the feeling of intoxication induced by eating the lowest fruit. One becomes unable to see anything but their self and their beloved partner. It makes one feel as if they're the only two people in the world. "Mamono Realm Wine" made from this fruit also doesn't cause bad drunkenness, and it's most suitable as a "precoital aperitif" that always induces a pleasant intoxication, plus it has a thick taste, so it's popular. The highest grade Mamono Realm wine made from the lowest heart-shaped fruit in particular can rival the thick flavor and aroma of the highest grade wine fermented for thousands of years, even when freshly made. If fermented, this wine becomes even more delicious, and it's a product that makes wine lovers drool, whether human or monster.

Also, even the dew that drops from the lowest fruit is an exquisite product full of nutrition. The mamono mana contained in dew concentrated to the utmost limit is enough to cause the place where it drops to become a field of flowers. This fruit is in high demand, and it is harvested to a certain degree, so this is actually pretty much impossible, but if the dew were to continue dropping in one place, it is said that if you were to plant a seed of "Alraune" or "Mandragora" there, it would grow into an individual with enough power to rival the highest rank monsters such as "Dragon" and "Baphomet".

Additionally, if human women eat this fruit, if it's one of the upper fruits, it only causes the effect of intoxication, but in the case of the lower fruit, the influence of condensed Mamono mana will cause them to change into a succubus while intoxicated just from eating one.

Licking fruit in use by an Imp and an Alice

Licking Fruit

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms / forests

Effect: oral provoking demonic banana

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+4) wisdom

One of the fruits of the Mamono Realm. It has a black exterior covered in a thin skin. After peeling it, there's an additional thick, soft, reddish-black skin, and syrupy white pulp is packed inside of that.

The pointed end of the fruit protected by a double-layered skin gives off a pungent, sweet aroma that attracts women, whether human or monster. When they see this fruit, it makes them want to shove the whole thing in their mouth, skin and all.

The first layer of skin can be peeled normally by hand, but not the elastic second layer of skin, which is packed tightly full of pulp. As for the second layer of skin, when one takes it inside the mouth, licking and sucking it to provide adequate stimulation, the pulp inside expands, and rapidly swells bigger along with the skin. Eventually, the syrupy white pulp will be released inside the mouth from the tip. While licking and sucking the thick skin, a faintly sweet translucent fluid starts to trickle out. This alone is enough to amuse the one doing the eating.

Additionally, the syrupy pulp inside has a flavor so sweet, and creamy it's enough to make the tongue melt away. Not just the tongue, it's probably even enough to make even the mind melt away.

However, while licking and sucking the fruit, if one bites it, or provides excessively strong stimulation, it will burst and discharge, sending the contents flying. Because of this, those who aren't used to eating it often end up having their face and body covered in white sticky goo.

It's a fruit that's especially popular as a treat for younger monster children, and monster mothers often give them to their children because it provides practice for the future. Actively eating it is also recommended by Sabbath. Monster children love this sweet fruit, but eventually they lose interest, and stop eating it. It's not that as a monster grows older the fruit itself stops tasting good to them, but a monster will eventually find a husband. They only have one mouth, and they're busy licking and sucking their beloved man's cock, which is so delicious the fruit pales in comparison, so they just lose interest in licking the fruit.

In the human world, this fruit is pretty valuable, but sometimes peddlers, etc. sell bunches of them. The fruit tempts women, and stirs their instinct, and if a human woman lays eyes on it, she'll suddenly buy a whole bunch. This fruit full of mamono mana lets the women who obtain it instinctively understand to take it in their mouth, and taste the pulp. Once a woman has been charmed by the taste, the peculiar, pungent aroma will get stuck in her brain, and she won't be able to get it off her mind. Once that happens, she'll end up persistently seeking the odor, and the sweet pulp. She'll be tempted to buy whole bunches, and then she'll suck the hell out of each and every fruit. However, even after eating all the fruit, her desire for the odor and flavor won't subside. Even if she wants the fruit, since it's pretty valuable, she won't easily be able to get her hands on it, and the woman's syrupy sweet desire will grow higher day by day.

By the time she reaches the limit of what she can endure, she'll start to sense an odor that is just as delicious as the odor of the fruit, if not more so. And then, she'll suck on the source of that odor, a human man's lower body, and become engrossed in sipping mana.

After absorbing mana in this way, the mamono mana that had accumulated in her body from the fruit will blossom at once, and she'll end up changing into a succubus. Women monsterised by this fruit will have a strong preference to orally service their husband and swallow his semen, compared to other monsters.

The white fruit inside is sweet and delicious to human men, and incubi as well, but the juice secreted by the thick skin tastes extremely bitter to them, so they can't make the pulp shoot out by licking and sucking it. For that reason, in the case of a man eating this fruit, it's recommended to be fed mouth to mouth by a woman who made it shoot, or eat some that already shot out raw, or cooked. Furthermore, even among men, those with the nature to change into an Alp are exceptions, and the juice that comes out of the thick skin supposedly also tastes sweet to them.

Lilim Cloth

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: enchanted cloak / armor

Stats: (-2) strength & (+4) charisma

This cloak was created by the hands of a mamono from the Lilim race, to which Miss Druella belongs, who possess tremendous magical power beyond all other Mamono races, and unsurpassed beauty. The runes embroidered on this cloak are filled with the powerful magic of this race. The Lilim cloth is a magical armor of the highest class, created over a long period of time by the hands of Lilims, the daughters of the Mamono Lord. Each of the cloaks is equipped with its own magical succubus runes, which are embroidered on the cloth using extremely advanced magic, and have their own power of enchantment. For these reasons, no two cloaks in the world are completely identical.

Since the lilim gives the cloth its power, the "Inma Strength" of such a cloak is as great as the lilim who created it. Even a humble follower of the Chief God, who sincerely hates monsters, will have a hard time resisting the seduction of a monster wearing this outfit. Every man will be enchanted by the "body of the captivating monster," which, hidden beneath this dark cloak, will be as beautiful as a star in the night sky. Even if the monster girls do not use tempting words or their seduction magic, men will be willing to give themselves to them. At the heart of this terrifying power is that the inside of the cloak, through the power of a Lilim, becomes a mamono realm itself. The Lilim cloth they have created with their own hands is usually made by them as a gift to some particular mamono. And the mamono realm, which is located on the inside of the cloak, is specifically for those who will wear the cloak. It makes the cloak easier to wear in everyday life, makes the wearer even more sexy, and maximizes her power as a mamono.

Virtually all of the Lilim cloth that exists in Lescatia is made by the hands of Druella. Cloaks made from this cloth are known as a version of the reward that Druella bestows on Dark Knights who have defended the country or have been on a distant expedition and due to severe necessity had to leave their spouse for long periods of time.

If you choose the Lilim Cloth as your reward, ask Druella to tell you about the mamono realm within the Lilim Cloth. You can ask her to arrange it to your liking, such as "like a tropical night, when your body burns even harder." In other words, this cloak is not only for effectively seducing men, but also for wearing it for a night of lovemaking with your sweet spouse. In this space, separated from the outside world, the couple can have fun in a pleasant environment. The reason this outfit is a dream for many monsters is not because it increases their power... but rather because it makes spending time alone with one's spouse more colorful.

As mentioned earlier, the Lilim cloth is mostly only given to Dark Knights by Druella, so it is one of the rarest magical armor that is very difficult to obtain. But in Salvarision, in the middle of Nightlight Street, where the various magical stores are located, there is the Black Goat Magical Shop. Its warehouse occasionally receives a bit of Lilim cloth when Druella is inspired to take up sewing.

This fabric is one of the rarest pieces of equipment in the Mamono Realms, so even if you get your hands on a piece of it, treat it as a very valuable item... and if you can, make it part of your armor!

Lilith's Panacea

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: cures all ills / mamono upgrade

Stats: (+4) strength

A magical medicine created by gathering refined succubus magic, it is said to be a small bit of highly concentrated mamono realm in the form of a pure white liquid placed in a small bottle. It is said to be one of the legendary magical medicines created by accident by the Mamono Lord, and it's currently unconfirmed if it even exists.

With just a taste, Imps become Arch Imps, this magical medicine holds the power to transform the ground it is spilled on into a mamono realm, and will change into a "cure-all" to grant all of the read desires of human women who drink it. However, after these desires are warped to become full of lust, arousal, and extremely lewd things based on the Mamono Lord's values, they are granted through monsterization.

A woman who desires to gather the love of all the world's men, who has in mind stealing the hearts of all the world's men, will become one whose beauty and charm are devoted to love, but because they are a mamono, that beauty and charm will be used to obtain one man recognized as their companion. A woman who desires to become the strongest, by obtaining a partner who can keep up with them sexually for eternity, will become a mamono who can continuously raise their power without limit. A princess that wishes to see her homeland rebuilt after being destroyed by an enemy nation, can get enemy countries wrapped up in mamono realms just by staying there, and become a being who can resurrect all those who died as undead. In other words, this magical medicine transforms the drinker into the ideal mamono.

There are no limits on the nature or power of the mamono that can be transformed into by drinking it, of course including high rank mamono such as "Dragon" and "Baphomet", and it is even said there is a possibility of becoming a new species of mamono that does not presently exist in the world. Still, since its existence has not been confirmed, it is considered just a rumor. Among the Lilims, daughters of the Mamono Lord, it is whispered that in fact, by drinking this magical medicine, a human woman can become a "White Inma" with powers equal to the Lillim, and there exist those adopted by the Mamono Lord herself.

LongQuan Buns

Harvesting Location: LongQuan village

Effect: kolache (edible) prisoner fruit | mandrake

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) charisma | (-2) dexterity & (+4) strength

Can't you smell the wonderful aroma drifting around? Yes! These LongQuan Buns are the source of the sweet smell in this town! They are mostly sold here in pairs in one set, so couples who come here for the purpose of sightseeing can safely eat them together. Originally, this rabbit food, which was eaten in the lands of Zipangu, where the Ryu Water Goddesses came from, was unfamiliar to me, but I was completely fascinated by its flavor. Now a souvenir to be enjoyed by dragons and humans alike, it is a popular dish of Ryu Township that is part of the "Classic Menu for Familiarization" - LongQuan Buns! Although the bun dough looks thin, it's lush and springy because it's steamed with Ryu waters. And when you bring this plump bun to your mouth, you can enjoy its delicate texture. Of course, it's not so much the dough that's the source of the flavor as the ingredients put into the bun - it's the ripe, dense, creamy "Prisoner Fruit" that's used. Through the use of Ryu Springs water for the dough, which has a cosmetic effect, and more "Prisoner Fruit," which increases cuteness and attractiveness, the woman who bites into the LongQuan bun suddenly blossoms with the springtime beauty of the hot springs. Her cheeks blush slightly and her feverish body breathes naturally from beneath her barely-covered yukata, attracting the male gaze with the best kind of.. naked sexuality!

Hey, hey, look at this! This is the Royal Makai... The monthly "Tranquil Makai Life," and here these buns are presented as noteworthy sweets. Lately, many people visit LongQuan Villag for a walking tour.

Usually, LongQuan Buns use Prisoner Fruit as the main ingredient, but for those who don't like sweets and need to replenish their strength, primarily for men, LongQuan Buns are sold containing Mandrake. Mandrake is one of the plants of the Mamono Realms that can also be gathered in the lands of the dragons. They are known for their mysterious and addictive flavor that makes even a dragon weep, it gracefully matches the slightly sweet taste of the bun dough. In contrast to the "Prisoner Fruit" buns, the LongQuan buns, which use Mandrake leaves in abundance, have a firm texture because they use seven kinds of vegetables that are simply stewed. That's why these buns satisfy hunger so well. Also, the freshest mandrake leaves are used for them because the Knights of Dragonia pick them early in the morning! By the time you're done eating, you'll have enough energy to pounce on your beloved again! What I've told you is already causing a fever, but the truly amazing thing is that all of the LongQuan Buns sold in Ryu Town have different flavors because they use water from different LongQuan springs to make them! Enjoying different flavors of LongQuan Buns from different stores, sometimes sweating in the shadows of the town's streets, slowly exploring the town together.. don't you think it's wonderful? Don't you? So why don't we get something to eat if we're hungry? Eat up! Hurry, I've already bought it! Yes, yes, please don't be shy, open your mouth.

Love Divination Skull

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: telekinesis / mind reader

Stats: (-2) strength & (+2) charisma

An unusual magical tool that begins to speak when you hold it in your arms and turn it towards your face, reads the heart of the person holding the skull, and correctly guesses the target of one's favor. It was popular a little while ago among the children of the monster realm who love stories of sensual love, although the appearance is easily preferred by children of mamono, it is naturally not the real thing but a decoration.

Continuing to hold it as is, rather than saying the name of the person you like, it possesses a bad habit of beginning to chatter on about things like "What kind of place they like", "Why you like them", "What do you want to become with them".

Until this point, it only speaks in the mind that is read, but if you continue to hold it, the skull's "Delusions" begin to enter the conversation, becoming extreme content such as "I will look at that person with an indecent eye", "When I look at that person I will want to eat them and drool", "I want to join with that person until I become messed up with his semen" etc. And yet, there is no complete lie in the words the skull speaks, they are thoroughly based on content taken from the heart of the person holding it. However, it reads not only the contents of what you are thinking in your head, but also the desires dwelling in instinct, and they are exaggerated to the maximum obscene content based on the values of mamono.

Also, although this skull is weak, it holds a hint of power towards the one holding the skull. The lewd delusions the skull talks about are based on reading the mind, although in the beginning it is denied that they would think such things, as they hear it they begin to realize that it exaggerated their true intention, before long they feel that it is what they truly desire. It has a particularly immediate effect on human women who are not as resistant to obscene thoughts compared to mamono, a human woman who holds the skull will start to blush and be embarrassed, eventually seeing how the skull is stained.

As a children's toy, it is a magical tool with too much power. For that reason, a game called "Pretend Extremist" where you capture a female soldier of the Order and have her continue to hold the skull against her will, becoming a "Demon" that captures heroes and administers lewd torture and breaking, for a period of time was a fad among mischievous mamono children, and became a problem.

Magic Dragon Flute

Harvesting Location: Dragon Zombie mamono

Effect: dragon power

Stats: (-4) constitution & (+8) strength

Are you sure? Don't go anywhere from me. Magokan is also a large magical store in Dragonia that deals in particularly strong magical tools, items that do not require individual processing and are not different from one another. Many amorous mamono gather at their counters. You have some assurance of safety if you are accompanied by our guide, but if a single person enters this store, remember, their action is tantamount to taking the first step into a monster dungeon. Many of the items in this store hold strong emotions that have reached levels of obsession and frustration, but the magical dragon flute is a signature item.

At first glance, the magical dragon flute appears to be a flute with decorative embellishments, but a closer look reveals that it is made of horn bone and dragon claws that fall out as they grow. Of course, though they have fallen out, the magical power of the dragon in such claws and horns remains. Of course, these are not ingredients that you can easily find. However, in the dark region located in the northern part of Dragonia, which is called the "Graveyard of Dragons" there are such items from time to time, as its name implies. It can be said that all dragon flutes sold in Dragonia are made from ingredients found in the Graveyard. However, those who have been to the dragon graveyard notice that these bones hold the very strong emotions of "zombie dragons" who never found their human mate. The magical flute is made by skilled masters of magic, and at the end of the long manufacturing process, the Dragon's provided horn and her disembodied claws are joined together as one. The dragon flute changes its sound dramatically depending on how you blow into it. If you play it gently, you'll get a sound like a dragon's cry reaching the heavens, and your melody will reach your other half's ears no matter how far away she is. Besides the possibility of talking by means of flute sounds, if a playing person wants to tell something important, then his wife-dragon will at once take an appearance of a giant dragon, fly up to the sky and rush to her beloved husband. If you powerfully blow the flute, the sound turns into a roar of the dragon, which can shake the surrounding space, and you can take the power of the dragon, from whose bones was made flute. In other words, the magical flute is the engagement stone of a loving couple*, it is a high-level magical item that is never sold in ordinary stores just for fun. The dragon flute is not sold there because of the great danger of this artifact. If a human male with no connection to the dragon blows into the Dragon Flute, the sound will turn into a mating call, attracting a zombie dragon whose senses have still not been satisfied. In addition to the fact that the flute will summon the zombie dragon, the man will find himself at the mercy of the dragon's passion trapped in the flute. He will not be able to suppress the resulting lust for the dragon and desire to make her his woman, and will greedily pounce on her. What makes the free sale of dragon flutes even more dangerous is the natural ability of these objects to attract lonely men and make them want to play such a flute.

And while I've talked about the awful aspects of dragon flutes up to this point, custom-made flutes are also fine musical instruments. There are many magical instrument stores in Dragonia dedicated to the score of the Dragon Flute melody, and there are active competitions for the best, most beautiful music. There is one trick to playing the dragon flute well...to get a good sound, you have to understand well the feelings put into the words of your magical flute. In other words, the better you know your wife, the better you know her voice and how it sounds, the better player you will become. It's not as easy as you think! What a bore you are!

Magic Flame Candlestick

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: converts mana to light

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+2) dexterity

A candlestick for lighting an ominous looking flame. Very few fire elements are put in, and by reacting with mamono mana, you can easily light a flame of mana. There is no need to prepare fuel or candles, a being with mamono mana, that is, mamono and their incubus companions touch the candlestick lightly, the element of fire dwelling in the candlestick and the mamono mana of the person touching it connect, becoming a flame.

The flame lit on this candlestick is not strictly a flame, it is only "Mamono Mana" that has been given the property of illuminating the area and flickering like a flame. Therefore, the role of the flame is only to illuminate the area, not to heat up or burn what touched the flame. Also, because it is a mass of mamono mana, it is rare for a flame to burn red like normal fire, in most cases the flame will burn a bewitching violet or blue.

Demand is high in illuminating libraries and laboratories that are dangerous to use real flames in, together with bewitching flames flickering in the darkness being quite to mamono's tastes. It is also very popular as an interior piece for showing off your lewd limbs illuminated by alluring flames to men in the bedroom.

Magic Gems

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm (caves / mines)

Effect: converts mana to magic

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+4) strength

One of the unique ores that can be mined underground in any mamono realm, they're even easier to imbue with magical energy than Mamono Realm Silver. Not only are they used as ornaments, the gems are also excellent as a material for magic items. The raw gems are transparent and colorless, but if imbued with essence or mamono mana, the color, brilliance, transparency and even shape of the crystals will variously change depending on the owner of the essence or mamono mana that's contained inside.

These changes are different depending on each individual, and one person's energy cannot make exactly the same gem as another person. A gem is thus produced that is "unique to each person" and can only be made with that person's essence or mamono mana. For that reason it's even possible to distinguish an individual through these gems.

Furthermore, once a gem has had essence or mamono mana poured into it, it stores that energy and this causes it to become fixed. This means that once a magic gem has been changed, it won't ever change again. Since if it is accidentally imbued with magical energy and changed a magic gem cannot be returned to its original state, excavated magic gems need to be handled carefully.

They are also difficult to handle when processing, so only an artisan with excellent skills can be entrusted with it. Additionally, when infusing magical energy into a magic gem, the gem must be of high quality and purity to match the strength of the energy. If the quality of the gem is unsuitable for the greatness of the magical energy, then it won't be able to take it when the energy is poured inside, and it will shatter. For that reason, magic gems of more powerful individuals are regarded as more valuable. Notably, it seems that there still aren't any gems in existence that can contain the magical energy of the Mamono Lord or her husband. Because of the richness of their brilliance, there are passionate collectors of magic gems among both humans and monsters.

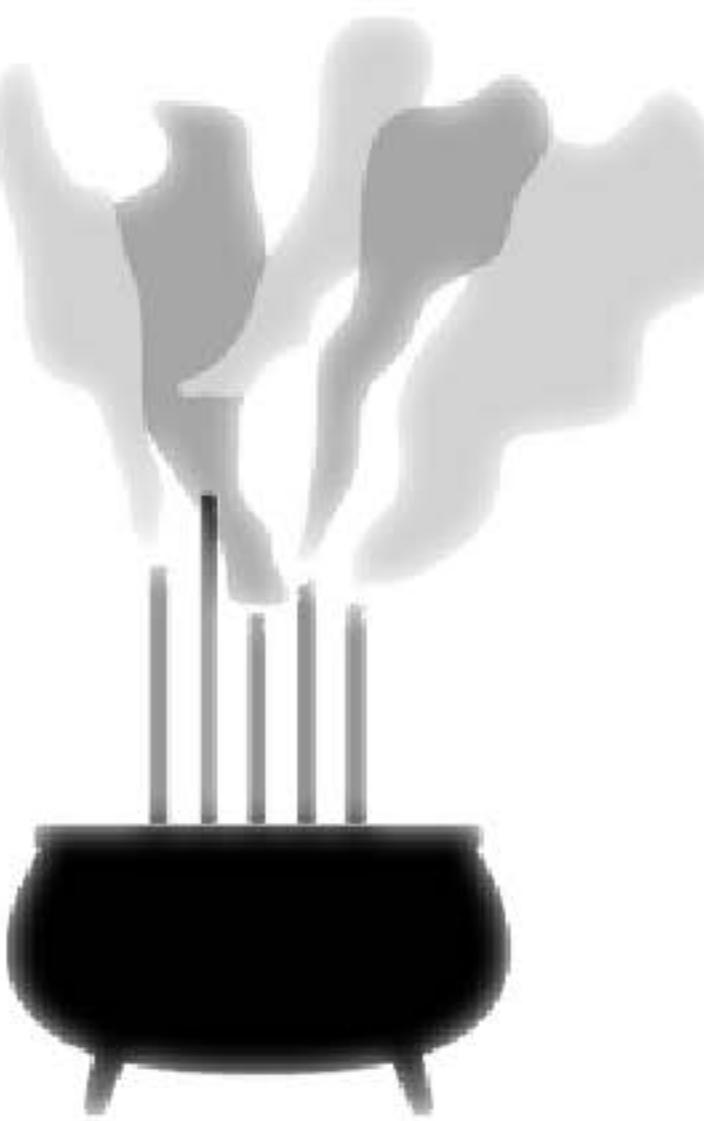

Regardless of whether it's the mamono realm or the human realm, magic gems that are infused with the essence or mamono mana of particularly well known people are precious and wildly popular. Such famous people include leader-class monsters of the Mamono Lord's army, or fallen former heroes; as well as current heroes of the Order, and the popes and saints of religious states.

Engagement Rings

Engagement rings are rings that are exchanged at the time of marriage. Originally, monsters had no such tradition, it was a human tradition, but monsters have also come to practice it through the faith of the goddess of love. When a monster couple exchanges engagement rings, these magic gems are often used. The bride and groom will imbue their mamono mana and essence respectively in the magic gems of the two rings and exchange them with each other. The bride will put on the ring of the groom's color, and the groom will put on the ring of the bride's color.

Engagement rings are not necessary for marriage, but even a monster with no interest in jewels will change her tune if it's something that contains the essence of her beloved husband. She'd be very pleased to have proof of the love she shares with her husband, and she'd continue to treasure it. A ring infused with the essence of her husband can make a monster feel like she's always with him whenever she's wearing it.

Furthermore, the color and brilliance of magic gems varies depending on the individual. It would be extremely rare, but it's probably even possible for them to change into mere stones that are poor in color and lack brilliance. However, that sort of thing doesn't matter to monsters. As far as monsters are concerned, what's even more important than the fact that it's a jewel, is the fact that it's a stone containing their husband's essence.

Mamono Realm Herbs

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: love aroma: Melty | Stoic | Silent

Stats: (-2) INT & (+4) CHA | (-2) WIS & (+4) DEX | (-2) CHA & (+4) WIS

Among the wild herbs growing all over the mamono realms, there are some that have an extremely peculiar fragrance. Along with that fragrance, these herbs have been known to also release slight amounts of mamono mana. All of these herbs have various sexual effects for men and monsters when consumed properly. As wild herbs, they must be sniffed directly and the effect is only slight, but by processing them into "incenses" the effect is increased dramatically. Having sex in a bedroom filled with incense and mamono mana can have an effect on couples. Also, since it is used in the black mass feasts of Sabbath, etc., special incenses that apply to the entirety of a wide area are sometimes concocted. It's not just a matter of simply processing it into incense. Herbs are mixed together, and if other mamono realm produce, drugs, and mamono mana of specific races, etc. are mixed in, the effect of the incense is adjustable, and it's possible to create things with completely different effects, so there are even people who concoct incenses for a living. These incenses that stimulate a couple's night life are popular among lewd and fashionable monster girls.

Additionally, these mamono realm herbs basically release a thin mamono mana, even weaker than that found in the air of the demon realm. Many herbs and incenses have been distributed throughout the human world by monsters, but most people don't realize that they're products of the mamono realm. Also, human men and women don't change into incubi and monsters just from burning it and having sex once or twice. However, if they use it again and again, mamono mana will definitely accumulate in their bodies. A male and female couple who used it together will deepen their love, become more intimate, and spend more time together. And before they even realize it themselves, little by little, their repugnance for indulgence in sex and pleasure will diminish, the time they spend touching each other will increase, as well as the frequency of intercourse. Sex will become more lewd and intense.

Eventually, they'll be spending most of the day having sex with the fragrance of the incense, and before they know it, their thoughts will become hardly different from those of monsters. After a long time, once they finally notice their own changes, the male and female couple will have changed into a lewd incubus and succubus.

Melty Love

The fragrance of the most beloved and commonly used herb. A sweetly melty sensual fragrance that fills the room with a sweet pink atmosphere. It creates a sweet air between lovers and married couples. They can enjoy sweet, sticky sex, spontaneously indulging and lusting for one another. No monster dislikes a sweet time with her husband, so it can be recommended to all of them.

Stoic Love

A cool, refreshing fragrance that fills the room with a calm atmosphere. Monsters that easily lose their senses can stay calm and maintain rational thought even while happily enjoying pleasure with their beloved husband. Instead of just going wild like a beast, they can have sex while tasting, enjoying, and understanding pleasure. Even though it calms people down, it doesn't grant resistance to temptation and pleasure. If tempted, they would end up clearly understanding how aroused, attracted, and eager they are for sex. By having calm feelings even towards pleasure and maintaining the capacity for thought, one can distinguish pleasure more strongly than usual. The power of a monster's affection for a man and happiness during sex are more sharply distinguished. With the aid of this fragrance, the sort of monsters that pretend not to realize their own feelings and those that won't be honest with themselves can distinctly realize how much they love their male partners and how badly they want to have sex with them.

No matter what, this fragrance is for "calmly enjoying sex and pleasure." It was devised so that monsters could calmly and accurately perform sexual techniques on their husband even while experiencing mind blowing pleasure. Previously, a unit of the order misinterpreted that and tried to use the herb, but what resulted should remain unspoken. It's recommended for those who don't want to slip up from being distracted by their own pleasure while servicing their husband, those who want to burn their husband's face and body into their eyes during sex, and ladies who want to calmly have adult sex with their husband.

Silent Love

Contrary to the name "silent", this room-filling, sensuous, and passionate fragrance makes the bodies of the man and woman intertwined in the room burn from within and heat up. Stirred by the passionate fragrance, the two will seek one another's bodies, frantically indulging, and without the composure to speak, they will lose language. Then, only wet noises and moaning remains, adding to the obscene atmosphere. Having sex under the effects of the fragrance that's so passionate it causes them to sweat even though they aren't hot probably fully satisfies the bestial lust of monsters. It's recommended for monsters who want to spend a passionate, indulgent night of sucking one another's bodies dry.

Mamono Realm Ink

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: conveys feelings with words

Stats: (-2) strength & (+4) charisma

Mamono Realm Ink is an ink containing magical power produced from raw mamono realm ore and plants. This magic tool is used not only in Lescatieve but also by every mamono realm nation, it's also actively traded by the hands of monster peddlers, and in some cases can even be spotted within human nations, it can be said that this is one of the most familiar things to monsters. By mixing in Mamono Realm Ink as a raw material, you can bestow various magical effects onto written documents.

By properly dipping a pen in Mamono Realm Ink and writing text on a document, you can bestow magical effects such as "making the letters last longer", "making the letters untamperable", or even "if it is a language the reader doesn't know, you can convey the meaning of the sentence directly into their head, making them understand" etc. In love letters sent to men by monsters, despite being only text, you can feel the atmosphere that attracts a man to a monster as if talking directly to the one that wrote it. By putting charm magic into the text, you can even perform tricks like stealing the heart of a penpal with each repeated correspondence, and it is used for a wide variety of other uses according to the time and circumstances.

Among the Mamono Realm Inks, the Lescatieve Deep Crimson Ink, made from raw "Druelite" mined in the current Lescatieve, is particularly famous for having a powerful magic effect. Characters written using this are used in sentences with strong feelings put into them, and these sentences will have the power to more strongly erode the heart of the reader. It is sought by a wide range of monsters, and is a particularly popular and expensive item among the many Mamono Realm Inks.

By using Lescatieve's Mamono Realm Ink, if a monster sends a man a love letter spelling out her thoughts, then the heart of the man that reads it will be reminded of the days spent with her painted in love and pleasure, and if a human woman reads text that introduces a monster race and suggests transforming into it, you can vividly engrave into her the pleasure and ecstasy that will fill her life after transforming into that monster, as if feeling the real thing. The effect is enormous, and when a formerly anti-monster state that harbored strong hostility towards monsters was sent a single letter hand written in this ink by Druella, they learned the joy of falling to the mamono realm, and it seems they surrendered personally at Druella's military gate.

However, the magical effect contained in this ink will not manifest in an insincere nonsense sentence, and you also cannot make someone believe in a lie. In order to exert a strong effect, it is necessary to have a deep understanding of the information you want to convey and your own heart, as well as have strong feelings for the one who will read it, it seems it took Druella over three years to think up the contents of that letter, so nowadays it is said that it's just faster to go to them directly.

Although it holds great power, it delivers your feelings to your partner, and is a magical tool that shows its true value over a long period of time, so it's quite the romantic item isn't it?

Now then, since this Mamono Realm Ink is sold quite normally as a souvenir in Lescatieve, I also purchased some when I saw it... and I was just thinking about sending a status report to teacher soon... so let's just try and see how much of an effect this Mamono Realm Ink has.

Mamono Realm Silver

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm (caves / mines)

Effect: consumes mana in weapon form

Stats: (-8) strength (mamono SE)

One of the typical ores that can be mined underground in mamono realms. The raw ore is a metal with a pink luster, but occasionally it changes into various colors such as black or red due to processing. Its properties make it easy to imbue with mamono mana, and it is the most suitable metal for creating magic items.

Also, it is often used for manufacturing weapons. Weapons made of mamono realm silver do not inflict wounds on the body of a cut opponent, instead inflicting damage on the opponent's magical energy. When an opponent's magical energy is wounded, essence or mamono mana will leak out from there, and they will lose their strength. In this way, it's possible to take away an opponent's strength to fight without harming or killing them.

By infusing weapons made of mamono realm silver with mamono mana, it's even possible to change human women into monsters. This is because when a human woman is cut, the mamono mana dwelling within the weapon will flow into her, as if to fill in the hole where her energy leaked out. These non-lethal weapons are widely and regularly used by monsters who fundamentally hate killing humans, and they've also been adopted as the official equipment of the Mamono Lord's Army.

Also, when making an alloy with other metals such as iron or copper, if a certain amount of mamono realm silver is mixed in, copper or iron will be corroded by the mamono realm silver. It will change into "mamono realm iron" or "mamono realm copper", which have the same properties as mamono realm silver.

Additionally, the beautiful pink luster of raw mamono realm silver is also treasured as a material for accessories. It looks extremely beautiful to the human eye as well, and despite it being a product of the mamono realm, a countless number of noblewomen desire accessories made from this mamono realm silver. It is sometimes sold even in human realms by monster merchants, etc.

Basically, even if an accessory is made from mamono realm silver, as long as there's only a slight amount of mamono mana imbued within it, it won't have any effects on humans. However, mamono realm silver is easily imbued with mamono mana, and the ore is optimal for producing things called "cursed equipment" which can change women who wear them into monsters due to having been infused with a huge amount of condensed mamono mana.

"Cursed equipment" disguised as beautiful accessories is being mass-produced at the hands of the "radical faction" of the Mamono Lord's Army; who desire for all humans to become monsters, and for all lands to become mamono realms. Large amounts have been scattered throughout human lands, and many humans have been made to be reborn as monsters; producing many mamono realms as a result.

Mana Cage

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: stores mana for later

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+2) strength

A magical tool that can gather up the mamono mana that overflows from mamono and their partners when they join, and store it.

It is one of the most revolutionary magic tools devised and developed by the Mamono Lord's Army Sabbath. The existence of this magical tool has made it possible for the efficient and permanent recovery of "Mana Resources" used for all sorts of purposes such as magical research and experimentation, manufacturing magical tools and medicine, fuel for operating various magical devices that support Mamono Realm life, the production of large-scale spirit realms etc. Presently it is not only used by Sabbaths around the world, but also almost every Mamono Realm state, and even some mamono-friendly states, the total amount of mana that can be freely used due to the existence of this magic tool is hitherto incomparable, and it has become one of the major factors in the development of the Mamono Realm and mamono-friendly states.

Since the simplest of these "Mana Cages" are very inexpensive, they are sometimes offered free of charge from Sabbath and the state. By placing this in the bedroom during nightly coupling, the "Mana Resources" collected in the container can be sold by bringing it to a Sabbath or State that needs it, as well as the nearest Magical Tool Store that receives a mandate from them. The existence of this magic tool allows a mamono and her partner to obtain a minimum amount of money, even if they just spend their lives coupling.

In addition to the simple ones, various superior models exist such as those with enhanced mana gathering efficiency, and those that can compress collected mana which are more compact and suitable for carrying etc. Also, there are those that come with a technique to remove impurities, and can collect only the mana of a certain race from the air. There is demand for pure mana of a specific race for various magics and magical tools, and it also becomes things like medicines and perfumes for women who want to become a certain mamono or men who want to be liked by a specific mamono, it can be purchased as a high quality "Mana Resource" for a high price. Since these superior models use more advanced skills and techniques, they won't be handed out for free, you will need to save money to buy them, since purchasing them makes it easier to collect money, if you collect some amount of money with the simple ones, it would be nice to buy a high-end model. Since they become one of the interior pieces of the bedroom which is a love nest with their companion, for mamono, while the function is obviously important, the design is also considered an important factor, and there are also specialty magic shops that deal in a diverse variety of "Mana Cages".

Mana Insulating Blanket

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: converts mana to a cozy blanket

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) charisma

At first glance, this is a thin and light, highly-refreshing blanket. It is easy for mana to stay inside of it. For beings that emit mana from the body, that is, humans and mamono, wrapping themselves up is the means of activating it. As the blanket sucks in mana it will swell like fluffy fur, and the mana confined inside will warm up, cloaking the comfy character from the cold.

The warmth of the blanket is proportional to the amount of mana the wrapped-up person emits. It is more effective if it wraps two rather than one. If it is a mamono, who emit more mana from their body than humans, the effect is yet greater. The most effective thing is for a human man and mamono to share the blanket, entwining their bodies together, circulating magical energy by kissing and mingling, releasing a lot of mana into the blanket. If a monster couple wrap themselves up in the blanket to flirt and get intimate, then even in the heavy blizzards of snowy mountains, together in a room with a fireplace, crawling into a fluffy bed, feeling their lover's body warmth while dozing off, it will bring about a warm comfortable coziness.

Also, should a human who is distressed on a snowy mountain wrap themselves alone in this blanket, a monster of the snow country will surely come to join them inside. Even if they fall asleep in the cold conditions, they can sleep in snug safety, when they wake up with a fluffy blanket, wrapped up in a fluffy Yeti's arms.

Mandragora's Roots

Harvesting Location: Mandragora mamono

Effect: aphrodisiac / stamina / cure

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) constitution

It is the root of mandragora, the plant-type monster with roots that has a female form. It has potent medicinal effects, and monsters use it as an ingredient for various obscene drugs such as aphrodisiacs and stamina boosters, while humans value it as an ingredient for a panacea to cure various diseases. However, among humans, especially in anti-monster states, it's a precious item in extremely short supply.

A mandragora's roots keep rapidly growing when she receives a man's essence. And the stuff used as an ingredient for medicine is basically roots that were cut after growing too long. Cutting roots that grow as an extension of the feet may look painful, but to the mandragora herself, the act of cutting the roots after they've grown too long is something similar to how humans clip their nails. They're easy to cut, and it doesn't seem to cause any pain whatsoever, so please relax.

Also, when sucking the mandragora's root, it has a mysterious taste that's both slightly sweet and slightly bitter that can be addictive. It seems people that like the taste find it unbearably good. In recent years, the mandragora's root has been sold not just as a medicinal ingredient, but also as a cooking ingredient.

The flavor of the root comes out through sucking, but if it's a clipped-off root, as a person is sucking it, the taste will gradually grow fainter until eventually the taste completely disappears. However, the unclipped roots of a mandragora herself will retain a thick flavor no matter how much one sucks, and it's possible to keep sucking them for as long as one pleases. Many of the husbands of the mandragoras were captivated by the charm of these roots, and it's said that they'll suck the mandragora's roots whenever they have a spare moment. There is an increasing trend for guys with a root fetish to desire to marry a mandragora due to having been enthralled by these roots.

Moreover, as mentioned before, the roots don't have any sense of pain at all, but just as you might expect from a monster, they're extremely sensitive to pleasure, and they say having them sucked feels very good. Supposedly every time their husband takes a root in his mouth and licks it will cause their entire body to shiver with pleasure, and experience rapturous delight and ecstasy.

The mandragoras love it when their husband sucks their roots. Like a plant absorbing water, they fully absorb their husband's saliva, and it's delicious to them

Marriage Collar

Harvesting Location: Dragon mamono

Effect: dragonian symbol of union

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+2) strength

This Alley sells many magical dragon ornaments. Though they are called jewelry, we Dragons had no need to adorn ourselves and showed no interest in such things, though we accumulated huge mountains of treasure. But this is Dragonia and our cities are places where dragons and humans coexist. And as for such things, we wear them to show off our wealth, and some dragons, worried about appearance, adorn themselves with them, in order to make a good impression on men. At least it is nice to receive jewelry as a gift from your man. Not only married couples, but also single unmarried dragon girls are "in awe" of such jewelry. For a dragon, it is unexpectedly seen as a woman by the man who gave these pieces of jewelry. This arouses mixed, unfamiliar, but by no means negative feelings. Among the gifts, one that is important to many dragons is the "marriage collar", which is a symbol of eternal love, as a "marriage necklace".

This collar is made by a man, but only the name engraved on the demonic silver plate requires handcrafting. While the rest, that is, decorating the collar with magical stones and dragon scales, can be done in a store. There are tens of thousands of different collar designs. Needless to say, even though it usually takes several days to make magic jewelry, there are stores that sell finished products or make custom marriage collars. You can tell by their appearance that they resemble dog collars with the image of a dragon, but we dragons wear them proudly, causing envious glances. In fact, the reason for this is easy to explain. For a dragoness to wear a mating collar, her man must be really strong, so that she recognizes him as stronger than herself... it is proof that she belongs to a real man and will serve him faithfully for the rest of her life. To a greater or lesser degree, we have our own pride and the pride of "strongest monsters," and naturally this does not change just because we have found a husband.

However, contrary to these thoughts, there is a loneliness in the back of our minds, a desire to be with a strong man and there are feelings that I want the man to understand. No, to put it simply, there is a prevalence of strength and at the same time a longing for a strong, loving man, a desire to be submissive, to be seen as their woman, and similar desires .

...I am not like that! I am the exception! Besides, I don't think such a thing should be envied! It's... it's a little embarrassing, if you understand it, it may be pleasant, but I don't want to become a subordinate...

Well, let's move on! If you continue to be in a place like this, you might be attacked by a highly agitated dragon! Even if she did bring you to a dark place, you can't complain about that!

Melting Vegetable

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms (watersides)

Effect: melts mana and demonic energy

Stats: (-3) constitution & (+3) intelligence

Vegetables that only grow inside the water of Mamono Realm lakes and ponds, etc. They often grow in clusters, especially in lakes where undine live. The part corresponding to the fruit grows inside the water, and only the leaves and stem are visible from the water's surface. They're not floating weeds, yet they don't have roots in the ground. Instead, they're mysterious vegetables that grow using water as a substitute for soil, as if buried in water. One can pull them up from inside the water with the same feeling that one gets when pulling a vegetable up from the ground.

The fruit, stem and leaves of this vegetable are all comprised of a half-transparent, semi-liquid substance that's almost like solidified water given form. It seems that it actually is liquid maintaining its shape through mamono mana after all. When you extract the green-colored leaf part and stem part, the fruit is unable to maintain its shape, and it crumbles, changing into liquid.

This vegetable is extremely peculiar, and the taste has the property of changing like flowing water, depending on what ingredients it's eaten with. Every part of it is said to be the perfect accompaniment to various ingredients. The leaf part is the perfect accompaniment for the meat of mamono realm beasts, fish, etc., and when eaten together, the flavor of the juicy meat increases, and the rich taste is accentuated. If eaten by itself after the mouth has become greasy from meat, it can refresh the inside of the mouth. The semi-transparent water-colored stem is almost like a fruit, and if eaten together with other fruits or used as an ingredient in confectionery, it accentuates the sweetness to a moderate degree.

The fruit part that crumbles into liquid makes a savory sauce if put on meat. If put on vegetables, it's the perfect dressing for invigorating the taste of the raw ingredients. If put on fruit, it changes form into sweet syrup. In this way, it's an extremely convenient vegetable, but since the flavor changes right away when it is eaten with something else, it's extremely difficult to cook using the taste of the melting vegetable itself in a way that won't interfere with the other ingredients. If one could accomplish this, it would leave no doubt as to one's status as a first-rate culinary master.

The special effect of this vegetable is to melt the mana and mamono mana that's inside the body of the person who ate it, weakening resistance to mamono mana from the outside. In other words, it becomes extremely easy for the effects of charm spells using mamono mana or mamono realm ingredients that are mixed with mamono mana to kick in. For example, if a monster eats this vegetable, with leaves from the outside of a "Wrapping Vegetable", regardless of it being the part of the wrapping vegetable that has the thinnest mana, the monster will feel as if she's eaten a core and throw off her clothes on the spot. With this point, we can probably say it is after all, an excellent vegetable as "an accompaniment for mamono realm ingredients".

Also, it is said that when resistance to mamono mana weakens, human women become extremely susceptible to monsterisation. The effect of this vegetable is enough to make a human woman who has eaten it change into a succubus instantly after taking a single breath of the air of a Mamono Realm.

Mimicry Potion

Harvesting Location: Parasite Slime mamono

Effect: it's a TRAP!

Stats: (+4) dexterity

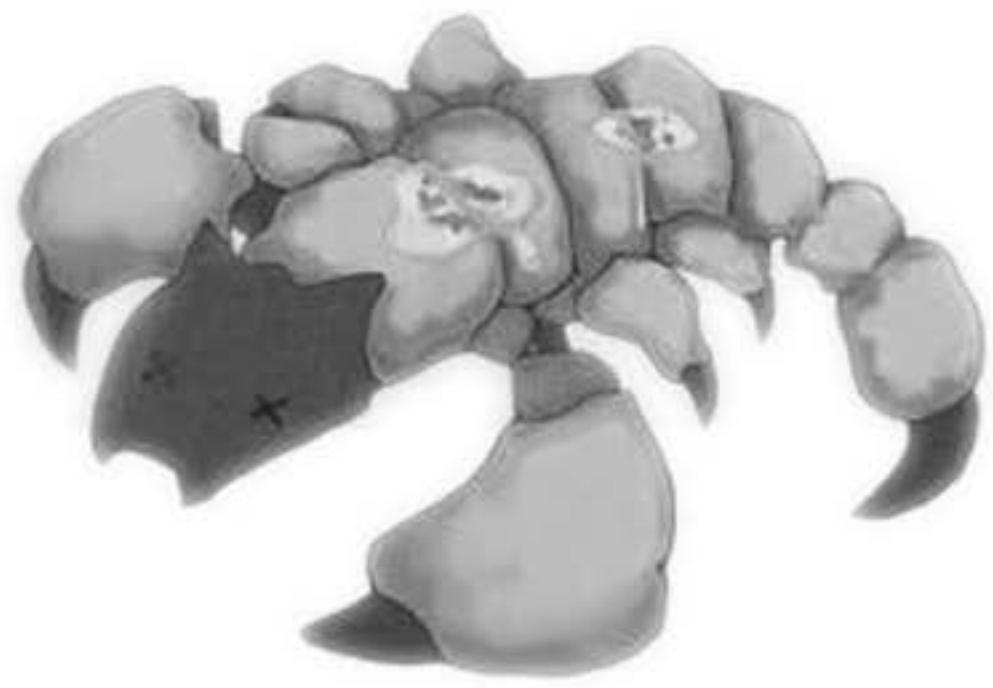

"Parasite Slime" is a slime that has a special property, namely to capture and parasitize human women. Such a woman becomes a slime carrier and attacks men like any other mamono. The mimicry potion is a parasitic slime that mimics a potion. At first glance, it appears to be an ordinary healing potion in a bottle, but if you look closely, it is not so difficult to notice the difference and perhaps even detect the presence of the parasitic slime.

If one drinks such a potion, in the case of a woman, the parasite slime will penetrate inside her body and instantly turn her into a mamomo, a "slime carrier." But the danger of this potion lies in the "ability to powerfully tempt people," which this slime gained by absorbing the mamono mana of Druella. In a normal situation, it is relatively easy to see that this potion is a "cursed object" that would turn a human woman into a mamono, as mentioned above. Normally a person would not drink this potion, which has a strong, thick and sweet aroma. But those who have been exposed to the powerful mamono mana of Lescatvie, whose body is seized by heat, will take the healing potion like an oasis in the desert and want to drink it. If you take the bottle, practically melting from the heat of your body and open the cap, your thoughts will dissolve in the sweet aroma and you will be carried away by the drink until you empty the bottle to the bottom.

If a man swallows this potion, he will not turn into a monster, like a woman, but the parasite slime will remain in his body, making the man a new "vessel." His spirit and body will continue to heat up, and his sexual desire will greatly increase. In this new vessel, the slime will not lose its ability to tempt humans, so a wave of seductive monster magic will disperse from the man, along with a scent that will be attractive to human women. If this happens because of the nature of mamono magic, the man will become especially attractive to the girl who has feelings for him. Thus, when a male vessel becomes attracted to a girl who is attracted to him, a parasite slime will enter her body through her genitals and saliva and soon turn her into a slime carrier.

In Lescatvie, not only mamono, but all other creatures invite people to fall. Therefore, it is important to note that you should pay close attention to such things that strongly attract you and elicit the reaction "that looks delicious!"

Shelled Bug Fry

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: fried demonic scorpions

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+2) health

From time to time, hordes of "Demonic Scorpions" appear in Dragonia territory, and there have been occasions when they have ravaged the farms of monsters and their husbands. However, when the Order of the Dragon Knights began to develop, together we immediately began to fight them. In such cases, captured demonic arthropods are used whole as ingredients: after proper preparation, they are roasted on a dragon fire, served along with various sauces to diversify the taste of the demonic scorpion. The hard shell that covers the scorpions has a tangy flavor, so it is carefully baked to become a crispy crust. The meat inside the arthropod is so soft and supple that it is impossible to imagine that it belonged to the scorpion, and its taste reminds you of the best products of the sea, such as crabs and shrimp. The most important feature of this dish is the exquisite interweaving of flavors while chewing on the crispy "shell" and the meaty "body" of the scorpion, as they can have different flavors due to being baked on a dragon fire. For example, a scorpion roasted in a regular dragon fire will have a spicy crust and a very nutritious fatty body, which will increase the vitality of whoever eats it.

On the other hand, a demonic scorpion cooked in the pink flames of a Jabberwock will have a shell as sweet as a cookie, and the meat will take on a texture like that of a hard fruit because of the temperature, and will bestow a sense of sweet euphoria on whoever eats it. This dish, with a flavor that varies greatly depending on the character of the dragoness preparing it, is known as a delicacy that can only be eaten at limited times when demonic scorpions swoop down on Dragonia en masse. The day after the Dragon Knights successfully capture all the arthropods, rows of stalls open selling baked scorpions, and a festival ensues in Dragonia. At first glance, baked scorpion looks like a simple dish, but as of late it has become widely known in Dragonia. All a couple of dragon knights have to do to send the tasty treat into their mouths is grab the scorpion and bake it until it's golden brown. However, both grabbing and broiling are extremely complicated acts that require skill, and there is no guarantee that this dish can be cooked even during the big catch.

First of all, the demonic scorpions of Dragonia are very cowardly and are quick to run off at will, and shoot lust magic at anyone who gets close to them. It is very difficult to catch enough of them for cooking. The second problem is roasting. Though there are some human-sized demonic scorpions, they are mostly small, more suited to insects. And if we can't get a good aim with our dragon's breath, the scorpion will be partially burned. And the third problem is the scorpion's magical power, or rather its so-called "poison". If you just roast a captured scorpion by force, then its magical power will remain in the body and, when it is eaten, those who eat it will get so excited that they can't taste and enjoy the meal. Only when the couple can solve all these problems, through the cooperation of the dragon knight and her rider, and together capture the demonic scorpion and then cook it in the kitchen, does this dish become a symbol of their love.

Um... if it's okay with you, I'd like to ask you to bake something with my breath this year...

Necklace of Pairing

Harvesting Location: Dragon shops (dragon claws)

Effect: Repels: Fire | Strength | Magic

Stats: (-2) DEX & (+4) CHA | (-2) WIS & (+4) STR | (-2) INT & (+4) CON

Have you noticed the jewelry hanging from the necks of people walking down the street? They are magical accessories, necklaces made from dragon claws. Though they are called jewelry, they are not something we dragons can wear. They are mostly for you human beings, so I have absolutely no interest in them!

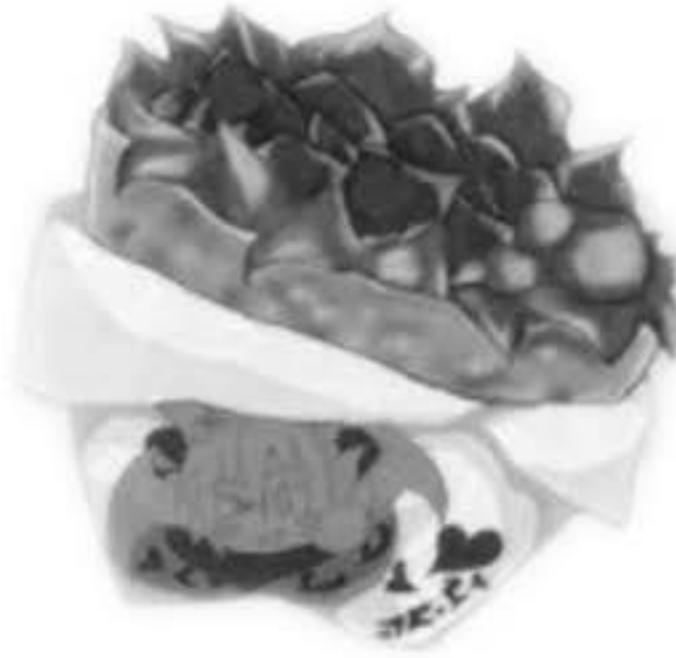

...Well, I will tell you about them, since there is a danger.

There are many stores selling ready-made necklaces and craftsmen who can create any kind of jewelry. The most important necklace for married men....ugh... dragons with a romantic temperament provide their husbands with their own claws, only to have them handled or enchanted in a store. If you bring claws in this way, just for processing, it won't cost much. However, if you want to buy the finished product, it will cost you a tidy sum, so I don't recommend this product at all! Since our wedding necklace is worn only by our beloved male dragon, the claws used to create it have magical runes on them that will accentuate their beauty. There are many different combinations: "diverting fire away," "slightly increasing strength," and there are those that give magical protection. They are filled with our dragon power, so, naturally, they work wonderfully.

But a wedding necklace is more than a simple magical object. It is a symbol of love given by a dragoness to her husband. Some of the people who come to Dragonia are adventurers or funny guys, of course I'm talking about "Dragon Hunters." They are usually interested in items that hold the power of dragons, buying the best necklaces, but... are you interested, too? I told you not to do that! There are certain things you can't buy, even with a lot of money! But, you know, there are necklaces that can be sold to a man, they only use one dragon claw. If you purchase and wear such a necklace, you will also accept the nature of the dragon who created it. In some cases, inspired by the magic of a well-made necklace, you will seek out the dragoness who created it, until you take the claw from which the claw came, with an offer that cannot be refused. Oh, the romantic dragonesses who make such things cherish these necklaces as if they were treasures, not to be lost in any way. They are their weak point.

That's why you're wrong if you easily buy this bad accessory.

Well, okay... if you admit out loud that you're so interested in necklaces, I'll consider sharing one of my claws for one of these...

Pamumu

Harvesting Location: Dragon cities

Effect: lizard & potato wrap (snack)

Stats: (-2) charisma & (+4) strength

This dish is like a hamburger and can be eaten by a couple of traveling dragons, don't you smell that gorgeous smell of meat coming through here? I find that flavor appetizing! Do you mind? You're curious too, right? This is a staple of the Love Ride stores run by Shirthiya-chan's parents and where my dad and mom work, "Pamumu!" Pamumu is a dish made with roasted demon lizard meat wrapped in a thin wheat flour dough along with dragon fire grass and an intimacy vegetable, also known as mamono realm potato. In terms of being ready to eat after ordering, it is similar to Dragon Donburi, but looks like a junk food. But unlike dragon donburi, which can be eaten to fill a void in the stomach, Pamumu is a light dish, such as a snack. The fiery grass in which the meat is wrapped is impregnated with the nectar of Alraune, so its fiery effects are tempered. Like the demonic potato, its role is to bring the pleasing texture of the dish to perfection. But, naturally, Pamumu is not a simple appetizer!

The most appealing thing about this dish is that it is cooked in front of the customer's eyes: the vendor wyvern bakes the meat immediately under the press until it is ready! The meat, which has been baked in front of you, is sliced into pieces with a knife that looks like a wonderful sword from a lizardman store saleswoman! It is then placed in the dough! Yes, the process of making Pamumu is quite a show! A thick sauce of special demonic herbs from the realm where Shirthiya's father originally lived and worked is added to the freshly cooked Pamumu. The thick aroma of the sauce rises into the sky and tickles the nostrils of all the dragons around, especially the sky-flying Wyverns. It is so appetizing that your mouth overflows with saliva. If an unmarried Wyvern were so hungry and saw a single man eating a freshly cooked Pamumu...

Unfortunately, we can't suppress our dragon instinct! She will abruptly descend from the sky to the male and take a bite out of the male's Pamumu... Don't say anything until I say everything! And don't look at me with those eyes!

To your relief, only one wyvern can bite Pamumu, and the one that eats it will recognize that male as "the master who gave me the goodies." That's why she'll feel obligated for it! If this happens, the wyvern will take the man home to reward and "return the favor" for the Pamumu that she ate, using her body profusely to do so. Together, it will be delicious enough for the man's "body" to be completely satisfied by his waifpam

Pictured and quoted above is the founder of "Tricoromille", which now has stores throughout the world. According to her, she originally used to be an unattractive, no-good human, but a prisoner fruit she happened to eat by coincidence resulted in her transformation into a succubus. With that body, she was able to get her current husband, and after that, she became possessed by the appeal of prisoner fruits, she quit working at her parents' bar, set off on her own with her husband, and then opened "Tricoromille." Supposedly, she also personally designed the uniforms.

Prisoner Fruit

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: magical energy / fatigue recovery

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+4) dexterity

This is an iconic fruit of the Mamono Realms! It's a familiar pink-colored heart-shaped fruit. The fruit is juicy, and of a pink color, almost like a gemstone. The skin is so thin that it's transparent, and the inside is packed with soft, fluffy, milk-white-colored flesh. The sweet, sticky juice that drips out contains Mamono Mana which induces hunger, not only in humans and monsters, but even beasts. It's enough to cause drooling. After tasting the juicy flesh, a succulent sweetness spreads throughout the inside of the mouth. Yet, it isn't rich-tasting, and one could probably eat it as much as one wanted. Furthermore, it's rich in nutritional value and mamono mana, and it also has the effect of magical energy and fatigue recovery.

Most people that have eaten this fruit are taken with its charms, and they end up becoming addicted to it. Especially in the case of human women, they end up becoming half-dependent on it, and will seek out the fruit, literally becoming "prisoners" of the fruit. This is the first origin of the name "prisoner fruit".

Also, the prisoner fruit has a powerful aesthetic effect, causing women who eat it to appear more attractive. In the case of monsters, even though they're beautiful or cute, and have devilish good looks to begin with, it makes them stand out even more. Not only does the aesthetic effect impact looks, it also affects everything such as gestures, behavior, scent, atmosphere, etc. It builds them up so they can seize a man's heart, ignite his passion, and make a "prisoner" of him. When their beloved man is attracted to their own body and able to pleasantly enjoy it, it causes the monsters to experience joy and ecstasy, so as far as they're concerned, the prisoner fruit is a wonderful thing. It's delicious, and it pleases their husbands. For that reason, it's been widely popular as a standard dessert among the monsters since olden times.

Also, in the case of a human woman eating it, the effects are even higher. Due to the aesthetic effect, they'll grow remarkably cuter and more beautiful. Those who notice the effect, or those who have already become a prisoner of the fruit will keep eating many prisoner fruits to taste the devilish fruit more, and become more beautiful. Meanwhile, their behavior will change to be pleasing and attractive to men. Their gestures will tempt men, and make them feel carnal desire. Their body odor will change into a sweet fragrance that men will want to constantly imbibe, and finally their mind will become full of desire and lewd thoughts like a monster.

The preparations needed for a woman to make a "prisoner" of a man are thus taken care of. Once she's become a lewd, beautiful, and wonderful woman like a monster in this way, ultimately, though still barely human, she'll attack a man like a monster and have sex with him. Once she takes in his Essence, all of the mamono mana from the prisoner fruit that was stored in her body until then will blossom, and she'll be able to transform into a "Succubus", a being that exists for the sake of "imprisoning" a man's body and heart.

In the case of a human man eating it, it makes him more attractive, and makes the aroma of his Essence more preferable to monsters. A monster that becomes a "prisoner" of a human man will end up attacking the man and copulating with him, rushing to make him her husband. In this way, prisoner fruit has the effect of raising a man or woman's ability to "imprison" the opposite sex. This is the second source of the name "prisoner fruit".

In Mamono Realms, the fruit is found everywhere, and it grows by itself in every kind of Mamono Realm. For that reason, it's the most commonly harvested and most commonly eaten fruit in the Mamono Realms. Many chefs and pâtissiers are passionate about deliciously cooking the profound prisoner fruit, and it is used to make everything from sweets such as "prisoner cake", "prisoner parfait", etc. to alcoholic drinks such as "prisoner wine".

Also, monster merchants will cheaply distribute it even in the human world. Previously, the entire Sabbath organization performed a statistical survey concerning the reasons for the monsterisation of human women, and according to that, out of all the foods of the Mamono Realm, it seems that prisoner fruit is most often responsible for changing human women into succubi.

Projecting Mirror

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: captures a moment in time

Stats: (-2) strength & (+4) wisdom

A magical mirror that reflects recollections of scenes. An image is recorded on the mirror and dwells within it using mana, then that is projected on the mirror using magic. That is, scenery and figures of people projected on the mirror are preserved, to be freely viewed later. By using more advanced techniques and skill, it is even possible to leave moving images.

"Projecting Mirror", when used together with supplementary techniques or other magical tools, can be used in a variety of ways. For example, in this magical tool there exists two magics, to "remember an image using mana" and "reproduce a recalled image". The image to be reproduced does not necessarily need to be recalled with the same mirror, because the image information itself dwells in "mana", if you deliver mana to a fellow mirror, it is possible to reproduce a scene memorized by another mirror. By applying "Transference Magic", if you transfer mana to another mirror far away, information exchange and sharing are possible across long distances. Also, by continuing to transfer the mirror's reflection in real time, it is possible to see the current scene from another mirror in a far-away place.

This magical tool, in many cases, remembers the contents of valuable stone slates that exist deep in ruins and the appearance of the "Statue of Wisdom". It is used to verify and exchange that information, and is used to record scenes that were instant and couldn't be memorized so that they can be viewed later at will. Our sabbath also puts this to great use in magical research and information exchange, in addition, we are further applying this "Projecting Mirror" in the development of various techniques and magical tools. On the other hand, among many monsters, their partner's image, and the image of the two joined together are recorded. It has become a thing used for purposes like personal enjoyment and showing off to friends.

Among young mamono, it is said that proudly sharing the sight of intercourse with a partner like this has become popular. Surely on the other side of the mirror a friend of Momonika is also in the middle of being joined with a partner.

Pseudo-Matango Mushroom

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm (humid forests / caves)

Effect: hallucinate / hypnotic

Stats: (-2) constitution & (+2) wisdom

A Mamono Realm mushroom distinguished by its red cap with a pattern of white spots. As the name suggests, the color and pattern of the cap are the same as that of the monster known as matango, and they look identical to the mushrooms that grow out of their bodies. Additionally, out of all the damp forests, they're more often found in the lands where matangos dwell. They scatter a large amount of spores like the matango, but they don't parasitically infect humans or draw human men to their location or change women into matangos.

However, the spores have a powerful orexigenic effect that will make the pseudo-matango appear delicious. Regardless of whether they're human or monster, the person who inhales a spore will become highly likely to consume the mushroom. For that reason, they are prized even when one has little appetite, and these mushrooms are also used in cuisine.

They're soft mushrooms that are so sweet that they can cause one's head to feel fuzzy and they have a texture that is springy and chewy. But these mushrooms also induce a potent effect without exception. They have a kind of hypnotic effect. After tasting sweetness that's enough to make one's head feel fuzzy, one's head really will start going fuzzy. The effect is especially potent on monsters. Monsters that eat these will hallucinate as if they were a matango due to the hypnotic effect, and their head will become full of thoughts of their beloved man's mushroom. Naturally, their fuzzy thoughts will turn towards filling their vagina with his penis, and they'll be intent on spending their time joined with their beloved man. Once their vagina is full, they won't even want to think about removing it until the effect wears off. They'll wrap their arms around a man and embrace him, and wrap their legs around his waist to try to fix themselves in place so he can't pull out.

A Vampire after the effect of eating the mushroom sets in.

In the case that a man consumes the mushroom, he'll want to be joined with his beloved monster and woman, and aside from that, in the case that one of the two partners consumes the mushroom, the mushroom's Mamono Mana will transfer to the other partner due to deep kissing, and the other partner will end up in the same state. A couple intoxicated in this way will spend their time joined together until the effects of the mushroom expire regardless of whether they're asleep or awake. They can relax leisurely while enjoying the pleasure and warmth of one another's bodies. It might be a good way to spend one's day off when the weather's nice.

Additionally, this is concerning the reason why it resembles matango. There are a lot of them growing in the places where matangos live. According to some whispers, they may be matango spores that were unable to achieve their objective of reaching a human man or woman to be inhaled, and sprouted as a different plant species that's not a monster after a sudden mutation. It is said that the way the spores have an orexigenic effect that makes them look delicious may also be a vestige of how a matango would make a man inhale her spores to make her body look more attractive to try to get him to have sex with her, but as of the present, it hasn't been concretely proven.

In this way, once the husband has awakened as a male beast, there won't be any way a monster can win when she's a female beast that belongs to her husband.

Raging Mushroom

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm

Effect: consumes mamono mana / sadist

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) strength

These Mamono Realm mushrooms have a remarkable ability to survive. Many can be found in damp forests and caves, yet these startling mushrooms that stand erect with a masculine appearance can even be found in harsh environments such as desert and volcanic regions, and frozen tundra. The part that looks like blue veins rising from the surface of the mushroom is something that formed because of the Mamono mana flowing through there. It is supposed that the more blue veins there are, the higher the quality of the raging mushroom. It has a spicy taste, which is unusual for a Mamono Realm food, and it's used to accent a dish. According to the monsters of Zipangu, it goes very well with their staple food, which is white rice.

Basically, monsters have vastly superior physical abilities than humans. Unless a person is a thoroughly trained warrior or hero, they won't be able to beat a monster in a simple test of strength. This mushroom has the shocking power to reverse the status-quo. But it's not as if a human man who eats this mushroom will be able to obtain the freakish strength of a dragon just like that. To be more accurate, it causes the mana naturally released from a man's body to have the quality of severely weakening a monster's physical strength. Because of this, even a frail, scrawny, sickly, whelp of a man can appear to boast freakish strength and defeat Dragons and Minotaurs in a contest of strength.

However, it's not as if it can affect any given monster. Because the mana works in a peculiar way to exhibit the effect, unless a monster intentionally accepts it, it won't be effective. In other words, if the monster being dealt with was the wife of the man who ate it to begin with, or if the monster had intended to attack the man, or if the monster felt ready for sex. That is, it's only effective on monsters that are prepared to receive a man's mana, and it's completely ineffective on others such as those who have their heart set on someone else, those who have a husband, and those with no interest in that particular man whatsoever.

Be that as it may, unmarried monsters will generally attack to copulate with men, so this mushroom should be effective against most available monsters. For that reason, there was a military unit in The Order of the Chief God that noticed the effect, and tried to use it to vanquish monsters. However, this mushroom has another effect which causes men to become violently passionate and lose their rational mind, filling their head with nothing but plenty of thoughts of mating with the female in front of them, effectively making them like an aroused male beast. Thanks to that, it can't be used in combat, and it is said that the soldiers of the order that headed off to vanquish monsters turned the tables on monsters that attacked and tried to rape them, raping them instead, and thus, they definitely became their husbands.

If a man eats this mushroom, he can turn the tables on any kind of monster that attacks him, pushing her over with what appears to be overwhelmingly superior physical strength and unilaterally raping her. Also, when men eat it, it also has the effect of exciting the penis more than usual, causing their erections to tower with great size and thickness. No matter how ferocious and sadistic she may be, a monster raped with such a penis will learn the joy of being violated as a female and raped by a male of overwhelming power, and she will develop a masochistic disposition and desire to be raped. In fact, I yearn for this a bit myself.

Once she's been treated like this, a monster won't be able to forget it, and she'll become enthralled with being violated by her stud. For that reason, it appears that huge amounts of these mushrooms are bought up by such monsters all at once.

Additionally, if a monster eats this mushroom, her ferocity will remarkably increase, and she'll become a sex crazed beast and attack a man. Even timid monsters like "Cockatrice" and innocent monsters like "Alice" will intently attack and copulate with men like wild beasts, so it can be used to spice things up for a fresh sexual experience. Also, if a human man and a monster eat these mushrooms at the same time, it'll be like a clash of two beasts, but the monster won't be able to overpower the male due to her strength weakening, and the human man will definitely end up winning and violating the monster.

Ryudon

Harvesting Location: Dragon cities

Effect: dragon donburi / stamina boost

Stats: (-2) charisma & (+4) dexterity

Dragon steak is quite good if you're replenishing your energy for intercourse with mamono, but it takes time and energy to prepare. It usually takes the restaurant some time to serve the dish. As for me, I would suggest getting this Ryudon, which can be served immediately at any time. For Ryudon, the meat of mamono realm lizard has been cut into pieces and slowly simmered along with "Dragon Fire Grass", a mamono realm herb shaped like a blazing flame, and "Tail Leaf" which resemble a dragon's tail. Traditionally, it is served with white rice, placed on top of the rice in a bowl. This is one of the features of this dish, thanks to which you can quickly serve a bowl of freshly cooked donburi to visitors using pre-cooked meat. Like dragon steak, donburi bowl is a dish that uses meat from a demon lizard, but unlike steak, which only uses meat from a certain body part, donburi can use meat from any part of the demon lizard: its paws, thigh, back, sirloin. In some cases, even its tongue is used - each part of the body has its own specific flavor.

Of course similar dishes are cooked in all the Mamono Realms, but does that stop you from enjoying the delicious meat? The fresh herbs that are served with the meat have a nice crunchy texture and in the mouth when combined with a piece of meat gives a completely different flavor and it is certainly not a common vegetable. Dragon Fire Grass, also known as "fever grass," raises the temperature of the person who eats it and at the same time causes a faint feeling of arousal. If you eat demon lizard meat along with the fire herb to replenish your energy, your body will gradually become hot, and by the time you finish eating, fiery flashes will burst out of your body. There is only one obstacle for them: the clothes you are wearing. Then, when a man throws off his clothes, the first thing he will notice is some change in himself...a raised bulge of underwear just below his belly. Tail Leaves, which were eaten in a feverish rush, has the effect of stimulating the male genital and making it assert itself. If one of the dragonesses around him notices this condition in a man she likes, she will take it as an animal desire of the male who himself invites her.

Hehe, you understand? If Dragon Steak is a dish made "to eat a dragon," then Ryudon is a dish "to be eaten by a dragon." Even men who do not know how to attract a dragon, but can digest food quickly, can have mercy on the dragoness with this bowl of Donburi What? This is for you, eat well, my treat, don't be shy! I'll take responsibility for all the things that follow...or maybe the desire for this unforgettable event is what attracted you to the restaurant?

Can Shoggoths create slime jellies as well?

They can create slime jellies, but they don't let anyone eat them except their husbands. Just like when they create furniture out of themselves, it seems like they get off getting eaten by their husbands! In case of unmarried Shoggoths, eating their jellies means you'll be a target for becoming a future husband. (KC)

What would slime jelly from parasite slime look like? If a human female eats it and becomes a slime carrier, what would it taste like?

I think it would be peach flavor. I think that when she eats it, her sense of taste will melt away with her thoughts and she will become a slime carrier. (KC)

What would those faces seen on slime jelly, dark slime, and parasitic slime look like if they were considered realistic?

It's like a face printed on the surface of the jelly... In other words, it's a realistic but deformed face. (KC)

Does the aphrodisiac effect and strong dependence of Bubble Slime remain even if you make it live in a clean place and eliminate the strange odor?
It will remain because that is the original ability of the bubble slime. (KC)

Slime Jelly

Harvesting Location: Slime mamono

Effect: varies based on the type of slime

Stats: Blue (-3) intelligence & (+2) health

Stats: Red (-2) intelligence & (+2) health

Stats: Green (-4) health OR (+4) health

Stats: Purple (-2) health & (+4) intelligence

Stats: White (-2) dexterity & (+4) constitution

Stats: Yellow (-2) wisdom & (+4) strength

It's a portion of slime cut away from the excess part of a slime or one of its variants. When put in the mouth, a cool, refreshing taste spreads throughout it. There are many variant races in the slime family, and the taste and properties of their slime jelly are each somewhat different.

It is not uncommon for slime family monsters to feed their husband a portion of their own body. However, since they fundamentally hate it when anyone other than their husband consumes their body, it's a bit difficult for humans other than their husbands to obtain "slime jelly". For that reason, if one wants to get jelly from them, it's best to either sneak close without them noticing and collect a small amount of the excess slime, or negotiate with their husband to get him to convince them.

Furthermore, after losing an excess part, slimes will often have sex with their husband immediately and keep absorbing mana until they restore the part that they lost, so when trading for slime they will be pleased if you bring something that will function as a stamina booster such as mamono realm produce or medicine.

Slime Jelly (refreshing / dumbing effect)

Standard slime jelly with a distinctive refreshing taste. They have the lowest intelligence of the slime family and they really hate it when anyone other than their husband eats their body, so there may be some troubles obtaining it. Additionally, "queen slimes" were originally slimes to begin with, so their jelly also has the same flavor. They are highly intelligent and social, so negotiation would be easier compared to a slime.

Red Slime Jelly (sweet / dumbing effect)

The distinction is that it's a bit sweeter compared to slime. They're a bit smarter, so negotiation may be a bit easier.

Bubble Slime Jelly (sweet & sour / aphrodisiac)

An exquisite product, with the perfect balance between sweetness and sourness. The aphrodisiac compounds are highly addictive, and if a human man consumes this, he'll be headed straight for a future as a bubble slime's husband. Considering where they live, at a glance, it might seem like there may be some health concerns, but they concentrate all the toxic waste and filth that sticks to their body in the excess portion that touches the ground, and they always take care not to let poison or filth reach their beloved husband. Also, since they keep the stuff they feed to their husband especially clean, there are no health concerns. However, in case one were to collect it without them knowing, there is a possibility of getting the part that's concentrated with toxins. Since eating it would wreck anyone's stomach, it's best to always try to negotiate and get them to share.

Dark Slime Jelly (thick & sweet / demonic mana)

It has a thick taste with melting sweetness. They have the highest intelligence of all slimes, and it's extremely easy to negotiate with them, so they'll probably gladly share their jelly. However, since they'll try to give stuff thoroughly concentrated with mamono mana, most human men that consume it will be headed straight towards becoming a dark slime's groom, and a woman's body will melt on the inside, changing her into a dark slime.

If an incubus or monster consume it, it will cause their mind to melt into syrup, and they'll end up continually having sex until both their body and heart melt. For that reason, I recommend you take the opposite approach from the bubble slime, and secretly collect it.

Nureonago Slime Jelly (springy with a hint of sweetness)

Also known as nureonago mochi. Unlike the other slimes which are half-transparent, it's distinguished by being opaque white, and it has a springy texture and is faintly sweet. Negotiation is rather easy.

Humpty Egg Slime Jelly (nutritional fortification effect)

This has a flavor and taste similar to eggs used for food. It is very nourishing, and has a nutritional fortification effect. The body of a man who eats it will produce so much semen that if he does not ejaculate, it will just leak out in a sticky mess. It is purported that if one feeds it to their husband while having sex, no matter how many times he is milked, he'll never run out of semen. It is highly popular as an ingredient in sweets in Wonderland.

Slime Nostrum

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: slime elemental / potion

Stats: (-2) charisma & (+4) constitution

A magical potion made by mixing the surplus part of a slime, "Slime Jelly", with various chemicals. It is a very thick, liquid potion, whose color is various types of blue, red, purple or pink. When a human man drinks it, he will release a mucus resembling a highly viscous semi-liquid "slime" from his body, and will be able to freely manipulate it.

When it enters the man's body by drinking it, the slime is absorbed into the body, and mixes with the man's mana to become one. After the man lets loose his own mana outside the body, he can transform it into a mucus-like slime, and manipulate it with his own will. In other words, this magic potion makes men's mana have the nature of "slime", and is said to be close to the feeling that it becomes possible to use "slime creation and manipulation magic".

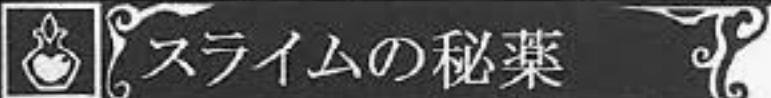

Due to its high viscosity, the slime can entwine and restrain your partner. In addition, by strongly putting in mana it is also possible to melt things other than living beings, and it is also possible to dissolve only clothing and armor without harming your partner's body. Although it is a magical potion considered to have various uses, naturally because monsters give it to men to drink to enjoy intercourse with their partners, the main use is for women to be overrun, wrapped up in, and toyed with by mucus during sex.

This slime is the mana of a man, that is, a monster's favorite food, essence, transformed into a slime state, and by using it on a monster companion, it brings irresistible pleasure. In addition, by soaking in from the skin or otherwise being absorbed into the body, it works as a powerful aphrodisiac that melts the mind and robs it of thinking ability, making the body burn and become extremely sensitive. The freely expanding and contracting slime can wrap around their body's favorite places and caress them, and just from its persistent sticky sensation, they experience pleasure and ecstasy as if they are completely coated in their partner's semen, and their body begins to strongly burn. The slime can also slip into any of a woman's holes, it is possible for it to enter from the mouth or vagina, and caress them from the inside. The slime that slipped into the body boosts the sexual feelings of the vaginal walls, uterus, and mouth with a more powerful aphrodisiac effect, and just by lightly rubbing the interior, the sticky mucus easily brings them to climax. The slime that entangled in the back of the throat and entered the womb, because of its mucus-like quality, will be absorbed over a much longer time than the usual essence. The sensation of that siphoned essence is as if the mana of the man that is their partner is trying to slip into them, and as long as the slime remains, it will bring persistently sticky pleasure and ecstasy.

Furthermore, the slime produced by this magical potion has the power of "essence siphoning" that captures your partner's mana, and the feeling of the slime sucking mana is also brought to the man that manipulates it. That is, by wrapping the slime around monsters, it will take in a small amount of the mana that monsters emit, and if it invades the mouth or vagina, it will absorb the thicker mana contained in saliva or love juice. If you take in the mana of a monster, the pleasure brought by "essence siphoning", and of course the feeling of the swelling body heat and lust due to the effect of erosion, makes a man's thoughts and reason easily melt like slime. Even if you try to use this magical potion for the sake of restraining an attacking monster, from the moment you entwine with that body, a pleasure close to "sex" is brought. The more you touch a monster with slime, the more you wrap around that body, the more you caress it, the more you slip into it, that pleasure is strengthened, and the man's thoughts will melt into slime, coming only to think about indulging in the pleasure of sex. In the end, from the moment of extending this slime towards a monster, no matter what it is or for whatever reason, acts outside of joining with a monster are impossible, and becoming a prisoner of sex with a monster's flesh is unavoidable.

In addition, this magical potion is made for men with a strong ability to produce mana inside the body, and when a human woman drinks it, all of the mana in the body becomes "slime", and then she transforms into a monster of the slime genus such as "Dark Slime". Also, if a man that drank this magical potion slips slime into the body of a human woman, the slime may remain unabsorbed, in which case, the slime will propagate within the woman and start to have a will, and there is a possibility the woman will change into a "Slime Carrier".

Statue of Wisdom

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: knowledge / enlightenment

Stats: (-2) intelligence & (+4) wisdom

A stone statue made by etching "Knowledge" into it with magical power, and it can give that knowledge to those who touch it. It was created with the goal of long term preservation of "knowledge", that is, "information" and correct conveyance of that knowledge. Among magicians, imitating the figure of an owl, the symbol of wisdom is most preferred, but in some cases there are also those in the shape of goddesses or evil fiends. The shape varies depending on who leaves behind the statue. At any rate, it resembles a normal stone statue at first glance.

The knowledge engraved in the statue will flow directly into the head of a person who touches it, and is conveyed very accurately. If it is a statue that has preserved a previous event, they will know the event clearly as though they actually saw it, and if it is a statue that preserved a magical art, a person with proper qualifications can master that magic by touching it.

The amount of knowledge that can be etched into a statue is proportional to the size of the statue. Also, because miniaturization advances alongside the advancement of magic, older statues tend to be larger. Deep inside of ruins in unexplored territory, enormous "Statue of Wisdom" like beings are enshrined in the temples of gods, that in many cases are engraved with important and valuable knowledge, such as one part of the history of ages long past, or an ancient lost magical art.

However, there are cases where the volume of information being poured directly into the head is too much, such as the knowledge of very long histories of long past eras, or extremely complex and difficult to understand magical arts. In a case where a person who cannot tolerate the volume of knowledge touches it, they are unable to acquire the knowledge naturally, and they will experience an unpleasant swirling feeling in their head, and collapse for awhile on the spot. Also, in some cases there are conditions for determining if one can acquire knowledge, in that case, excepting a predetermined specific individual, person possessing a special bloodline or certain mamono races, a similar phenomenon will occur. In this manner, even if you find a "Statue of Wisdom", there are limits to who can acquire that knowledge. For example, though the Order of the Chief God controls several "Statues of Wisdom" said to be engraved with the events of mythical times, there is no record of someone who has succeeded in attaining knowledge from those statues.

In addition, the existence of "Statues of Wisdom" has become a great source of income for those in the occupation of "Adventurer". That "knowledge" itself is of course preciously valuable, and there is an abundance of escort jobs for clergymen and scholars that seek the "Statue of Wisdom". Also, if you are able to discover a "Statue of Wisdom" that isn't known to anyone, even if the adventurer himself did not attain knowledge from the statue, it seems the very information that "The Statue of Wisdom Exists" can be exchanged for as much gold as one wants. However, where Statues of Wisdom exist, in many cases it is the dwelling of monsters aiming to obtain men seeking knowledge, and monsters who have come along worried about men fainting from the statues.

Furthermore, the "Statue of Wisdom" has a weakness, you cannot distinguish whether or not a statue is a "Statue of Wisdom" based on just appearance, together with the fact that it is impossible to discern the contents of knowledge engraved into the statue. It's a different story if there are documents indicating the contents or a stone monument remains with the statue, but if such a thing does not exist, you cannot know what kind of knowledge is engraved until the moment you actually touch it and receive the knowledge. In addition, because that knowledge is poured directly into the head, once you touch it you cannot resist "Things That are Known", and it is burned into memory to the extent that it cannot be forgotten easily. Among "Statues of Wisdom", there exist those that are engraved with inma knowledge that easily shakes the spirit and values of humans, and "Nymphomancy" techniques that, depending on one's lust, activate of their own accord. It seems there is no need to explain to the reader who has continued to read this book, what happens to those who touch it.

Sticky Mushroom

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm (wet forests / caves)

Effect: knowledge / enlightenment

Stats: (-2) dexterity & (+4) charisma

A type of Mamono Realm mushroom that grows in the damp places of mamono realms that is distinguished by having a flat cap covered in sticky viscous liquid. The sticky texture is distinct, and the unique bittersweet taste continues to linger persistently in the mouth. These mushrooms constantly secrete sticky goo which continuously trickles down, so the sticky stuff won't dry out, and even if you wash them, they soon go back to being sticky again. For that reason, many dishes have been devised that utilize the viscosity, such as the highly sticky and exquisite "sticky mushroom soup".

Unlike in the case of fruits and vegetables whose effects appear bit by bit very gradually if one continues to eat them, edible mamono realm mushrooms are distinct in that they cause extremely noticeable effects to occur immediately after eating them. If a human man eats these sticky mushrooms, his semen will become thick and sticky like the mushroom. And not only will his semen become sticky, the "Essence" contained within will also become highly sticky. If this essence is released inside the mouth or the womb, the semen turned sticky goo will continue to remain for a while, and even after the semen is absorbed, the essence will continue to adhesively stick in the mouth and vagina. The thick taste of sticky essence that's enough to melt a monster's brain, and the pleasure of having her beloved husband's semen remain inside her body, will continue to persistently provide ecstasy.

Also, if this adhesive semen gets on her skin, essence will continue to remain even after washing it off, and a monster will continue to be covered in the thick fragrance of her beloved husband's essence. (The semen odor is completely eliminated, and only the scent of essence which can only be sensed by monsters will remain, so husbands, please relax and go for it.)

In this way, it has the effect of causing essence to persist. Depending on the quality of the sticky mushroom, the essence might last for 3 days, or at best, an entire week. For this reason, it is popular among the soldiers and knights of the Mamono Lord's army to feed these sticky mushrooms to their husbands before they set forth on expeditions. By having their husband pump them full of plenty of semen all night long after he's eaten a sticky mushroom, they're able to accumulate a quantity of essence that will persistently remain in their body almost like how animals would store up nutrients before going into hibernation. And then, during the expedition, the essence will continue to remain, numbing their feelings of loneliness while they're unable to see their husband during the campaign, and providing a boost in physical and magical abilities, as well as healing.

Also, in recent years it has been suspected that having semen continue to remain in the womb may bring about a boost in fertility, so monsters have high hopes. And for that reason too, these mushrooms are becoming more common at the dinner table.

Additionally, in the case when a monster eats this mushroom, the viscosity of her love juice will increase. It will stick to her beloved husband's meat pole and the semen poured inside without letting them go, so sex that's stickier than usual can be enjoyed.

Succubus' Key

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: bedroom key / protected room

Stats: (+2) charisma (can only be used by a succubus)

A small key made of metal that shines pink. It is used as a "Bedroom Key" by Succubi and other monsters, and places magic on the room that human males are brought into, creating a space that none may enter except for the two of them. A lock is not required for this Succubus' Key, any "room" targeted can be locked, and it will become the sole key that can open it.

By inserting this key made of Mamono Realm Silver into a door, as if the door has become liquid the tip of the key sinks in, and it becomes possible to twist the key to close like when using an ordinary key. The power of the key effects not the door but the entire "room", it protects against all intruders from the outside, for example, even if invading from the door or window, or breaking the walls or ceiling etc. disturbances cannot enter the pink haze. Any room can be used as long as it is a "room", naturally this includes one's own room, all the way up to a room at an inn and the confessionals of churches, all of them become sacred love nests for inma to bring men.

Though it is an extremely strong key, conditions are required to use this key to its full extent. As it is called the key of the "bedroom", the effect only manifests under the condition that two people consisting of a man and a mamono, or otherwise a single man and several mamono enter the room, and it is locked from the inside. This is because the closed space created by the key is preserved by the mana generated by the circulation of mana between men and mamono. Therefore, in the case that there is only one man or mamono in a room the power of the key cannot be used, also, even if a man and mamono are together in a room, if they don't touch at all, or time is spent without joining at all, after a while the magical effect put on the room will become lost. However, as long as the conditions are met and the man and mamono touch each other's body in a closed "bedroom", continuing to have intercourse, then certainly physical keys and destruction mean nothing, and even the archeomancy "Magic of Unlocking" will not apply.

In addition, even if you lose the key in the room or broke it, you can easily leave the room by waiting until the magical effect put on the room disappears. However, for that to happen you of course cannot have sex, and acts like getting intimate together in the same bed are also out of the question, you cannot touch each other so that the circulation of mana does not occur, you have to stay separated. However, a mamono locked together in a confined "bedroom" with just her beloved partner cannot put up with doing nothing. Also, there is a tendency for the mamono and her partner to get the idea "why not just have sex for now?", and because there are many things you completely forget while in the ecstasy of intercourse such as a lost key, in the end, it will take a great deal of time to come outside.

Succubus Nostrum

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: inma power/ monster mana

Stats: (+2) all (your active harem mamono)

Pure condensed "Succubus" mana, made into a liquid potion. It has a bewitching hue like a mixture of pink and purple. Within the body of all monsters dwells the mana of Succubi that brings the beautiful figure of a woman and nature of inma. In other words, "Succubus Nostrum" is an existence that can be said to be the crystallization of the power of inma brought to all monsters from the mamono lord. By drinking "Succubus Nostrum", monsters can raise their own inma power and activate their monster mana. As the devilish charm that resides in that beauty gets stronger, nymphomancy, including "seduction spell", will exhibit a higher strength. Also, as a result of rapidly enhancing the power of erosion possessed by monster mana, monsters with "the power to make human women become monsters" will be able to transform women more easily, and change them into even lewder monsters.

When "Succubus Nostrum" is given to humans to drink, it brings instant incubization for men, and instant monsterization to women. Also, due to the thickness of the mana contained, it also exerts high effects on things besides humans. If you dribble it onto a plant, it will transform into a monster realm plant, and if mixed with a potion, it will show a lewd effect no matter which one it is. By giving it to animals such as cats and dogs, monsters such as "Cu Sith" and "Cait Sith" are produced, and if you dribble it onto objects, even artifact spirits such as "Chochin-Obake" and "Karakasa-Obake".

Temptress' Bell

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: target becomes possessed

Stats: (-4) constitution & (+4) dexterity

A lovely magical bell with a string attached. It is not a bell that tempts mamono, it is a bell that holds the power to invite men's "Demons". By pulling a string connected to the bell you can make a noise ring, and the bell in name only reverberates a piercing sound.

Just as it sounds, it is only an ordinary noisy bell, but if the person ringing it rings it while thinking of a man who has become their target, then the man that heard that sound will have a magical effect brought on him. The piercingly provocative tone this bell plays is indiscreetly irritating and rubs a man's nerves the wrong way. The ringing of the bell becomes annoying, and although it will cause aggressiveness along with a sense of anger, irritation and aggressiveness will be completely transformed into lewd desire and impulses by the magical power of the bell. In other words, it is a bell with the power to tempt men to have extremely aggressive carnal passion, and if men continue to listen to the bell, they will start to think of ravishing the partner who rang that tone with irritation and carnal lust. This bell with an extreme effect is habitually used not only by those with masochistic desire, but also those who prefer stimulating intercourse and children of mamono that perceive intercourse like playing, this is rung in order to arouse the man they have their sights on, and is for luring them into back alleys and the like to enjoy ravishing intercourse.

Moreover, except those that are specified as targets, there is no magical effect, and it is heard as just a noisy sound. Also, since it is necessary to specify a male target with clear intent to tempt, or holding a lust of masochism, even if someone who knows nothing rings the bell, in most cases the magic effect will not appear. However, if masochistic desire is hiding inside, and it is suited to a specific man, the effect may appear even if unconsciously.

Tentacle Potion

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: transform into a tentacle monster

Stats: (-6) intelligence & (+4) strength

An eerie liquid potion that changes from green to an indescribably strange purple color. It was produced from the result of research of "Tentacle Plants" which are plants native to the monster realm, and when human males drink it, it is possible to temporarily transform their bodies into countless "tentacles".

The men that changed into tentacles have their intelligence considerably deteriorated, and actions based on instinct and impulse become more noticeable than those of reason and thought. Therefore, when your partner is before your eyes, they are entangled by your male body, and you will begin to act only thinking of pumping in your children through all holes.

All of the tentacles brought by the "Tentacle Potion" can be freely moved like a limb by the will of the man. Also, all of the tentacles are reproductive organs with the same functions as male genitalia, and can shoot a liquid with the same properties as the man's semen from the tip. In addition, because the structure of the body of the tentacles is simpler than a human's, it is possible to convert much more of the mana possessed in the body into semen, and use it to spew mucus from the tips, that is, the amount of ejaculation is incomparable to usual, making both the outside and inside of monsters completely sticky and muddled. By making your partner drink this potion, all of your holes are overrun by the countless penises of your beloved husband, and you can savor the temporary bliss of being wrapped up in your husband's scent and taste from the mucus covering your whole body.

The number of tentacles is proportional to the amount of mana of the one who drank it, a man with abundant mana becomes a much larger number of tentacles. Also, the form of the tentacles basically imitates the man's penis before the change, but depending on the man's mindset, a variety of forms may exist, such as brush like shapes, things that can suck, or those that can hold you in with things that resemble a mouth etc. In general, by spending life repeatedly joining with monsters, because they have a lewd mindset that is close to monsters, more obscene shaped tentacles dwell within, and there is a tendency for a more rich variety.

Furthermore, human women and monsters do not change into tentacles when they drink this potion, and other major changes do not appear. However, it seems their limbs somehow become unable to calm down, and in the case of monsters, they will crawl their limbs around their husband's body, trying to entangle them. Moreover, if it is a human female a more striking reaction is displayed, if they somehow do not entangle their limbs around something, they will not be satisfied, and the state of being satisfied by entangling things will continue. If they put up with that impulse, the potion's effect will expire after awhile, but if they spend their time in fulfillment entangling their limbs as urged, it seems they will change into the tentacle monster "Tentacle" before they realize it.

Theriomorphosis Potion

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: transform into a beastman

Stats: (-5) intelligence & (+5) strength

A reddish-brown colored liquid medicine that always has a faint heat. It is a potion made from the research of the mana possessed by animals and monster realm beasts, and when human men drink it, it is possible to temporarily turn their bodies into "beasts". Although they are unconditionally called "Theriomorphosis Potions", there are many kinds of potion that change men into different beasts, and because the use for this potion is for the enjoyment of wild sex being raped by the husband who became a beast himself with literal animal lust, those that turn them into large and powerful beasts such as wolves and horses are preferred.

By drinking a whole dose, they transform into a complete "beast" with four legs, and by drinking half, the whole body is covered in body hair, and it is also possible to change into the form of a "beastman" that can walk on two legs like a human while having the head of a beast. Along with the increase in physical abilities, men who have become beasts accordingly have their senses of sight, hearing, and smell rapidly increased, which will make them feel well attuned to being a "male". On the other hand, as a consequence of being a beast, mental aptitude drops significantly, and if there is an invitation for a male in front of them, they cannot resist. If that happens, they will only be able to think in the spirit of a beast to mate in order to conceive a child, and the male will try to pounce and earnestly thrust their hips.

Furthermore, the men that have become beasts will give off a unique "beast scent". It is a smell also said to be a beast stench, but to monsters, it is like the concentrated body odor of men, and with just a sniff the inside of the head becomes dizzy, and the womb begins to throb and ache. In addition, the semen released by men that have become beasts also contains beast scent, and the feeling of the smell sticking to your insides when it is released satisfies the desire to be dominated by the instinct of males, and seems to become a habit.

Like the "Tentacle Potion", because it is made as a potion intended for men, powerful effects do not appear for both human women and monsters. Even if a human woman should drink it, almost no change can be seen from simply drinking it, but this magical potion stimulates the "beast's instinct" that dwells within women, and in some cases may awaken it. For example, in the case of being looked at with eyes full of animal desire from a partner recognized as a male, that is, a man they hold feelings for, at that moment the inside of the body suddenly becomes hot, shivers, and is stricken with a sense of both fear and expectation. Also, if there is something like a swollen penis before their eyes, due to the throbbing instinct of a beast, heat swiftly spreads throughout the body, along with losing their strength and being caught in place, becoming completely unable to take their eyes off of the penis that is a symbol of a male. If that happens, while breathing roughly like a beast, they will fixedly stare at the thrusting penis, and wait spread out until the male comes to mount them.

Also, this magical potion can boost one's aptitude for "Theriomancy", increasing the power of all magicks belonging to it. In addition, when a human woman repeatedly drinks this potion, it continuously stimulates the instinct of a beast, the qualities of a beast increase, and each time they drink it it becomes easier to get caught up in "Howling Force", along with beginning to show extremely high qualities to monsterize into races classified as beastmen.

Undead Grey Lamentation Mushroom

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realm (graveyards / dense woodlands)

Effect: suicide mushroom / reborn undead

Stats: (+4) constitution (GAME OVER if hero consumes)

An extremely rare mushroom that lives in dense, dark, and lonely woodlands, as well as graveyards, etc.

The gray colored cap on top of the onyx stem has a pattern that looks just like a human face. From the pattern drips a sticky fluid that's red like blood. It's distinguished by its disturbingly creepy and ominous appearance. In the age of the former mamono lords, it was feared and referred to as "the worst poison mushroom", "Death's messenger", etc. People and monsters would fear for their lives just from seeing one, their consciousness would fade if they smelled it, and those who ate it would suffer for 7 days and 7 nights before dying. It was a dreaded poisonous mushroom. However, that's an old tale. Now that the mamono realm is full of the Mamono Mana of the succubi, its poison has become quite mild.

Since these mushrooms still cause people to panic when they see them even in the current era, almost nobody dares to eat them. However, to those who have lost all hope in the world and are seeking to choose their own death, and those who will eventually die from sickness or severe wounds, the "scent of death" coming from these decadent mushrooms feels very fragrant and seems delicious. If one gives in to temptation and eats this mushroom, a delicious taste that seems out of this world, but resembles how essence tastes to monsters, spreads from the inside of the mouth, to the esophagus, and then the inside of the stomach, and they receive a shock that's like an electrical shock running throughout the body. And then, their human life comes to an end while they experience heavenly pleasure.

Once a human has died from the mushroom in this manner, in the case of women, they are resurrected as monsters such as "Zombie", and "Ghoul". (Depending on the nature of the person herself, she may instead become a "Dullahan" or a "Vampire".) This may sound contradictory, but after resurrection they joyously begin a new life as an undead, and instinctively head towards a human man seeking essence which tastes even more delicious than the mushroom they just ate.

Otherwise, in the case that the person who ate the mushroom was a human man, he will be unable to die completely, and will instead enter a half-dead state. During this time, the man will release essence that has an aroma that is highly attractive to the undead due to being mixed with the mushroom's scent of death, luring undead type monsters near. And then, after receiving mamono mana through intercourse with a monster that came to assault a man, he'll be revived as an incubus who is her husband.

Additionally, these mushrooms are simply poisonous to most monsters. If one were to eat one by mistake, her stomach would get upset, and she'd continuously experience horrible stomach pain for about half a day. However, these mushrooms are delicious treats that can be eaten by undead monsters and their incubus husbands without any stomach problems. They're especially regarded as the best mushrooms by high rank undead.

(According to a certain Vampire gourmet, it's the most delicious ingredient besides the blood and essence of her beloved husband.)

Undine Spring Water

Harvesting Location: Undine mamono

Effect: replenish energy / heal

Stats: (-2) wisdom & (+4) strength

Lake water that received the blessing of fallen “undine” water elementals. The effect of the mamono realm’s water that aids in the absorption of excess mamono mana within the body is enhanced, and it has a reputation for making the essence of one’s husband taste more delicious. It is said that monster wives buy it up whenever it comes in stock. Incidentally, it can also be used to replenish energy, or heal.

Additionally, bathing in the mamono realm’s water aids the absorption of excess mamono mana stuck on the body in the same way, and it can cleanly wash it away, so many monsters take a bath and clean their body as preparation before having sex in order to improve sex with their husband. The hot water in bathhouses made in mamono realm cities is also made from the water of the mamono realm, so many monster married couples enjoy bathing together.

Furthermore, for monsters, washing away excess energy causes their womb to throb, and also has the effect of preparing them for intercourse with a man, but for the same reason as in the case of the mamono realm’s air, monsters don’t get so aroused that they go out of their minds from this water.

Weresheep Wool

Harvesting Location: Weresheep mamano

Effect: restore fatigue/ induces slumber

Stats: health regeneration (lose a turn)

This is wool sheared and collected from the sheep monster "weresheep". The fluffy wool contains mamono mana which induces slumber, and it is best suited to be used in the manufacture of things such as beds, pajamas, and pillows. The deep, comfortable sleep induced by items using this wool can thoroughly restore fatigue and wake one up feeling refreshed even with only a short nap. If one gets solid sleep over a long period of time, upon awakening, one will feel even more refreshed; the body will feel lighter, almost as if one has been rejuvenated.

Of course, weresheep wool is a commodity that fetches a high price among monsters, and even among humans. Even if the wool is sheared, after a while it will grow back so a man who has become the husband of a weresheep can probably make his livelihood just by selling her wool.

Also, among monsters, drowsily having sex with their husband while being wrapped up together in bedding made from this wool has quite a reputation for feeling fluffy and good. Additionally, even if they have sex until late at night, with only a short nap, they're able to fully restore fatigue so when they wake up in the morning they can have their husband pour plenty of mana inside them again. This item is delightful to monsters for those two reasons.

Let's shear weresheep wool!

When weresheep wool is sheared and collected, as long as it's their beloved husband doing it, then they won't react violently. In fact they're very docile, so the act of shearing itself is a piece of cake. Let's shear gently so that our precious weresheep won't be harmed.

However, the really difficult part comes after the shearing and collection of the wool. Weresheep are normally dim, docile monsters, but that's just because they're half asleep all the time due to the somnial mamono mana of the wool they're covered in. As for weresheep with their wool sheared off, due to being released from the somnial mamono mana, their usual soft, sleepy smile will change into a smile slackened from lust and arousal, and they'll reveal their true nature as a ravenous, lustful, ferocious beast in heat.

At this time they won't be the sheep kept by their husband, instead becoming like a wolf attacking the man as their prey. They'll attack their husband and furiously violate him as if all their pent up bestial urges that were being suppressed by sleepiness until then had been released. A weresheep turned ravenous beast will be unable to be satisfied with just copulating a few times. Since she'll be intent on thoroughly milking her husband every single day, the man will end up being ravished by her and inundated with pleasure the whole time until her wool grows back.

There are effective ways of dealing with this: one is to leave a lot of the wool unclipped to a certain degree, and another is to prepare some pajamas made from weresheep wool and have the sheared weresheep put them on. If done in this way, even after shearing the wool, one can prevent them from turning ferocious to a certain degree. Then one can spend his days quietly having sex with the weresheep the same as usual.

However, if one accepts the bestial lust and ferocity of the weresheep during this time, puts up with the constant sex, and ejaculates plenty for her; then her wool will grow back more quickly, and the next time one shears the wool, its quality will have greatly improved. On the other hand, if one uses a countermeasure to prevent this behavior and makes the weresheep control herself; then her wool will grow back more slowly, and it's also possible that its quality will drop as well.

More than anything, it's very sad for a weresheep if she can't have sex with her beloved husband to her heart's content. For that reason, if using a counter measure, then instead of the weresheep attacking, the husband should be attacking her and thoroughly ravishing her just as much as she would if she had turned ferocious.

Witch's Broom

Harvesting Location: unknown

Effect: converts mana to a flying broom

Stats: (-2) charisma & (+4) dexterity

Though it seems a normal broom at first glance, it is a magical broom that can soar in the sky when straddled by those proficient at controlling mana. The staves of Sabbath's witches can be transformed into this "Witch's Broom". By putting mana into and straddling the "Witch's Broom", it floats lightly in the air with the rider, and can fly freely in the sky by the rider's floating intent.

The "Witch's Broom" is made so that witches can easily fly through the sky without having any special flight training, and due to the deeds the witches perform everyday, it is made to arrive unconsciously at one's side with broom manipulation techniques. In order to control the broom flying through the sky and draw out its maximum flight ability, control of the rider's "Hips" becomes important, that is, the "Witch's Broom" can be controlled with the same feeling as straddling a man cowgirl style. Because witches are also mamono that have instincts in joining with human men, even if it is a witch that has never straddled a broom or man, that handling technique is endowed by instinct, they repeatedly fly through the sky straddling the broom, and it grows further by repeatedly joining their partner straddling them "Cowgirl Style". That is, in order to expertly ride the broom, one must become an expert at riding on top of men cowgirl, the sense of balance on top of the broom is cultivated according to the movement of the hips shaking on top of a male companion, those that skillfully maneuver brooms are also skillful at moving their hips cowgirl style. Also, thanks to the shocking impact that is abruptly brought to their small stomach because of their companion's ejaculation, they can refine skills like intense movement on top of brooms, sudden turning, sudden stops etc.

Various kinds of "Witch's Broom" exist. Although the speed is slow, and the altitude it is possible to fly is also low, there also exists a broom for beginner use which performs automatic control of the hips to an extent that makes it possible for anyone to fly stable. While using this broom, the necessary posture and movements for straddling a broom will become a habit, and the ideal posture for feeling good while straddling men becomes possible. In Sabbath, there are also events held such as "Broom Sightseeing Flight Meetings" for human women and children to become interested in brooms and cowgirl with a playful feeling, with the goal of drawing them over to the witches.

Meanwhile, a broom for use by advanced users is different than the just lightly floating beginner use ones, boasting the highest altitude and also said to be able to match a "Dragon" in speed, on the other hand, can only be operated by those endowed with superior hip posture from performing intense cowgirl every night. Witches participating in the "Broom Race" periodically held by Sabbath do not fail to practice broom riding, devoting the majority of their day to being joined with their partner straddling them cowgirl style.

Furthermore, the "Witch's Broom" is highly related to "Cowgirl" but, as one of the symbols of immorality and lewd deeds from the beginning, it is made to be associated with "Female Dominant Intercourse" which was forbidden in the Order of the Chief God. Therefore, the "Witch's Broom" is not only just a thing associated with "Cowgirl", it is a thing to stimulate the instinct of mamono to indulge in spirit and pleasure a man by straddling him, those that frequently straddle a broom will want to more frequently straddle a man, and have a strong tendency to be a sensual and very lewd person.

In this way, the potency of the core of the wrapping vegetable is enough to make a stark naked exhibitionist out of any monster.

Wrapping Vegetable

Harvesting Location: Mamono Realms (cultivated in fields)

Effect: beautiful soft skin / nudity

Stats: (+6) charisma (discard equipped armor)

A Mamono Realm vegetable with numerous overlapping flower petal-like leaves wrapping a spherical central core. There is a propensity for mamono mana to accumulate in the middle part. The central core will take on a red glow due to concentrated mamono mana. The juicy, and somewhat thick leaves are crisp tasting, and it's delicious to eat even raw as salad. Aside from that, cooking it will increase the sweetness and tastiness, so stir-fry is also recommended. Additionally, the core is moist and squishy, unlike the crisp leaves. It feels chewy like a gummy when eaten, with all the taste and sweetness of the vegetable concentrated inside, so one can enjoy an extremely thick taste that is closer to that of fruit or candy than a vegetable.

This vegetable has a cosmetic effect on the skin. It activates women's skin, making it possible to maintain skin more beautiful and charming than normal so that men will want to suck on it. This effect brings out the various charms of white skin, brown skin, healthy skin, etc. The look and feel of the skin becomes smooth and soft, such that it will be pleasing for one's husband to touch. This vegetable is recommended for all monsters that are highly beauty conscious who want to burn their naked body into their beloved husband's eyes, or get their husband to touch their skin more.

Since there's a mass of mamono mana in the center, one can get a greater cosmetic effect from the inner leaves than the outer leaves. Of course, the central core, which is a mass of mamono mana, would have the most potent effect, but the effect is so potent that it over-activates the skin, resulting in extreme burning and itchiness. And then, it becomes unbearable to wear anything on the body that touches the bare skin due to the burning and itching. Monsters will throw off their clothing, make their fur or scales disappear with mamono mana and get stark naked. However, that alone isn't enough to relieve the body's burning and itching.

While experiencing joy and arousal from showing off their own nudity to their beloved husband and being seen, they'll press their own bare skin against their husband's skin and rub to give him a good taste and ease the burning and itching. And then, to press their skin even more closely together and make up for the energy lost by their body due to the skin's activation, they'll join together and have sex. Essentially, they try to wrap themselves in their husband's body to make up for the lost clothing.

It seems the wrapping vegetable has something like magical energy that makes those eating the outer leaves feel somewhat unsatisfied, and then they feel like eating more of the inner leaves. There is no end to the number of monsters who eat the core unintentionally and get stark naked after continuing to eat more and more of the inner leaves while knowing they'll have to throw off their clothes. In this way, the potency of the core of the wrapping vegetable is enough to make a stark naked exhibitionist out of any monster.
